HOME MATTERS.

ABSENCE.—Our absence from the city on the day before yesterday, while attending the Whig Mass Convention at Elizabeth, will account for any deficiencies in our local column of yesterday.

LECTURE.—Dr. Baird will deliver a lecture on Italy, to-night, at the lecture room of the First Presbyterian Church.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—For interesting Council proceedings see our first page

FARMERS.—The stalls, pens, sheds for grain, and everything pertaining to your department of the fair which will be held behind the Penitentiary next week, are fitted up in fine style. Fill them in a manner creditable to Allegheny County.

CHANGE OF ARRANGEMENT.—There will be a great rush to the fair on Tuesday, and there will doubtless be some difficulty in getting all the articles arranged, owing to which it has been determined to receive any heavy articles which may be offered, on Monday afternoon.

FARE REDUCED.—Our readers along the line of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad, will learn with pleasure that Messrs. McKnight, Speer, and McFadden, a Committee appointed by the Board of Managers of the Allegheny County Agricultural and Mechanical Society, for the purpose of consulting with the authorities of that road, have informed us that passengers and freight intended for the exhibition, will be brought up at half price. The Fair will be on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, of next week.

ANOTHER NEW CHURCH.—Pittsburgh is really a city of churches. More than three millions of dollars are invested in this description of property. St. James', (Episcopal,) is a new church, just commenced in the 6th ward, the corner stone of which will be laid to-day. It will be a very handsome structure, of the semi-Gothic order, with two spires in front. The front will be of stone, and the whole building will be finished in a plain but tasteful manner. The cost of the building is estimated at $12,000.

MANUFACTURERS.—We would respectfully call the attention of our manufacturers to the fact that the sheds, &c., designed for their accomodation, on the fair grounds, next week, are nearly completed. On Tuesday, the greatest fair ever held in Allegheny county, will begin.

Raymond's Menagerie arrived in the city yesterday, and in the afternoon and evening was visited by an immense concourse of people. The animals are large and in fine condition, and there is a great variety of them. The performing Elephant, Siam, is a wonderful beast. The Circus performance is one of the best of its kind. There will be an exhibition this afternoon at 2 o'clock and this evening at 6½ o'clock.

GIGANTIC SCALES.—Messrs. Livingston, Rogers & Co. will have on the fair ground next week, one of their mammoth platform scales, on which cattle or other bulky and unwieldy articles can be weighed.

Two unoffending Germans, named Lawrence Reis and Frederick N. Diller, were yesterday attacked by a number of ruffians on Fifth street, and beaten. Reis was struck near one of his eyes with a brick bat, after having been knocked down and beaten, and dreadfully cut. The effusion of blood was at first so great that it was feared an artery had been cut, but this was fortunately not the case. The cowardly assailants made their escape, but we trust they may yet be arrested.

CORNER-STONE SERVICE.—By Divine permission, the corner-stone of St. James' (Episcopal) Church, will be laid by Rt. Rev. Bishop Potter, this, (Friday) afternoon, at 4 o,clock, corner of Penn and Mechanic streets.

"A LITTLE MORE GRAPE."—A regular meeting of the Scott Club of the city will be held this evening at Splane's building. The Hon. S. R. Purviance of Butler, and Hon. John H. Walker of Erie, will address the Club. A full attendance is desired. The Glee clubs are invited to be present.

BY TELEGRAPH.

GEN. SCOTT'S VISIT.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 30.

We left Paris yesterday without any public demonstration, accompanied by a deputation of citizens from Lexington who arrived about five o'clock and were met about a mile from town by Gen. Leslie Coombs and a deputation of citizens. Gen. Scott was induced to descend from his carriage and enter town on horseback; he was much fatigued in consequence, when he arrived at the hotel, having spent all morning beneath the burning sun in examining the cattle at the Paris fair, apparently taking a profound interest in the exhibition, which was very fine. He was welcomed in a brief speech by Gen. Coombs, and replied thanking the citizens for the warm reception and general kindness extended to him. He excused himself from making lengthy remarks by pleading fatigue. In the course of his speech he alluded touchingly to Mr. Clay's death and was evidently much affected upon approaching so near the home of that great Statesman, his warm personal friend. He said, "I am here almost in sight of the former dwelling of the Sage of Ashland; almost in sight of his last resting place. To stand on such a spot must be sufficient to affect any one acquainted with the public career and character of that great man. How much more deeply must it touch the feelings of one who had known him personally; who has been a co-laborer with him for his country, and who has known his private worth and the friendliness and kindness of his disposition."

He concluded with a further eulogy of Mr. Clay, and retired amidst the loud cheers of the people.

Gen. Wool was then called for, and made a brief speech, also alluding to Clay, and thanking the citizens of Lexington for the kindness with which they had treated him and his chief during their progress through Kentucky.

In the evening, bon-fires were lighted, and the town partially illuminated. The General and suite will leave this afternoon at two o'clock for Frankfort, where they will sojourn over night. Gen. Scott was much fatigued this morning, but his health is tolerably good.

One o'clock, P. M.—The rooms at the Phœnix Hotel have been crowded all morning, and the streets full of carriages, with visitors to General Scott. Among the company were the Hon. J. E. Breckenridge, M. C.; Hon. George Robinson, Hon. Robert Wickliffe, Col. Williams, Hon. J. Preston, and others.

Gen. Scott this morning proceeded to Ashland, a mile from town, to call on the widow of Henry Clay. The interview was prolonged.—Mrs. Clay was deeply affected. A number of prominent Democrats were among the visitors this morning, and although there was less noise than at many other points, yet the feeling of respect and affection for Gen. Scott was evidently deep.

Gen. Wool also attracts much attention, and appeared to have many warm friends here. He has been surrounded all morning by visitors, and was waited upon by Lieutenants J. H. Morgan and Jesse Woodruff, with fourteen others, all of whom served as volunteers under his especial command in Mexico, and were present at the battle of Buena Vista. Gen. Wool also visited the widow of Henry Clay, and passed last evening at the residence of Capt. H. Johnston. Great efforts were made by the citizens to induce the party to remain another day in Lexington. They will, however, proceed this afternoon. Gen. Lawson visited the grave of Henry Clay this morning. The remains lie in the cemetery, about a mile from the village. They are at present in the family vault, but will be deposited in a separate vault as soon as a vault be raised.

Gen. Wool received a special invitation from the Democrats of Frankfort, to remain as their guest during his stay, which he accepts. There is to be a meeting of Democrats there to-night, at which Gen. Powell will attend.

The Best Liniment in use.

BUSHFIELD'S NERVE & BONE LINIMENT—This is to certify, that having sprained my ankle so as to be unable to work for a long time without the use of a cane, and after applying other remedies without relief, I was informed of the efficacy of Bushfield's Liniment. I procured a bottle of it, applied it as directed and it proved an almost immediate relief, and with one bottle I was cured, sound and well and am pleased to say to you, that it is the best Liniment I have ever seen, or is now in use.

GEORGE H THOMPSON.

Allegheny City, Sept. 10th, 1852.

Still More Testimony.

Mr. James McGuffey—Dear Sir—I wish to say to you, that from the use of Bushfield's Invisible Nerve and Bone Liniment I have saved the life of a valuable horse. He was severely sprained and bruised from being crushed by the halter, when tying in a stall in a table in East Liberty, that in the morning, all that saw him pronounced him beyond recovery. I procured Bushfield's Nerve and Bone Liniment, having heard so much about it for spraining and bruises, I commenced to use it, and the following day was able to take my horse home, and in a few days by using three bottles (that cost 25 cents each,) my horse was perfectly relieved from all his injuries, and is again fit for any kind of work.

I would further say, that I have used it on myself for rheumatism in my limbs, and also for swellings, with as good success as any of my family, and have also known of many other persons using it for the same purpose, and in every case it has proved an almost magical article in relieving and curing, so much so that it has become of such notoriety, as persons are to have a few supply before I can go out you will therefore send me six dozen by the Cars, on Monday. ROBERT A TAYLOR.
