THE POSITION OF CHRISTIANITY.—This is the title of a book, by STEPHEN COLWELL, Esq., formerly a member of the Pittsburgh bar, now residing in Philadelphia, and which has just been published by Lippencott, Grambo & Co., of the latter place. Its importance will be at once recognized, when we state that its subject is the relation of Christianity to our political and educational institutions. The whole thought of the work is based upon the undeniable fact that we are a Christian people, deriving our religion, morality and civilization from the Bible; and hence is made to follow, as a plain philosophical corollary, that Christianity must be a part of our common law, and it is shown that, as a matter of fact, it is so; that all our customs, institutions and modes of thinking, all our ideas of freedom and of toleration, of equality and of justice are influenced and purified by, if not derived from, the religion of the Bible, and could not be accounted for without it; and that Christianity, instead of being tolerated by our institutions, is the very life and spirit and bond of them all.—Hence, also, another very plain corollary, that the state abandons its functions, and is false to the people, if it gives any countenance to the proposition that the Bible and the general religious principles which the people have found in it are to be excluded from our common schools and other educational institutions. Such a course would be a plain violation of the first principle of republicanism, that government must be a fair expression of the sentiment of the people and must act out its general thought in all matters belonging to government. If education falls within the province of government, as it is shown to do, it must be performed faithfully according to the highest idea which the people have of the duty, without fear of the priest who wants all government in his own hands, or of the infidel who would have none at all. Our nature demands religion of some kind, and education without it is an absurdity; for it is the living principle of all proper training. It underlies and sustains all the genuine moralities of life, however unconscious many may be of the fact; and, in proportion as it is developed in full consciousness and in enlarged and intelligent charity, it brightens all the virtues. If this religion and morality form the very basis of our civilization, laws and institutions, how can we eject it from among the elements of our education? Does not the proposition involve the abandonment of our civilization, and with it of our present institutions, and the leaving of them to die from the want of the very spirit that constitutes their life? If we must give up our education to the entire control of priests of any kind, we may expect, before many generations, that our noble civilization will become no better than that of the Italians, Spaniards, Mexicans and South Americans.

These and many other collateral thoughts are developed rationally and historically in the present work, and it deserves to be read by all who desire to have an intelligent view of the relation of Christianity to our political institutions. It is to be hoped that this is but the first fruits of a thought, which has a strong hold on the public sentiment, and which, in its full maturity, must produce a glorious and abundant harvest.

OUTRAGE AT WHEELING.—We learn by passengers from Wheeling that, on Saturday evening, when the Pennsylvania reached there, a mob of several hundreds was gathered on the wharf, which refused to let her land, and assailed the boat with stones, breaking in her windows and skylights, and injuring the boat materially wherever accessible to the missiles of the infuriated and ignorant ruffians who were used for the occasion. Captain Klinefelter got his boat out of the way as fast as he could, but not until one or more ladies had been seriously hurt with stones thrown right under the nose of the authorities of that gallant city.

The pretext for this unparalleled outrage is, that Captain Klinefelter lowered his chimnies in passing under the cables of the fallen bridge. Some heartless scoundrels who infest and, we fear, characterize that city, inflamed the mob with the idea that the chimnies were lowered in derision of the misfortune which has happened to the bridge. Although it is now certain that the Pennsylvania could not pass under the cables with the chimnies standing, it is enough for Captain Klinefelter's justification to know that his motive was unquestionable. He had no design to offend or wound the feelings of the people of Wheeling—is incapable, in fact, of doing an ungentlemanly act; and even if it were true that the boat could have passed under without lowering her chimnies, it is sufficient that Captain Klinefelter honestly thought otherwise, and adopted the only course left for a prudent and cautious commander. In putting a violent and unworthy construction upon the act, the people of Wheeling have belittled and disgraced themselves, and robbed themselves of whatever claim they before had to public sympathy. And it was not an outrage committed by a few. The masses participated in it, and the authorities either would not or could not prevent it. The press, too, sustained it. The first effort to inflame the public mind came from the Intelligencer, which lent itself to the evil purpose of fostering public violence against an inoffensive man for not injuring his boat to avoid wounding their tender sensibilities.

There is not, on the whole river, a kinder-hearted or more amiable man than Capt. Klinefelter. Brave city! Valiant citizens! that could vindicate their wounded honor only by stoning a boat whose officers were guilty of the precaution of guarding against overhanging danger!

There is not another city in the nation capable of such ineffable meanness—none that ever disgraced itself by such a cowardly and ruthless act.

That her citizens should be sensitive under their great calamity was to have been expected; but not that they should make fools of themselves by such remarkable manifestations of a thin skin.

We hope our councils will take immediate measures to ascertain the value of that boat load of provisions sent us from Wheeling in 1845, and repay it with interest. Let us be under no obligations to such creatures.

SOFT WORDS.—The wrath of the North at the faithlessness of the South is likely to be turned away by the "soft answer" accorded it by our Southern brethren. We gave, the other day, a specimen from the Richmond Examiner, in which the shooting of northern schoolmasters was vindicated as meritorious; and we have now another instance of the same nature. Mr. Spooner, the restorer of the Boydell Shakespeare, when soliciting subscribers for that work, in Richmond, was favored by the Examiner with the following "first-rate notice":

"The public and the press of the South cannot be too often warned of Yankee agents for Yankee books, maps and engravings. If they will take it as a social axiom that every offer which is made to them from the North is a trap for their fleeces, and that every man who crosses Mason's and Dixon's line is a Swindler and a rogue, until he has given proof to the contrary, they will save themselves much mortification and vexation, and a considerable amount of hard money."

With such kind language as this daily dinned in our ears we ought to be proud of the opportunity of folding those who think so well of us in our loving, fraternal embrace.

The New York Freeman's Journal, we see, denies that the Archbishop of St. Louis ever issued a circular, as stated by Mr. Mallory in the Senate, repudiating the sentiments of the "Shepherd of the Valley." So far so good. It also undertakes to deny that the "Shepherd of the Valley" ever uttered the persecuting sentiments attributed to it by Mr. Badger; but here it is traveling beyond the record. For the enlightenment of those who place faith in such denials we subjoin what the "Shepherd of the Valley" did say, and they can judge for themselves as to its meaning:

"The Church, we admit, is of necessity intolerant; that is, she does everything in her power to check, as effectually as circumstances will admit, the progress of crime and error. Her intolerance follows necessarily from her claim to infallibility; she alone has the right to be intolerant. Heresy she inserts in her catalogue of mortal sins; she endures it when and where she must; but she hates it, and directs all her energies to effect its destruction. If the Catholics ever gain, which they surely will do, though at a distant day, an immense numerical majority, religious freedom in this country is at an end. So say our enemies. So we believe."

EXCEEDINGLY SPUNKY!—The United States ship Cyane, from Aspinwall, via Havana, arrived at New York yesterday, bringing dates from the latter place to the 8th instant. The Cyane, on leaving Havana, did not salute the Spanish flag and authorities.—National Era.

This is the second instance of refusal on the part of an American vessel in the national service, to salute the Spanish flag; and as the officers of these vessels act under orders from Washington it is fair to infer that these discourtesies and insults were designed by our government, and intended as provocations to some act of resentment that may be construed into a cause of war. The determination of the Pierce Administration to pick a quarrel with Spain is apparent; and it is plain that no means will be spared that may be necessary to put the burden of the first blow upon our ally. How magnanimous it is in this great nation to resort to petty insults for the purpose of goading a weak neighbor into a fight, in which we may strip him of his possessions!

THE QUESTION SETTLED.—Judge Pollock declares in a recent letter to the editor of the Washington Commonwealth that "he has neither the will nor the right to decline," being the Whig Gubernatorial candidate, and is, therefore, to be counted as permanently in the field. He also avows himself strongly in favor of a sale of the public works, and is strongly opposed to the Nebraska bill.—Pennsylvanian.

Now tell us how Gov. Bigler stands on the Nebraska bill. Is he opposed to it or in favor of it? Up in the North he is represented as opposed to it. How is it? The man who shirks such a question is a coward; and he who strives to keep himself on both sides of it is dishonest. The people will put Bigler into one or the other of these categories until he commits himself.

We learn by the Baltimore Sun that there is an arrangement between the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company and the Union Line Steamers, on the Ohio, by which a guarantee of $800 per day, by freight and passengers, was given by the former as an inducement to the latter to maintain the connection between Wheeling and Louisville. The Pittsburgh packet line has been able to maintain itself without any guarantee from any source, beyond the enterprise and business skill of its owners and managers.

We very often hear objurgations upon the Clergy for being behind the age, and all wrong upon questions of progress; but we find an instance just the reverse of this in the proceedings of the Episcopal State Convention. The question came up on admitting delegates from the St. Thomas African Church; and on taking the vote, the clergy voted ayes 70, nays 27, while the laity voted ayes 32, nays 41. So, on account of the perverseness of the laity, the delegates from the African Church were refused admission. There is one branch of the church, at least, in which the clergy are in advance of their flocks.

The New Orleans Bulletin undertakes to account for the difference in the number of insane and idiotic in the North and South on the ground that in the North people are given to isms and excitements, and go crazy, while in the South they look at things coolly, and so remain sane. If the tone of the southern press is to be taken as any indication there are a great many insane men in the South who have not been included in the census returns.

☞ On Wednesday last a very severe hail storm passed over Moundsville, on the Ohio river, below Wheeling, causing great destruction to windows.

☞ Dr. Boardman has been elected Moderator of the General Assembly at Buffalo, having received 170 votes.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Dail; Gazette.

WASHINGTON, May 20.

Progress of the Propagandists—Nebraska to be passed on Monday—Dunham's Speech—Position of the Indiana Democrats—Their treachery and Desertion—Cuba Plots.

The propagandists of slavery are marching steadily forward, to the accomplishment of their objects. I look upon the Nebraska bill as good as passed. The majority will be fifteen or twenty votes, and the business will be closed upon Monday, I presume. The measure has received the stamp of Democracy, and will prevail by nearly a party vote. The five or six Southern Whigs who have heretofore acted with us continue faithful, and the only effective opposition proceeds from the northern Whigs and that little band of true men.

The House sat yesterday until past midnight, and then took a recess until to-day at nine.—Richardson closed the general debate in a detestable dough face speech, attesting fidelity to the South, and prating about the constitution and the uselessness of observing compacts between freedom and slavery. He had triumphed before a northern constituency after betraying by his votes the cause of the north, and he did not doubt that he should again.

Mr. Benton yesterday made a brief speech partially lifting the veil from the designs of the conspirators. They were opening an agitation which would not end until they had bought Cuba for two hundred and fifty millions of dollars, or filched it from Spain; and acquired Northern Mexico for fifty millions, or by some less honorable manner. As an alternative they would convulse the country to the point of revolution.

Mr. Dunham, democrat, from Indiana, made the most radically pro-slavery speech of the day. Indeed there has not been heard during the whole session a speech more hostile and offensive to the free States, and the sentiments and institutions of their people. He applauded the repudiation of the Missouri Compromise as provided for in the Nebraska bill. He consented to the measure and the whole scheme of pro-slavery aggression of which it was the initiatory step. He plainly avowed that he looked without alarm or regret to the contingency of slavery overpunning the whole of Kansas and Nebraska as a consequence of its enactment. He did not deny, in fact he was understood expressly to admit, that all the results suggested by Col. Benton would flow from the repeal of the Compromise, and declared that he was in favor of them. He was in favor of the annexation of Cuba and Mexico at the cost of $300,000,000, or at any other cost. He accepted in advance all the burthens of war, debt and taxation, and all the evils of civil dissension, which they involved.—In short, there was nothing which slavery had proposed or could propose to which Mr. Dunham did not in advance profess his adhesion and pledge the democracy of Indiana. And in truth, the position taken by Mr. Dunham in this servile harangue, is substantially concurred in by all his democratic colleagues. Their course stands out in melancholy contrast to that pursued by Mr. Parker, the only Whig Representative from Indiana.

Messrs. Mace and Chamberlain professed to act with us in the beginning of the struggle, but deserted us at the very crisis of the struggle, at the closing grapple of the fight. Last Monday morning after the close but successful fighting of the previous week, in which the opponents of the iniquity had kept at bay all the marauders of slavery, Messrs. Mace and Chamberlain left us, without the warning of an instant, and voted with the Douglass and Richardson faction to suspend the rules in order to let in the resolution for closing debate to-day. Had they not done so, the rules could not have been suspended, and the conspiracy against freedom and the faith of compacts would have been baffled. To those two men may the fatal success of that day be attributed. They had only to stand aloof, and let the repudiators of the Compromise take their chance with the other business of the session, more than the rules of the House, and the outrage could not have been accomplished. By their acts on that day they became active accomplices with Douglass and his fellow slaveholders for the abolition of freedom in the northwest. Their position is now taken. They are for slavery on all occasions on which slavery shall demand their services. Let the Democracy of Indiana understand this, and if they also are for slavery and for the ceaseless agitation of questions connected with slavery, let them vote for and elect Dunham, Mace, Chamberlain, English, and their confederates.

The supporters of the bill to-day adopted the course of not replying to any of the five minute speeches on the amendments offered, but voted them down in silence. This shortens discussion, and will hasten the decision.

There is nothing else thought of or cared for in Washington, but this great crime. But the signs of the times exactly resemble those portentous symptoms while Tyler was plotting for the annexation of Texas, while Calhoun was making his detestable treaty for foisting it into the Union, which was trampled under their feet by Northern Senators, the instant it appeared; and while Polk was preparing for the descent upon Mexico which brought on the war. It is probable therefore that the administration is preparing some demonstration upon Cuba, which will be sprung upon the country by way of calming and soothing the indignation to be caused by this Nebraska fraud.

A Valuable Family Medicine.—So celebrated is Dr. Mc.Lane's Vermifuge become, that it is regarded as the only specific cure for worms. Families should never be without a supply of it. At this season particularly, when worms are so troublesome and frequently fatal among children, parents should be watchful; and on the first appearance of those distressing symptoms which warn of their presence, at once apply the powerful and efficacious remedy. We are confident that it only requires a trial to convince all that it richly merits the praises that have been lavished upon it. It is safe; and infallible.—Volumes of certificates can be produced, showing its great medical virtues.

☞ Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, and take none else. All other Vermifuges, be compared to them, are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in the United States and from the sole proprietors,

[From the Pittsburgh Daily Dispatch, Feb. 24, 1852.]

AN EXCELLENT ARTICLE.—Persons who have acquired a stooping position, by following a sedentary occupation will experience great relief by the use of the "Washington Suspender Brace," made and sold by Dr. KEYSER, corner of Wood street and Virgin alley. It answers for a brace and suspender, the weight of the pantaloons is so placed as to continually tend to bring the shoulder ... of natural position, and expand the chest. We purchased one some time ago, and have been so pleased with it that we unsolicited gave it a "puff" gratis.

Women, hundreds of whom are annually injured by the weight of enormous "skirts," should also procure these braces. Be particular in procuring the kind mentioned, as many of the braces sold are humbugs.

[From the Pittsburgh Dispatch, Feb. 4, 1854.]

☞ Having worn one of Dr. Keyser's Washington Shoulder Braces, until it is no longer fit for service, we feel perfectly competent to discourse upon its merits. By using it, the weight of the pantaloons aids in throwing back the shoulders and expanding the chest, while it answers every purpose of suspenders. No one who is "stoop-shouldered" or whose occupation is sedentary, should fail to be without one of these braces. Women and girls, whose health is too often injured by the weight of their under-garments, should wear them. We have tried several kinds, but none seem at all equal to the "Washington," and we wish others to profit from our experience.

Proprietors of Dr. M'Lane's Celebrated Vermifuge, Liver Pills, &c.

Dr. Morse's Invigorating Elixir or CORDIAL.—It is imagined now this great restorative is accomplishing such extraordinary cures of dyspepsia, that in the Arabian bark that forms its cardinal ingredient have been blended by the Omnipotent Physician, a larger amount and greater varieties of curative properties than had heretofore been supposed to exist in the combined disgest articles of the pharmacopœia. A whole medicine chest of remedies, so to speak, seems to have been combined in this herb; and in the ELIXIR or CORDIAL we have the dispensaries of Asculapius. We look several hundred bottles—four or three each—about a year and a half ago, and we have never enjoyed so good health for years as we have since that time. I had not taken a single bottle before that fullness of the stomach which so distresses the dyspeptic was relieved, and I have felt nothing of it since that time. My wife was also relieved from a chronic disease of the liver, which had been of several years standing, by the use of your Petroleum.

Sold by S. M. KIER, Canal Basin, GEO. H. KEYSER, 140 Wood st., and Druggists and Medicine Dealers everywhere. [Papers advertising Petroleum Soap.] oct3
