end this is not the first time she has exhibited are cold-hearted selfishness. Thousands of people in Pittaburgh recollect the "old right of way" struggle, when Philadelphia exerted all her "pecuniary seregies" to prevent the Legisture from granting to Pittaburgh a charter to build a railroad in the direction of Baltimore. She would compet us to go to the Delaware performing of dollars, absence we protest sgainst our money being used to our rightly, and utters her lamentations that the road did not go direct to Wheeling in the first place!

But another threat is made. If Pittaburgh a charter to build a subscription on the part defeats the Hempfield subscription on the part defeats the Hempfield subscription on the part of the protect of the first time she has every encouraging.

It is not possible for us to occurred the sake of any fancied benefits resulting from the sake of any fancied ben

Thisburgh will certainly yield after that! She cannot stand the loss of the "mirr Cincinnati trade and travel!" We wonder if the Pennsylvania Rallroad will run a car here at all afterscond a consummation! If the "entire trade and travel" is to leave us, we might as well take up the track down Liberty street, which our councils, in carrying out the "pitcelle and exterionate policy of Pittaburgh," granted to that Company, sa well as some acres of ground on the wharf, as whe zero of ground on the wharf, as whe zero of ground on the wharf, and to take up its ralls from our pincipal business street, and pay for its piritaburgh, and to take up its ralls from our pincipal business street, and pay for its piritaburgh the Company should, by all means, protect itself against the "extravogant" policy of Pittaburgh, which incurs an expense here of fort, fitty and seventy-five conta per ton, for expenses of drayage, transligment, &c., while in Philadelpha only two dollars per ton is charged for delivering goods at the carr. We can easily see policy of Filhomphy granted to that Company, and the Warring Extraorement attending the property of the proper
