PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

MONDAY MORNING, NOV. 15, 1852.

ANECDOTE OF THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON.—The late Lord Ward, in a letter to the Bishop of Landaff, the year after the battle of Waterloo, tells an anecdote highly characteristic of the Duke of Wellington, and which is not generally known. He says the term "Battle of Waterloo," must have been adopted for the sake of euphony, as no part of the battle reached that village, the struggle having taken place nearer to Brussels. He visited the tree near which the Duke stood for so many hours with his staff, and found it pierced with at least a dozen balls, and observed it is quite marvellous how he escaped. After the battle the Duke joined in the pursuit, and followed for some miles. Colonel Harvey, who was with him, advised him to desist, as the country was becoming less open and he might be fired upon from behind a hedge. The Duke shouted out, "let them fire away, the battle is over, and my life is of no value now."

BANKRUPTCY.—Two merchants were standing in Wall street, discoursing on bankruptcy, when one of them perceived "a real live Yankee," lumbering down the street with a knife and stick in his hand. "Now for some sport," ejaculated the merchant. "We'll ask his opinion on the subject of bankruptcy, or rather his ideas." He now hailed the Yankee with, "Hallos, friend, can you tell us the meaning of bankruptcy?"

"Well I reckon I'klin, and skin me if I don't."

"Please explain."

"Well, you jist lend me a five for about three minutes."

"Here it is friend; now proceed."

"Well, now I owe Zeke Smith, fifty cents; Sam Brown, the tailor, five dollars, for this 'ere coat, and you five."

"Well," said the merchant, "now give me my five."

"Oh, git out. I'm a bankrupt, and you come in for your share with the rest," and he left the astonished merchant.

PROPOSALS

Will be received at the Contract Office of the Post Office Department, in the city of Washington, until 3 o'clock p. m., of Monday, the 3 day of January next, (to be decided by the 6th of the same month) for conveying the mails of the United States, for five years from the first quarter day of February, 1853, in the manner and time herein specified:

From New Orleans, La., by Campeche, Merida, to Vera Cruz, about 900 miles, three times a month, in steamships. Time allowed from port to port to be three days; the schedule (subject to approval of the Postmaster General) to be proposed by the bidder.

Proposals to carry in four days, each way, will also be considered.

Two mails to omit Tampico by main line and supply, tri-monthly, by a side vessel, in due connexion, will be considered, in the event of its being shown to be impracticable to enter that port with the steamships of the line.

Proposals will also be considered for the extension of two of the above trips from Vera Cruz to Acapulco, by Tehuantepec, to be performed in seven days, thence to Panama, by Costa Rica, in seven days, thence to San Francisco in seventeen days, making the trip from San Francisco to Panama and back, in twenty-four days, and thence to New Orleans, by Panama, in twenty-one days. Same time in each direction.

Proposals for service on the Rio Grande and Gulf coast, between Brazos Santiago and Galveston, touching at Corpus Christi, and Aransas Bay, in steamboats, &c., as shown by the annexed notice, and to perform the service in a novel advertisement, but prevents detention in the Post Office, causing no delay in the mails. These routes are the best adapted for the accommodation and patronage of the Post Office authorities. No bidder may propose to carry the mail in steamboats of less than ten horse power, and the detention of mails, or important letter, probably, cannot be imputed to the contractor.

The Isthmus route, on the same line, in every style—The advertiser invites an inspection of his specimens which will be found at the Post Office and Library, in the Note and Letter paper stamped.

Specimens of Buildings, &c., taken from the original, and beautifully executed on Steel or Brass.

The advantages of this novel and extensive establishment in the United States, having secured the services of Mr. Flinn, late of the Bank Note Engraving and Printing Establishment of Messrs. Allen & Ticknor, of Boston, is prepared to execute all orders at short notice. Warrants equal to
