PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.
TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 23, 1861

The most fashionable colors for bonnets in Paris are blonde, blue, green, and light red' sarrant, a new shade. Lace and velvet are the materials most used for bonnets. For some time it was fe'ed that short waists would be re-assumed, but this is happily not the case.

Lord Mahon says the eighteenth is descended from King Edward III., and the Duke of Wellington was descended from the same monarch.

The Rev. J. H. Elliot, Fellow of Merton College, and late Select Preacher of the University of Oxford, has been received into the Roman Catholic Church by the Archbishop of Rouen.

The funeral was declined to bear the remains of the Duke of Wellington to their final home, is to be constructed in the most solid manner, in order that it may be preserved for future centuries.

Lord Charles Thynne, uncle of the Marquis of Bath, and brother of the Bishop of Bath and Wells, has become a Roman Catholic.

Telegraph submarine communication is now complete between Florence, Leghorn, Pisa, Lucca, and Venice and England.

"Gentlemen and Ladies," said the showman, "here you have a magnificent painting of Daniel in the lion's den. Daniel can easily be distinguished from the lions by the green cotton umbrella under his left arm."

Shakspeare says, "What's in a name?" This only shows that Shakspeare never kept a family grocery. If he had, he would have known that white beans, under the name of Old Government Java, sells for 16 cents a pound.

Demosthenes, as Plutarch relates, once said, that if, at the commencement of his public career he had known what he afterwards learned, of the miseries of public life, and been shown two roads, one of them leading to an early grave and the other to political power, he would have chosen the former.

An excellent cement for seams in the roofs of houses, or any other exposed places, is made with lime white sand, and as much oil as will make it unite the consistency of putty. The cement gets as hard as any stone in the course of a few weeks.
