We published the points of the defendants in Saturday's paper, and we therefore at present, simply refer to them.

The principles of the 1st and 2d points were affirmed by the Court.

The third point was negatived, which took the position that the jury cannot find the the defendants aulity, if the ordinary business of the Bank was to pay out the small notes.

The fourth point, as a naked proposition, was affirmed. But the jury will consider whether cheeking out money in uneven sums was a part of the conspiracy, a link in the concerted action, a trap to cattle-the Banks. In that the point was negatived.

Whereyon the Court and the redict, was withdrawn, however, upon Mr. Darragh stating that he intended making a motion in arrest of judgment and for a new trial.

Mr. Stokes then moved as the defendants were not in Court, their bail be forfeited and bench was repaired.

After some debate, the bail was declared forfeited, and warrants issued.
