has been up to this date, more than that number He also places the receipts of June at about $1000 been secured in the first instance, as both loss of less than they actually were, as will appear by a operected statement in our paper some days ago, and which he has most probably seen. It also happens, unfortunately for his character as an Engineer, and, what is more import-ant, as an honest and fair man, that he has made his comparisons with finished roads, having all their facilities for a regular through busines, and has willfully forgotton to state, that the Ohio and Pennsylvauls road, in its unfuished state, has no western .connections, and has to depend solely upon a local trade for its support. Mr. Ellet venture to make his comparisons when the road is finished, os dare he make them with any unfinished road, of the same length in the country? In Mr. Ellet's previous article, he stated that the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad "twisted about through the Western Reserve," and in the number now under review, he exhibits his gros ignorance, or rather his reckless habit of in the following language:

"Leaving the [Allegheny] depot, the first di-rection of the road was towards the city of Cleveland; lying perhaps one hundred miles of, on a northwestwardly course!"

rection of the road was towards the city of Cleveland; lying perhaps one hundred miles of, on a northwestwardly course!" Our friends of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, which terminates for the present 45 miles from this city, and 100 from Cleveland, who claim that they, have the shortest line to Pittsburgh, will be quite alarmed at Mr. Ellet's aputation of distances. If Cleveland is only miles off, the Warren and Mahoning road will be apt to find it out, and then what been of the Wellsville route! Is it not a little singu-lar that Mr. Ellet should add to the length of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad, "open and the output and sumsy teams realized, "open and in use," inserty four miles, and should aborfen the real distance between Pittaburgh and Cieve-land, some forty miles." Is it not strange that he abould size that the read "twists about through the Western Reserve," when it does not touch it be screen blue in a state about the touch it by several miles in any part, and should present a gross carricature of the line for actual facts?

The people of Philadelphia are high-minded ad honorable. They despise meanness and iyisg, and scorn the man who would make use of his reputation as an Regineer, to deceive them by distortion or wilful misstatements of facts. How can they believe. Mr. Ellet's statements dilema he choises. Either is ruinous to his ruinous to hi of sticks were thrown in, but the waves carried the President gave audience to a delegation of them in the wrong direction. If caught, they Pueblo Indians from New Mexico; that is, in-
