PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

PUBLISHED BY WHITE & CO.

PITTSBURGH.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOV. 20, 1852.

A RAILROAD TO WASHINGTON.—Some time last month, we published a communication in favor of the construction of a Railroad to Washington, diverging from the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad, in the valley of Chartiers Creek. The distance from the point of divergence would be about sixteen miles, over very favorable ground, and would cost but a small sum, compared with the great advantages it would confer upon Pittsburgh, Washington, and Wheeling. The Pittsburgh and Steubenville Company are building the most expensive part of the line, that from Pittsburgh to the point of divergence to Washington. The Hempfield Company are building a Railroad from Washington to Wheeling, so that the construction of this small link of sixteen miles would give us a continuous Railroad to Wheeling. Since the communication referred to has been published, much attention has been attracted to the project among the people of Washington and Wheeling, and we have been requested to republish it, and will do so in our next number. It is so manifestly the interest of Pittsburgh, Washington, and Wheeling, to construct this projected improvement, that we hope some enterprising person or persons will immediately take hold of it, and thus reap credit for themselves, and confer a great benefit upon the three towns and intermediate country.

SUGGART AND LAMMER'S DOUBLE ACTING RAIL ROAD CAR WHEEL AND AXLE.—This is a new improvement in car axles and wheels, which has been invented by Mr. John Shugart, of this city. We have seen a model of this improvement, which seems to us to be one of great importance. The wheel revolves, as well as the axle, and therefore when the car meets with any obstruction, the wheel revolves on the axel, and thus prevents the car from being thrown off the track. In going around a curve, the wheel revolves as well as the axle, and thus prevents the dragging of one wheel, which is so destructive to the rail and the wheel, and so great an obstruction to the train. A car thus constructed, it seems to us would pass around a curve as easily as on a straight line, and with no more wear and tear to the machinery. The proprietors are preparing a track for an exhibition of the advantages of the improvement.

FRANCIS'S METALLIC LIFE BOATS.—In our paper yesterday, in an article on steamboat regulations, it was stated that when the new law of Congress goes into operation, no steamboat will be permitted to leave port without being provided with a metallic life boat. This fact is one of great importance to steamboat men, and the question immediately arises, where are these life boats to be had. The object of this article is to answer this question, and to direct enterprising men among us to a new business, for which Pittsburgh is most admirably adapted.

Mr. JOSEPH FRANCIS, of New York, is the inventor of the Metallic Life Boat, which is the best Life Boat ever constructed, whether safety, lightness, durability, or cheapness is considered. These boats are constructed of iron. The great practical difficulty in the use of iron has been, to combine strength with lightness. This has been overcome by Mr. Francis, by plaiting or corrugating the sheets of metal of which the sides of the boat are made. This imparts all the necessary stiffness, and allows of the boat being much lighter than if made of wood. The machinery for plaiting the metal consists of a hydraulic press of immense power, and a set of enormous dies. These dies are grooved to fit each other, and shut together, and the plate of iron which is to be corrugated being placed between them, is pressed into the requisite form, with all the force of the hydraulic piston—the greatest power, altogether, that is ever employed by man.

The superiority of life boats made in this manner have been fully tested. They are lighter, more easily managed, require less repair, and last longer. Galvanized iron being used, the boats are not liable to any species of decay. The only manner in which they can be destroyed is by violence. These boats will never open by exposure to the sun and rain, and as they will not burn, they are not destroyed by a conflagration. They can never be sunk, being provided with air chambers, which keep them always buoyant.

Metallic life-boats made according to the plan and model were employed by the party under Lieut. Lynch, in making, some years ago, their celebrated voyage down the river Jorpan to the Dead Sea. The navigation of this stream was difficult and perilous in the highest degree. The boats were subject to the severest possible tests and trials. They were impelled against rocks, they were dragged over shoals, they were swept down cataracts and cascades. There was one wooden boat in the little squadron; but this was soon so strained and battered that it could no longer be kept afloat, and it was abandoned.—The metallic boats, however, lived through the whole, and finally floated in peace on the heavy waters of the Dead Sea, in nearly as good a condition as when they first came from Mr. Francis's dies.

Such boats would be invaluable on our Western waters, where so many lives are annually lost by drowning, owing to the want of boats of the right description, when a steamboat is snagged, or takes fire. They will be required, hereafter, to carry life-boats, and the consequence is that they will be in great demand.

Such is the estimation in which these boats are held, that Congress has made it imperative that all steamers, as well as our ships of war, shall be provided with these boats, and had this been done before, we should not have been called to record the sad calamities, which occurred during the past summer on Lake Erie, the Hudson River and elsewhere.

From an advertisement in another column, our enterprising citizens will see that "Francis's Metallic Life Boat Company, contemplate establishing a Manufactory at Cincinnati, or some other convenient point on the western waters—We understand they are disposed to form a company composed partly of Western men. Pittsburgh is the very best position in the West. Here we make the iron—here we build, repair and furnish more steamboats than any point in the West—and here are we contiguous to the Lakes. The business cannot fail to be very profitable, and we hope some of our men of enterprise will take this matter into consideration. By addressing Mr. Joseph Francis, full information can be obtained on the subject.

THE LATE NEW YORK SLAVE CASE.—The New York Courier and Enquirer is bitter in its complaints of the decision of Judge Paine, which pronounced that all slaves brought voluntarily into New York, even for the purpose of transit through it, are free. The Courier says that this decision will do more to separate North and South than any other event which has happened since the birth of our Confederation, and will open at once the gaping breach which has but now with so much solicitude been closed. There can be no unity between the States, says the Courier, unless the citizens of one State have the right of transit with their property through sister States. The New York Tribune replies to the Courier as follows:

"It must be a melancholy reflection to those who have in good faith embarked in the Union-saving business, to find the task so fruitless.—Here we have had four consecutive years in which the chief end of politicians, merchants and brokers, has been Union-saving—and where are we? At a great expense of money, and with considerable wear and tear of conscience, the Whig party has been buffeted by those it exalted to favor, repeatedly beaten, and finally crushed—all from a paramount regard for the integrity of the Union. Yet after all, with Mr. Fillmore in the White House, Pierce, his chosen successor, both Houses of Congress and the Federal Judiciary thoroughly devoted to slave-catching, and a new pro-slavery State Government and Legislature on the eve of installation—the whole job appears to be turning out a most disgraceful failure. Judge Paine has decided that his persons but fugitives from slavery in a Slave State, can be held or remanded to slavery under the laws of this: thereupon the heart of Cotesdom becomes as water; the "Compromise" is declared overboard, and the Union is on the breakers again!

"But, says the Courier, who claims to Unity, [among the States,] or the denial of the transit of fellow citizens, and their legal property must be abandoned." Legal property where? This is a vital question. The Cuban Creole's negroes are "legal property" in Cuba, but would be no property as all if landed here. So with a great deal of "property" in strong drinks, gaming implements, &c., &c. But the world understands the question as we do.

Nay, let a Yankee take a wagon load of Abolition documents, and undertake to circulate them in South Carolina, and he would very soon discover that "the transit of fellow citizens and their legal property" from a Free to a Slave State, works a forfeiture of his "legal property" at home. For half a century, Northern rights, both of person and property, have been systematically overruled at the South, yet nobody threatened to dissolve the Union for that. But when a Northern Judge expounds and administers the law which protects eight human beings from eternal slavery, we are at a once assailed by a chorus of croakings over the alleged danger of Disunion!

Seriously, is it not clear that Union-saving has paid its best dividends? If a Judge's enunciation of the law as it stands, thus speedily undoes all that has been so laboriously gained, is not the further prosecution of the contest hopeless? If four years of prosperous Union-saving have come to such a miserable end, what can be rationally hoped from a prosecution of the business?

THE ALLEGHENY COAL BED OF LAKE SUPERIOR.—Charles Whittlesey, Esq., of Cleveland, has written a letter to "The Lake Superior Journal," avowing his disbelief in the existence of coal in that region, and giving his reasons. The locality of the alleged coal bed is at the southern extremity of the bay, lying between Keweenaw point and the Huron Mountain district; the existence there of a stratum of slate, in inexhaustible quantities, as we can testify from personal inspection, may well have given rise to the expectation of finding coal also. But to Mr. Whittlesey's letter, of which we extract the material portion:

"I do not hesitate to assert that there does not exist, and of course never has been and never will be found a workable coal vein on Lake Superior.

The American and the Canadian surveys enable us to lay down the outlines of all the rock formation on both shores.

There are no indurated and stratified rocks among them of the carboniferous era, or of the more recent coal bearing strata. The shales or slates of the Anse in which the pretended coal has been found, are of the oldest rocks known to geology, even below the Trenton Limestone. There are no Stratified sedimentary rocks touching Lake Superor nearer than the "Trenton Limestone," which is low down in the Silurian system. Bitumen is distributed through all the rocks even in those of igneous origin. It is possible that a vein of solid bitumen may have been found in these slates, or perhaps it may be carbon in the shape of anthracite or united with a little iron, as in plumbago—veins of solid bitumen have been found in very ancient rocks, and they are some times of practical value.

But the structure of the earth is now pretty well known, and in no case are beds of coal found in rocks of the age of those on Lake Superior. There is either deception or want of knowledge in the statements, that have reached you in regard to such beds. The region has merits enough in its unparalelled mines of copper and iron, wherein to stand without resorting to fictitious ones. We may both of us live to see the mines of Cornwall and the smelting works Swansea, ruined by the Lake Superior copper, finding its way into England.

The consumption of Russian and Swedes iron, I expect to see diminished and eventually cease before the gradual introduction of Lake Superior wrought iron.

But having answered your query respecting the supposed coal mines of the Anse, I will not prolong this letter.

GEN. SCOTT BURNT IN EFFIGY.

It was disgraceful to the American name to vilify, traduce, and caricature the character of Gen. Scott, before the election, as was done by the Post of this city, and kindred prints, but it remained for the Locofocos of Butler to descend to the ineffable meanness of burning the old hero in effigy after the campaign was over, and the election of Pierce ascertained. There is something so shocking in such an act towards a man who by his great deeds has shed such lasting glory on the American government and name, that our loathing of the deed, and of the men guilty of it, is too great for utterance. What has Gen. Scott done to call forth such an exhibition of malignity? Has he not a right to aspire to the Presidency, as well as Gen. Pierce, and had not his fellow citizens a right to support him for such an office? Is there any thing in such a position which ought to detract from the admiration and affection which every true hearted American must feel for him? The act of these Butler men has nothing to palliate it, nothing to excuse it. It was the disgraceful exhibition of unutterable meanness, of black-hearted malice; and of small and grovelling minds. We hope the Butler Whig will publish the names of the perpetrators of the outrage, that they may be held up to the scorn of mankind. The Butler Whig gives the following account of the matter:

On Friday night succeeding the election, a mob, composed of men and boy, assembled at a tavern at the south end of Main street and forming a procession, headed by certain gentlemen who occupy official positions, paraded our streets, bearing torches, inviting transparencies and effigies, shouting and yelling in a manner that would have been worthy the occupants of the subterranean regions. Among the various devices borne in this procession of blackguards, was the head of a negro painted on a transparency, and intended to represent the "woolly heads," of the Whigs were termed by this respectable body of our fellow citizens opponents; another was a caricature representing Gen. Scott in the figure of a goose, styled by the blackguard mob "Fuss and Feathers," a term of reproach cast upon that distinguished man by the British and tories at Lund's Lane. After parading the streets for a considerable length of time, and imbibing frequently of the ardent the gang went through the characteristic ceremony of burning the effigy of Gen. Scott and trampling its charred remains in the mud. Think of it, men of American feelings and American hearts; a man, who has shed more lustre upon our National name than any other now living, has been treated by a Locofoco mob of our borough in a manner that would have been totally inexcusable and unjustifiable towards a felon. It is a deep disgrace to our town and a lasting and burning disgrace to the Locofoco party; for whatever objection there may be to the political principles entertained by Gen. Scott, there can be but one opinion in regard to his long, faithful and distinguished public services, and patriotic men, regardless of party names, will vindicate a reputation which belongs to the country.

The perpetration of this outrage is without a parallel in any previous political campaign in this country, and it was generally remarked by our friends, that if the Hon. William Beatty and Judge Bredin were still alive, no such disgraceful demonstration would have been permitted, but the decease of these honorable men devolved the command of the Locofoco forces upon rowdies, and we were consequently compelled to witness scenes of indecency, riot and debauchery hitherto unheard of in our usually quiet borough.

We have been furnished with a list of names of persons engaged in this nefarious transaction, and the public will be surprised to learn that some of the officers and instigators are men who sustain a high reputation among their fellows for talents, erudition and sanctity. Church elders, deacons, and vestrymen forget their calling and gave countenance and encouragement to this base proceeding. Men of such sensitive righteousness as to shudder at the twang of a fiddle-string or stand horrified at the sipping of a glass of wine at a social party, could upon this occasion contribute their money for the purchase of bald-face whiskey by the quantity, which was unsparingly dealt out to bloated, bear-eyed bacchanalians, maddening their brains and exciting them to the commission of gross offences against the decencies and proprieties of civilized life. Professions of piety followed by countenance and contribution to such scenes as this, is a reproach to the religion which numbers among its votaries men whose walk and conversation differ so widely from their professions.

Among the active participants in the mob were a number of persons who aspire to political preferment in the county, and also a few who now hold offices by the aid of Whig votes. It may not be long before these gentlemen are abjectly cringing and supplicating Whig support; but we tell them the Whigs have marked them, and at the proper time they will be made to feel the consequences of their disreputable conduct. There is a rod in pickle for them, which will tickle their hides and cause them to dance to their own music.

THE JAPANESE EXPEDITION.—The following statement is said to exhibit the effective force of the squadron which is to sail next month for Japan, under the command of Com. Perry:

"The Vermont, with 96 guns and 800 men; Mississippi, 875 men; Susquehanna, 350 men; Princeton, 190 men; Allegheny, 190 men; Saratoga, 22 guns and 190 men; St. Mary's, 22 guns and 190 men; Vincennes, 22 guns and 190 men; Macedonian, 22 guns and 450 men; Porpoise, 10 guns and 120 men; Southampton, 4 guns; Lexington, 4 guns; and Talbot, already sailed, 4 guns. Total 206 guns and 3,045 men. The three last mentioned vessels are storeships. There are to be added to the ships' companies 700 marines, which, with the complement of the store-ships, officers, scientific corps, and others attached to the expedition, will make an effective force of 4,000 men and 320 guns, mostly heavy ordnance. The steamers are each to mount a couple of Paixhan shell-guns of large caliber, and placed on revolving trucks, so as to sweep the horizon. These guns are intended to be used for the discharge of shell 90 and 120 pounds each, and long 42's, making 22 guns to each steamer. Each ship is provided with two brass 24 pound field pieces, to be used for shells or canister shot."

FROM NEW YORK.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Daily Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 17, 1852.

The obsequies of Mr. Webster were celebrated yesterday, with all the pomp and circumstance that was befitting the late Secretary of State. The parade elicited an immense crowd to witness it, but any one accustomed to note the demonstrations on such occasions, could not fail to see that Mr. Webster, so far as outward testimonials of regard go, had not so many to show him honor as Mr. Clay, Mr. Calhoun, or Gen. Taylor. In his life he failed to reach the great heart of the people, his personal honors diminishing in consequence. The oration at Metropolitan Hall was a laborious affair, and the whole proceedings like him in whose honor they were got up, cold and unimpressive to the mass.

A great scramble is going on for the offices by the Pierce and King men, and the Whig incumbents may as well make up their minds to die gracefully and suddenly, for not one of them is to be spared. Many will die early as a local remedy in Paralysis, Rheumatism, Deafness, loss of Sight, but as a valuable internal remedy, inviting the invasion of consumption, as well as the suffering patient, to become acquainted with its merits.

Those having a dread of mixtures are assured that this medicine is purely natural, and is bottled as it flows from the bosom of the earth.

The following certificate is copied from a paper published at Syracuse, New York, and bears date August 3, 1852, to which is also appended the certificate of the celebrated D. Y. Foot, M. D., of Syracuse:

This may in truth certify, that I have been so badly afflicted with Scrofula for the last seven years, that most of the time I have been unable to walk at or about my business, and much of the time unable to walk, and confined to my bed, and have been treated nearly all the time by the best physicians in our country, all of whom generally got some relief, but no cure, and continued to grow worse, until Dr. Foot recommended me to try the Petroleum, or Rock Oil, as every thing else had failed. I did so without much faith at first, but the effects are astonishing; I have taken of petroleum to the surface at once, and I at once began to grow better, and by using seven bottles, I am got a cure worth thousands of dollars.

MRS. NANCY M. BARKER.

This may certify that I have been acquainted with Kier's Petroleum, or Rock Oil, for more than a year, and have personally witnessed its beneficial effects in the cure of indolent ulcers, and other diseases for which it is recommended, and can with confidence recommend it to be a valuable remedy for the same, and can state that in every instance it has attended its use, where other medicine had failed. ### Derangement of the Liver,

IS one of the most common, as well as the most formidable of diseases known to American physicians. It had for years attracted the closest attention of the medical faculty, in all parts of the United States, and to the time of the discovery of Dr. Mc Lane's great Specific, it was almost beyond the reach of medical skill. Thousands had perished without even a hope of relief, and thousands more had lingered on, wretched and miserable, the darkened glowing nerve of its harbinger, the incomparable grace and exquisite finish, which are so conspicuous in every part, combine to make it the most perfect and universal favorite.

Hundreds of teachers of music have expressed to the publishers the opinion that it is the best collection of Church Music ever published in this country. Price 75 cents.

The Great Curative.

PITTSBURGH, April 10th, 1850.

R. E. SELLERS:—I have been troubled with a severe cough for the last five years, by reason of which I have frequently been unable to sleep more than half the night. I tried many remedies, but all in vain, until I heard of your Comp. Syrup, and resolved to try it, and now state that the use of a few bottles has cured me entirely. I can cheerfully recommend it as a safe, speedy, and pleasant cure for weak lungs and colds.

Yours respectfully, WM. WOODS.

The above is a gentleman of high standing in this community, and his statement can be relied on.

For sale by R. E. SELLERS,
