SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 23, 1853.

AMERICAN MADDER.—"The experiments which have of late been made with home grown madder," says the Lowell Journal, "have proved that, when properly treated, American is equal to the best French madder. Like Turkey, Dutch or Alsace madders, the American requires the addition of a little chalk to produce the best effects. During the past winter, the Merrimack Company have used, with great success, some madder grown in Montague, Franklin county, Mass., and are now about to dye some calico with this Massachusetts madder, to be exhibited at the New York Crystal Palace. Within a few days the Merrimack Company have received a small sample of madder grown in Georgia, which proves to be an excellent article—quite equal to that of Massachusetts. We have been informed that there grows wild in Florida a plant, whose root, when eaten by hogs, colors their bones red. Such is the effect of madder. Doubtless this is an indigenous species, whose cultivation would richly reward the planter. It is hoped that examples of this 'Pinkroot', as it is termed in Florida, may be forwarded to Lowell for trial in dyeing. It is very desirable to determine whether it is madder requiring the peculiar treatment of all madders, (except the Avignon,) to produce the fullest, fastest and most brilliant colors."

RUM'S DOINGS.—Patrick Fitzgerald is just found guilty of shooting his wife while under the influence of liquor.

Thomas Neary is also found guilty of beating his wife's brains out with a mallet while he was crazy drunk. The deed was done before the eyes of his children, whom he threatened to kill if they made a noise.

John Murphy, at Fall River, last week tied his wife to the bed and poured sulphuric acid down her throat, thereby killing her. He had drank a half pint of gin a few hours before.—N Y Tribune.

The Stowell Ever Green Sweet Corn.

FROM Seed raised by Prof. J. J. Mapes. This is beyond all doubt the best and most productive kind of sweet Corn ever grown. No farmer should be without it. One of the advantages claimed for this Corn by Prof. Mapes is that it may be kept green and fresh all the Early season. Prof. Mapes, in the Working Farmer, Dec. 1851, gives the following directions for preserving the Stowell Evergreen Sweet Corn.

"The ears should be gathered when fully ripe and the husk should be tied at the tops. The silk and, to prevent drying, when the Corn will keep soft, white and plump for more than a year, if in a dry and cool place. At the dinner of the Managers, after the Fair of the American Institute, last year, we presented them with this Corn of two successive years' growth, boiled, and there was no perceptible difference between the two—This year we sent to the Fair one stalk containing eight full and fair ears, and could have sent many hundred stalks of ears each."

BEATRICE, by Catharine Sinclair.—Recommendations from the Rev. Dr. Spring of N. York; Rev. Jno. Burtner (Episcopal) of New Jersey—

"Beatrice is a good book. It is written and calculated, at this important time to be useful, as an exhibition of the practical errors of the Roman Catholic Church. It describes its object to escape the deceptive arts of Jesuitism and of the Confessional, and this it does with great truthfulness and effect. May it be read in every house and family in our country."
