The threatened secsation from the Whig Contention it only part of a system regularly contriced for a particular object. Southern Delegates will go there for no other purpose, and it is now openly avowed by some of the fugitives from the Whig caucus, that they aim at an independent organization, and deries the disruption of the sparty. I regref to say that the inten who proclaim these sentiments, and who rejote, in these rehemes, are countenanced, if not encouraged, in high quarters, within partiality and consideration which are denied to deserving and fraithful Whigs who have always challenged the admiration and enjoyed the conditioner of the party.
