RAILROAD LETTINGS.

The work on the line of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad, from Wellsville to Rochester, was let on the following Contractors, on last Tuesday:

J. B. King & Co., Sections 1, 2, 3, 12, 13, 15.
Shaw & Co., " 8, 14, 17.
Shaw, " 9.
A. Killogg, " 5, 6.
Killogg, Austin & Co., Sections 7, 16.
Dunham & Mckeamen, " 8.
W. Kingston, " 10.
T. J. Power & Co., " 11.
Power & Co., " 18.

The above are Irish contractors, and the work let to them is very heavy, and will require a large force to complete it in the time named. Forty-eight bidders were on the ground.

The successful Contractors are all responsible men, and will be expected to go on with the work in earnest in it must be finished. The responsibility of diplomatic disputes could do.

The act was a bold one, but necessity, and humanity, and a due regard to the rights of citizens of the United States abroad, justified the act. It is not that we ourselves are in danger, but that our national child covers even those who have taken only the preliminary steps to become citizens, that we are bound to protect. This only constitutes a claim to protection, but it gives a right to claim our protection, and if any foreign power refuses to explain our position thereby as to make it a cause of war, we boldly meet the issue tendered. The principle laid is the high and valuable one that while we are at peace with all the world, we are hindered to it, in many respects; and a faithful maintenance of it, even if it leads to war, is a prayerful act even by Christian men.

The London Times is the only authority for opposing that Austria will regard the act of Com. Ingraham as a private affair. We do not believe that Austria will. We do not believe that she will be so unjust as to visit upon the people of the United States abroad. It has done this, when Austria was her enemy, and we see no reason why it should not do so now. But if Austria should, it cannot regard for our national honor will prompt our government to assume whatever responsibility may be connected with it.
