PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

Good Breeding.—The following anecdote is related by Mr. Walker, in his "amusing and instructive publication, "The Original," as affording a fine instance of the value of good breeding or politeness, even in circumstances where it could not be expected to produce any personal advantage.

"An Englishman, making the grand tour towards the middle of the last century, when travellers were objects of more attention than at present, arriving at Turin, sauntered out to see the place. He happened to meet a regiment of infantry returning from the parade, and taking a position to see it pass, a young captain, evidently desirous to make a display before the stranger, in crossing one of the numerous water courses, with which the city is intersected, missed his footing, and in trying to save himself, lost his hat. The exhibition was truly unfortunate; the spectators laughed, and looked at the Englishman expecting him to laugh too. On the contrary, he not only retained his composure, but promptly advanced to where the hat had rolled, and taking it up, presented it with an air of unaffected kindness to the confused owner. The officer received it with a blush of surprise and gratitude, and hurried to rejoin his company. There was a murmur of applause, and the stranger passed on. Though the scene for a moment, every heart beat, not with admiration for a mere display of politeness, but with a warmer feeling, and felt a proof of that true charity "which never faileth."

On the regiment being dismissed, the captain, who was a young man of consideration, in glowing terms related the circumstance to his colonel. The colonel immediately mentioned it to the general in command, and when the Englishman returned to his hotel, he found an aid-de-camp waiting to request his company to dinner, at head quarters. In the evening he was carried to court, at the time, as Lord Chesterfield tells, the most brilliant court of Europe, and was received with peculiar attention. Of course during his stay at Turin, he was invited every where, and on his departure, he was loaded with letters of introduction to the different States of Italy. Thus a private gentleman of moderate means, by a graceful impulse of Christian feeling, was enabled to travel through a foreign country, then of the highest interest for society, as well as for the charms it possesses, with more distinction and advantage than ever derived from mere circumstances of birth and fortune, even the most splendid.

The Reformation in Ireland.—The great change which is now going on in Ireland is a work which well nigh staggers the belief of its very friends. The evidence, however, is such as to leave no doubt of the fact that a reformation, altogether unprecedented, is now in progress in that unhappy country. We see it stated in an exchange paper that "The London Evening Journal," which was at first rather slow to believe it, is now constrained to admit that the movement is a real and most important one.

A writer in the English Review, who has himself traveled over a considerable part of the country, maintains that 50,000 converts have been made by the Irish Society and the Irish Church Mission.—Other authorities state that more than 30,000 have been converted within the last two years, and in the diocese of Tuam alone there are at present 10,000. The Bishop of Cashel reports that, on the 20th of September last, he confirmed 274 converts in one small church in the county of Limerick. This testimony is confirmed by the admissions of Romanists themselves. Thus the Dublin Evening Post says:—"We learn from unquestionable Catholic authorities that the success of the proselytisers in almost every part of the country, and, we are told, in the metropolis, is beyond all that the worst misgivings could have dreamt of." And in another of their organs we have read that "it is not Tuam, nor Cashel, nor Armah, that are the chief seats of successful proselytism, but this very city in which we live."

B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge.

THE safest and most effective remedy for Worms, in Children and Adults. One has ever been offered. The following testimony of its good effects is signed,

From Mr. HENRY OTT, Merchant,
CRAWFORDSVILLE, Indiana, Oct. 1851.

"Messrs. B. A. Fahnestock & Co.—Gentlemen—Your Vermifuge is decidedly popular in this vicinity. I could take hundreds of certificates with reference to the good effects resulting from its use, some my own examples. I cannot feelingly recommend it as good and safe article for the expulsion of worms from the system. My sales are largely increasing, having sold more this season than any preceding since I have been myself. I keep on hand several other Vermifuges, but sell more of yours than of all others.

Respectfully Yours, HENRY OTT.
