DIFFICULTY WITH GREAT BRITAIN.—We have tire to what appears to be a serious difficulty he. ween Great Britain and the United States despatch reached us yesterday afternoon, we were inclined to regard it as an idle rumor; but a second despatch received last night sets the matter before us in a more authentic and serious point of view, but still very indefinite and patches; for an yet we can throw to further

"The Ohio Central Railrond was chartered in 1817, and was now ficiabed from Columbus to Zancavillo sia Newark, but it had always been and was still the with and intention of the Company to continual it on from Zancaville to Wheeling, there to connect with the Baltimore and there to connect with the Beltimore o Railroad. The line from Negark to Zan

S250,000, because that route was selected.

The superior advantages of the southern route had induced the locating committee to forego the promised aid from Wheeling and choose that route in anticipation of receiving assistance from other sources. Mr. S. then proceeded to point out the advantages of this lower route, one of which was the saving of distance in passing from Columbus to any point, east of Wheeling on the Baltimore and Ohio road, and as the connection with this road was their principal aim, this advantage had a preponderating influence on the Company. Mr. S. next read a letter which he had received in his official capacity from a member of the Pennaylvania Railcoad Company, of fering aid, in the way of a loan, if the Ohio Ceareal Company would continue their work from Zanesville to Steubenville, on the Ohio civer, instead of to Wheeling, so as to afford the Pennaylvania Company a connection with the works of Central Ohio. This letter held out everal other indocuments besides the loan, but Mr. S said the Ohio Company had refused to accept the preposition, and replied that it had been and was still their intention to connect with the Baltimore and Ohio Road.
