Twe Devocuarto Appress, No. 8.—The Demthird address, on the subject of the Nebraska er a round-about and slip-shod manner. The rather than to defend a principle. . The ground, f defence assumed is that of popular sovereign ty, and it is dwelt upon at great length and in every possible form. The argument presented ceive no intelligent man, for it is founded on falsehood, and is, in reality, an arrant humbur. It has been so often and so completely exploded that the Democratic State Committee must have calculated immensely on the ignorance and gullibility of the people, when they ventured to use it. The address is also disingenous in the highest degree. It makes an appeal to Democrat to avoid fanaticism, which, by implication, means opposition to the Nebraska bill, and quotes from such men as Wendell Phillips, Wm. Lloyd Gar rison. Henry C. Wright, ste., to show that the opponents of slavery extension are enemies of the however, that timely rains may Union. It thus endeavors to cast doubt and odium on all who have bravely stood up to resist the onward march of the slaveocracy. It even brings up poor old Federalism, and asserts that the Anti-Nebraska excitements are "false lights" thrown out by the "Ancient Federalists" to mytify the people, and gain lost power! We shall not affront the intelligence of our readers, by offering any counter argument at factrine, the only one presented by the Address to excuse the Nebraska outrage. It has been so completely exploded in our columns, as relates to those territories, that it were a waste of time that the Democratic Central State Comm As I have disposed for that same of the Section of the Motional Administration—has gie good reason why it should be divided?

We accept the issue for Mir. Follock. He is the Anti-Nebraska condidate, and on that ground chiefly we oppose tim. We care more for that issue than for all be others now pending, as it is of the most imlent and pressing issues than for all be others now pending, as it is of the most imlent and pressing issues is at for the most imlent and pressing issues is a gran. Mr. Chambers, it will be seen, does not meet the charges made against him. Nobody complains of his urging people to vote in favor of a prohibitory law, nor does any one find fault with him for preferring to vote for Bigler on the ground of his confidence in the Governor's proions. All this he might have done freely, with never a word of condemnation; and his attempt to assign these as the causes of the attacks upon him only furnishes additional proof What was really charged sgainst the Rev. Jno.

Chambers was simply this: That, knowing the Governor's published letter on the Prohibition juestion to be interpreted favorably by the en smies of Prohibition and condemued as unsatisfactory by the friends of Temperance, he paraded a private letter from the Governor in which that functionary was understood to pledge himself to sign a Prohibitory Law, if approved by the people and passed by the Legislature. This charge Mr. Chambers does not meet; but he hides himself behind the prevarication that Governor Bigler has writen to him no letter inconsistent with his letter to the Temperanco Convention. That may all be. The letter paraded by the Reverend gentleman at Bedford was, if we are rightly informed, addressed to or obtained by Dr. John Patrick, and it was never protended or asserted that it had been ad-drossed to Mr. Chambers. The latter may ore very truly say that "Governor Bigler has written to me no letter inconsistent h" his letter to the Temperance Convention; but it does not follow that the letter which he bossted as having in his pocket was not of that character. Mr. Chambers may think himself safely fortified by such a quibble; but it is one worthy only of a Jesuit. The letter he was charged with privately circulating, was inconsistent with Gov. Bigler's letter to the Temperance Convention, or at least with the interpretation generally placed upon it; but then the private missive was not addressed to him: it was to a co-laborer in the plous fraudit was sent, and therefore Mr. Chambers washes his hands like Pilate, and says, 'No such letter was addressed to me?' And this man protest about Jesuitans. fortified by such a quibble; but it is one worthy

This drought extends, with different degrees of intensity, from the Lakes to the southern line of Tennessee, and from the Atlantic to the western line of Missouri, and probably to the Booky Mountains. It embraces all the great agricultural Blates of the Union—the producers of wheat; and the Union—the producers of wheat; corn, cattle, sheep and hogs. This region has heretofore been richly supplied with food, and his been able to spare immense quantities for the South and for Europo. This year not more than enough to supply its own inhabitants. Letter of the Revis John Chambers.

Messus Editors—During a recent visit to the Bedford Springs, I was called upon by some of the most ardent friends of Temperance in the State, and invited to address the people of Bedford on the importance of inducing every friend of humanity to vote for a prohibitory liquor-law at the ensuing election. I most cheerfully complied with the request of these gentlemen, and I had hoped that I had discharged the daty imposed upon me to the satisfaction of all.

I regret to observe, however, that my remarks on that occasion have become a topic of newspaper discussion, that my words have been misrepresented, and my motives impugned. I deem it due to ethers as well as to myself that the truth resented, and my motives impugned. I deem i should be known.

A great blessing to the Afflicted.—The nation was made with great unanimity. The Gettysburg Star says that Mr. Robison is a gentleman of ability, a popular speaker, and has done essential service in the Whig cause in days gone by.
