PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

THE BOY AND MAN.

BY THE REV. A. G. ARNOTT.

A few years ago there was, in the city of Boston, a portrait painter, whose name was Mr. Copley. He did not succeed very well in his business, and considered it go to England to try his fortune there. He had a little son whom he took with him, whose name was John Singleton Copley.

John was a very studious boy, and made such rapid progress in his studies, that his father sent him to college. There he applied himself so closely to his books and became so distinguished a scholar, that his instructors predicted that he would make a very eminent man.

After he graduated he studied law. And when he entered upon the practice of his profession, his mind was so richly disciplined by his previous diligence, that he almost immediately obtained celebrity. One or two cases of very great importance being entrusted to him, he managed them with so much wisdom and ability, as to attract the admiration of the whole British nation.

The king and his cabinet, seeing what a learned man he was, and how much influence he had acquired, felt it to be important to secure his services for the government. They therefore raised him from one point of honor to another, until he was created Lord High Chancellor of England, the very highest post of honor to which any subject can attain; so that John Singleton Copley is now Lord Lyndhurst, Lord High Chancellor of England. About sixty years ago he was a little boy in Boston. His father was a poor portrait painter, hardly able to get his daily bread. Now John is at the head of the nobility of England: one of the most distinguished men, in talent and power, in the House of Lords, and regarded with reverence and respect by the whole civilized world. This is the reward of industry: the studious boy becomes the useful and respected man.

Had John S. Copley spent his school boy days in idleness; he probably would have passed his manhood in poverty and shame. But he studied in school, when other boys were idle; he studied in college when other young men were wasting their time; he adopted for his motto, "Ultra pergere," (Press Onward,) and how rich has been his reward.

You, my young friends, are now laying the foundation of your future life. You are every day at school, deciding the question, whether you will be useful and respected in life, or whether your manhood shall be passed in mourning over the follies of misspent boyhood.

Excelsior Family Soap.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE.—Cold or warm water—either soft, hard or salt—can be used with perfect success. Rub the soap upon the clothes and then put them to soak for three or four hours—then take them and rub them and rinse them out. They will require but little rubbing after soaking, and no boiling is required, as is usual with other soaps. A large washing can be done in one third less time and trouble and expense than with any other soap known. This soap is warranted not to injure in any way the slightest fibre, or the skin or any thing that it is applied to. It will remove Tar, Pitch, Grease, Paint, Tar, Ink or Stains, &c.—from any Goods, without the least injury. For sale wholesale and retail by Caldwell, Parson & Co., 239 Livingston st., New York. All orders promptly attended to.
