5. The spiritual sovereign of the Catholica is not only a worldly tyrant in his own States, but carries on a diplomatic intercourse with all countries, in which his temporal politics contradict all his pretended holiness and innoconca.

To these reasons is added, the conduct of the Catholic press of this country, which openly at tacks and repudiates republican principles, and strives to approach the love of liberty and self-government, so essential to be taught to repress monarchical and aristocratical tendencies; thus showing that the press is controlled by the clergy, and represents the opinions of their spiritual autocrat and his jesnitical defendants. How is it possible for Catholics to stain the enthers necessary for American citizens, and to realize the their minds are so adversely necessary for content of the contents, then their minds are so adversely necessary for contents of the contents of the contents, the possible for Catholics to attain the enthers necessary for American citizens, and to realize the their minds are so adversely necessary for the contents of the contents of the catholic pressors of the contents of t their minds are so adversely prepared? It is no gain for men to secape the iron rule of money to fall captives into the hands of the Catholic Hierarchy.

WHERKAS, There is at present an important bill before Congress, which contemplates the formation of a part of the North-West Territory into two territorial governments, and to allow the inhabitants thereof to establish Slavery therein; thus opening up the dreaded agitation of the Slavery question once more, which is a direct violation of the Democratic Baltimore platform of 1852, which opposes all such agitation in and out of Congress; and is also a violation of the Missouri Compromise of 1820, which forbids the introduction of Slavery into all the territory acquired from France, lying North of 36° 30°; and is further a violation of the public opinion which checked the extension of Slavery at that time, and of all the compromises on the Slavery question since, including that of 1850; therefore a Revolved,

They fear that the power obtained over the flock in matters of religion will be extended to politice, and thus become danger ows to the liberties of the country. The reasons given for this apprehension are the following:

1. The Catholic is forbidden to read any book not permitted to him by his pastor, which is proven by the fact of so many hooks being hurned by the priests.

2. The property of Catholic congregations is claimed by the Bishops, an evidenced in the controversies now existing.

3. By Auricular Confession—a religious despotism degrading and weakening the minds of all who gubmit to it—the Priest is enabled not only to learn the scorets of the minds under his charge, but in things affecting the welfare of the Herarchy, to exercise an undue and dangerous influence.

reserved to pay the claims of American citizens Fourth-The article of the treaty of 1848, under which claims for Indian depredations have accrued, is abrogated.

The amendments submitted by the Presiden omit the names of the Garny claimants, or par-ties to whom indemnity may be due, and strike out the specific sum named—so that less or more than five millions may be paid. The only other proposed medification is the total suppression of the guarantee which the treaty stipulates for, for the prevention of marauding expendition other. One article of the convention as negotiated, mutually conceded the right to pursue, soize and punish the miscreants who make it their trade and business to murder and plunder on the frontiers under such protences as were set forth in "President Walker's" manifesto. This the President recommends shall be strick. on out. This seems equivalent to an express re-pudiation of any liability for this incursion of the free booting vagabonds complained of by Mexico.

Now as the land obtained is admitted to be valueless, and as Gen. Gadsden refused to re ognize any Mexican claims for Indian depredations, the question arises what we pay the money for! In all the discussions on this remarkable treaty, I have seen no attempts made to answer the style in the country and the style in this question. It was at first presumed that the money was to be very properly and judiciously extracted from the common treasury, to pay for territory for several more slave States, but it is found that the region embraced within this con sion is unfit for man or beast, and can add nothing to the political power of the South, nor fur nish incidental support to the meditated aggress sions upon the free States. The couter robbery of the exchequer seems to be without aim or object.

The deficiency bill has been revived, and will probably be carried in the shape in which it was originally reported by the committee of Ways and Means. The appropriations for internal Custom Houses and Marine Hospitals are providof for in a separate bill reported by the same committee, with restrictions designed to limit this class of appropriations hereafter. Both bills will pass.

The Treasury plan for the reduction of the tariff encounters strenuous opposition among the Democrats, who pronounce it another piece of Walkerism, which a genuino free trader regards a synonym for a financial humbug. The uni-form twenty-five per cent duty is believed to be ly an increase of duty on the articles included in the list. On linens, for example, the increase of duty will be less than half a million of dellars per annum. This is especially unpopular with Southern free traders because supposed to be intended as a protection to the flax manufacture which will, if carried to the extent anticipated by those engaged in it, prove a formidable com-petitor of the cotton interest.
