MY FATHER
When the sun had left the land
And the moon had left the sea
And the stars had left the sky
And the world was all alone
I sat alone and thought of you
And how you had grown old
And how you had grown wise
And how you had grown good
And how you had grown true
And how you had grown brave
And how you had grown kind
And how you had grown gentle
And how you had grown sweet
And how you had grown pure
And how you had grown holy
And how you had grown glorious
And how you had grown eternal
And how you had grown immortal
And how you had grown divine
And how you had grown eternal
And how you had grown immortal
And how you had grown divine
