ever possessed of the character of an American citizen whose proud boast always has been that to purchase a sufficient american raise the sum of $200,000.

We make these remarks now because there is half dozen different secret associations formed half dozen different secret associations formed, ticular enough in their statements to say that the having different objects in view. Whatever may have of his initiation was the 19th of June, and be the object of these associations, however would be the object of these associations, however good, tion itself is unwise, dangerous, and Anti-American. They can have, at best, but an ephemeral June, nor nearer it than the town of Williamsexistence, but they do much mischief in a short time, and in any respect they are unworthy of intelligent voters, who should value their sacred to by him must be taken to be a fabrication equalpolitical privileges too highly to subject them to the caprice and control of any secret organiza-

A great many arguments suggest themselves o us in opposition to all such organizations, but we have said enough we trust to cause any of our readers to hesitate, who may have been tempted by curiosity or any other motive to unite with any of these secret political organizations. If so, our object is accomplished.

The mendacious editorial knaves who daily asare their readers that Slavery cannot, and will Bigler, 28 that quoted by the Locofoco press ot go to Kansas, and that that territory is in no danger whatever of ever becoming a Slave lutely suppress such intelliger ollowing, which we find credited to the Richmond

Enquirer:
A zealous struggle is now going on between shareholders and Freesoilers for supremacy in this new valuable territory. Of course the opinious, as to the result, are molified by the bias or wishes of the various parties. One of the most specific and distinct declarations on the subject, we find in a communication in the last Mississippian from the pen of Dr. Dr. O. Williams, a large slareholder, and a shrewd, reliable and practical citizen of Hinds county, Mississippi, founded on his own personal observation. He describes the country as very fertile, of a prairie character, sufficiently undusting for thorough drainage. It yields from 59 to 60 and willingness and the bean nominated and th

bushels of corn to the acre, 800 lbs. of hemp to the bushels of corn to the acre, 800 lbs. of hemp to the acre, and about 20 bushels whent to the acre, under ordinary caltivation; with a good calture and a good season, the product may be doubled. One good hand, the Doctor says, will cultivate 20 acres in clover, product 1900 bushels, 620 cts. per bushel—$200. Eight acres in hemp, product 6400 lbs. (36 cts. per lb. $784. Ten across in wheat, product 200 bushels, at $21 per hushel, $200—total product for the labor of one husnd, $784. The same hand will make hargely over enough meat and stock to pay his expenses. This is what may be done in Kansas Territory, or the most interesting and important fact stated by Dr. Williams is that "all of the best lover and the foundation for a log cabin laid, by hundreds and, thousands of slave owners from the border counties in Missouri, who have entered into solemn pledges to protect each other in his claim, and to keep all abolitionists from the Territory. There remains no longer a doubt that Kansas has already made, a beginning which crossing the State. Orcely and the abolitionists from the Abolitionists who may dare to pollute the soll with their base and incendiary feet. The slave owners of Virginia, Kentacky, and the nesses, by hundreds and incendiary feet. The slave owners of Virginia, Kentacky, and the nesses, by hundreds and housands, will soon seek that delightful country, and would you believe it, Mr. Editor, Mississippians have already been in the Territory, and staked out claims in the names of men whou they have taken along to erect a log schill not each pre-emption?"

We believe there is no subject now before the poople on which he does not occupy both sides; recommends another mode of punishing the but the latest specimen of his artful dodging is to be found in his course on the Temperance question. His letter to the Temperance State Convention was a weak imitation of the Van Buren non-committal style, and although intended to conciliate the Temperance men, gave unmistarishable evidence of learning to the other side. It pleased nobody but the anti-prohibitionists; and so, to reach those whom it failed to satisfy, the Governor writes a pricate letter to Rev. John Chambers, giving all the pledges asked for by the Temperance men. This is to be shown round.

terrible engine of the secret confessional are specimens of those dark and dreaded forms of tyranny which ought to make American citizens ashamed of banding together for the accomplishment of objects which, if proper, will lose nothing by openness and candor, and which if not proper ought not to be attempted. The idea of a freeman receiving his ticket from a secret body and going to the polls to vote a secret ticket, striking blows in the dark which are unseen and unexpected, is revolting to all the ideas we have and Democratic papers, among them the Post and Union of this city, assert that Judge Pollock assets are much larger. It is believed they will has joined the Know Nothings, and they are particular enough in their statements to contain the particular enough in the particular enough Philadelphia the place. In contradiction of this we have the best authority for saying that Judge Pollock was not in Philadelphia on the 19th of port, Lycoming county. That fact being settled, the pretended oath paraded as having been sworn

The authority of these allegations against The authority of these allegations against Judge Pollock is some obscure newspaper in Philadelphia. To show that these newspaper reports cut both ways, we give the following little rangraph which we find in a paper just reseived:

"One of our exchanges says that it learns from Philadelphia that Gov. Bigler applied for admission into the 'Know Nothings,' but was rejected."

This authority is as good, every way, against against Pollock; and one is probably about as true as the other.

The Clarion of Freedom, a Free Soil paper published in Indiana County, publishes Mrz. Swisshelm's abusive article against Judge Polock, but does not seem to be convinced by it.-That lady opposes Judge Pollock because she "inderstands" that he is a Baltimore Platform man, although she expressed her willingness to support Gen.
