THE CHANGES COMMENCED, AND TO BE LOOKED FOR.—The Christian World has been for many years in a state of comparative peace on religious opinions as they affect political welfare. Since the fierce conflicts which succeeded the Reformation we have passed through an era of indifferentism and infidelity of various degrees and phases, during which the difficulty has been to arouse the masses, whether of the enlightened or the unenlightened, to a proper sense of the immense importance of religion, whether considered in reference to man's social or political well-being here, or to his destiny hereafter. True, there have been brilliant spots in the surrounding darkness, and the church of God in some form or other has continued to gain its victories over the empire of ignorance and wickedness. Romanism has found centuries necessary to recruit its shattered forces, to examine its ground, to choose its future action, and to prepare for another conflict. Protestantism, divided, and in some measure exhausted and demoralised by its victories and its connection with the States has confined its energies to separate and independent efforts, and to warring upon itself. In some places sunk in indifferentism and mere outward forms, and in others displaying a zeal not always tempered with knowledge, and a bigotry and exclusiveness repugnant to the elevated and Catholic principles of true Christianity. During this time a new continent has been peopled, and in our own country true evangelism has displayed some of its most glorious effects, and has deeply imbued the mind of the rising nation.

From this state of rest, of peace between antagonist principles in the nominal christian church, the christian world is slowly arousing. The signs of awakening are seen in Europe and America. The contest, which is to be one rather of opinion than of the clash of arms is already "looming in the distance." That it will have a powerful effect upon the political and social welfare of mankind is clearly evident. It will shake the nations, destroy moth-eaten institutions, overturn erroneous and injurious prejudices, and give a mighty impetus to the onwardmarch of pure Christianity. The contest will be mainly between the false and heathenized Church of Rome, and Protestant Christianity in its evangelical and living principles, or, in other words, between the Papacy and Christ.

A letter from Dublin to the New York Courier and Enquirer contains some striking observations on this subject and some facts which may be considered as the incipient stages of the gathering storm. In reference to one of the contestants, the writer says:

Rome,—taking advantage of the long peace, and warned by the convulsions that had a dozen years ago threatened Europe,—has effected a consolidation of discipline, throughout the nations, previously unknown. Heretofore, in these countries, as in France, there were two parties,—agreed in the doctrine and worship of the church, but differing in those points of discipline in which diversity of opinion and action were allowed. Hailed by different names,—gallican, as opposed to Italian,—the distinction from Ultramontane, the liberal or church party as contrasted with the Court of Rome or Papal party. Since the establishment of the empire in France, and the organization of the Hierarchy in England and Ireland, this is no longer the case. In both countries, there is as much uniformity as in Italy. The Canon law is in force, ecclesiastically, as much as in Italy. The Italian, or Papal, or Ultramontane views have absorbed the other,—universal; and the alliance of the nations, in this protracted war, affords the happiest facilities for completing and consolidating this uniformity, and thereby giving strength and stability to the system.

Never before, since the Reformation, was the Church of Rome so strong,—beyond held with magnificent ceremonial, cathedrals such as formerly were reared only by royal munificence, and colleges and religious houses multiplied without end. In France, of course, being the religion of the state, the church has it all her own way; but even in England, and still more in Ireland, she is working miracles in carrying out her spiritual machinery to meet the exigencies of the people and the age.—In chapels, and schools, and colleges, and youths' societies, and libraries, and ragged schools, and socialities. It would be easy to find many la cause in the means of keeping her own members and gaining others, whether spiritual or educational,—whether for religious training, intellectual culture, or social advantage. The change, then, that Rome looks for,—partly by her own wondrously increased ecclesiastical machinery,—partly by the zeal of the men and their courage in the English Church, that have sent, already, such mighty accessions to her, is a paramount ascendancy where once she reigned alone.

We have a counterpart to this graphically described scene, in our own country. Who that recollects the state and prospects of the Roman Catholic church here thirty years ago, and contrasts it with its present power and greatness, but must admit that the world presents but few examples of so rapid an advance. Then, Romanism was scarcely known among us. Now, every town of any pretensions, and nearly every village, has a Catholic church, crowded with devoted adherents of Rome; while in our large cities splendid churches and pompous cathedrals rise in every quarter, outstripping in grandeur and outvieing in splendor the architecture of Protestants. Country churches are found in almost every neighborhood; Hospitals, Orphan's Asylums, (for the church is exclusive in everything,) Monasteries, convents, theological and literary seminaries, academies and colleges are multiplying with amazing rapidity. Our own city and neighborhood afford a lively example of the growth of Catholicism, but there are other places where it has made greater advances than here. Look also at the vast increase of the priesthood, and of ecclesiastical societies and orders, and of the hierarchy. Witness the rapid increase and the boldness of the press; the assumptions of the hierarchy, the attempt to overturn our school system, the suffrage effort by the Bishops to absorb the vast property acquired for ecclesiastical purposes giving them supreme control over their flocks, and the great influence already exerted in our political affairs. While Romanism has been strengthening herself in Europe, she has by no means neglected America.

Let us now turn to the other contest, which we may denominate Protestant Christianity in earnest. As regards Ireland, the same writer says:

"There is no end to the agencies, or limit to the vigor with which they are plied, for keeping Protestants there—the Roman Protestants—and bringing over members of the church of Rome. Churches are multiplied, schools are erected, Scriptures and religious books are circulated—scripture readers and missionaries go from house to house—clergymen and laymen preach controversy, and lecture on the difference between the churches—it is very near as great a wonder where the funds come from, as where the money is got to build the cathedrals, chapels, colleges and Presbyteries of the Romish church. The men engaged in this work tell you that the apparent strength and growth of the Romish church is all appearance and show—concealing real weakness—and the more sanguinary scarcely allot a half century for its existence.

And as a party in the English church has been a main supply of accessions to the Church of Rome, so how those who expect a speedy subversion of that church, have mooted changes in the Liturgy and formularies of the Church of England to bring over the moderate Dissenters. In Ireland, the church clergy are all Evangelical;—and stand upon such terms with the Presbyterians that a comprehension is deemed any thing but impracticable; a union of such a kind, in England and Ireland, as would embrace the great body of the Orthodox Dissenters, would, it is conceived, secure the complete and final triumph of Protestantism in these countries. This, accordingly, is what is looked for on the other side.

And as for school houses and churches,—the funds arising from the suppressed Bishoprics and other ecclesiastical sources, enable the commissioners to build new ones, and beautify the old ones,—while the zeal that covers the country with missionaries and teachers, does not suffer the congregations they collect to want accommodation. Both in regard to churches, and chapels—as well as the schools ancillary to both—the whole appearance of the country is changed. Nor less is the change in regard to the ministration, of those who occupy them. The time is no more, when the parson was content to let the priest have the people provided he got the tithes, and when the saggard was a welcome guest at the table of the Rector,—to whom, in return, he lent a congregation, when a visitation came round, or any special solemnity. The contest is now for the flock, not the fleece."

In England, the prospect is not less cheering:

We have a Bishop of Salisbury, not only countenancing open air preaching, but himself preaching in the open air to the railway navvies! At Leeds, where a while ago there was the strength of Puseyism, there are, in the established churches, what in America used to be called revival meetings; multiplied sermons, mental distress, conversations, and conversions,—which long ago, would have stamped the actors,—in the days of Sydney Smith that is,—with the brand of methodism. Archdeacon Wilberforce even publishes a book on "The Eucharist." His clergy consider it as Romanizing. He tells them the Privy Council,—now the judge, not of religious controversy as to what is right or what is wrong per se but as to what is consistent—or rather what is not consistent,—with the Prayerbook,—did not condemn Gorham's doctrine, denying Baptismal Regeneration, and so they cannot condemn his asserting Transubstantiation.—They invite him to a trial; and as the first step ask him to acknowledge the authority of the book,—pledging themselves, that the whole strength of the Evangelical party in the Church of England shall, be put forth to test it. He is but too happy to give an explicit acknowledgement. And now the church is in high expectation of the first step to the expulsion of the Puseyites, and the comprehension of the moderate Evangelical Dissenters.

On the Continent there is an encouraging increase of the evangelical party, and in Northern Italy, in France, and in various parts of Germany, there is an increasing inquiry for the Bible, and for the "old paths." Religion is no longer a subject of almost total indifference. As the zeal and bigotry and designs of Romanism are developed, men inquire for the doctrines of the Bible, and the teachings of Luther, and Calvin.

In our country there has also been a remarkable awakening to the danger to be apprehended from the steady advance of Romanism, and especially that resulting from the centralization of power in the hands of a few individuals, who possess not only the property of the church, but the means of secretly controlling the votes of tens of thousands of citizens. This aroused feeling has not been manifested so much in the renewed zeal and better union of Protestant churches, as in England and Ireland, which we think is greatly to be lamented, as in the exhibition of public opinion independent of the churches. Two or three years ago, not one secular newspaper in one hundred ever said a word about Romanism, except to notice its advances with encomiums. Now, two-thirds of the papers speak of it with freeness and boldness, and discuss its genius and spirit, and its probable effects upon our future destiny. Romanism, as an impending danger, is no longer an interdicted subject with the commercial and political press, and some of the most able and leading papers in the country are taking a part in this controversy, while, on the other hand, there are secular papers arraying themselves on the side of Romanism.

There are, also, the Protestant Associations which have been founded, now very numerous, and that mysterious and most remarkable political association called, in common phrase, "Know Nothings," which, if we can believe the marvelous reports of their incredible increase which we hear, will exert a powerful, and in some states and localities, a controlling influence on the fall elections. The moving cause of this sudden breaking up of old political ties, of this running together of men who have hitherto been separated by political prejudices, embittered by years of strife, is opposition to Romanism, not as a system of religion, but as a powerful, secret, and concentrated political engine, controlled by the sworn agent, of the Pope of Rome.

How rapidly these changes may go on, how long the contest will last, and what will be its ultimate effect upon the social and political welfare of mankind, time alone can determine. We have a most abiding confidence that the result will be the advancement of pure Christianity, of true social progress, and of permanent political freedom.

We regret to hear of Gov. Bigler's severe sickness. He appears to be recovering however.—He has but a short time to get over the State, and we want to hear him at Pittsburgh.—Post.

The Pittsburgh Union, a day or two since, contained a brutal article chuckling over the fact that Judge Pollock had been attacked with sore throat, and rejoicing over his physical inability to endure the fatigue of stump speaking. It boasted that the Judge was "no match for his antagonist in physical energy," and that bets had been offered that "the hardy raftsman (Bigler) would give his opponent a trial of physical endurance among the hills of Western Pennsylvania that had not been equaled since Tom Hyer's training for the fight with Sullivan."

We regret to hear, now, of Gov. Bigler's illness as sincerely as we did of the indisposition that prevented Judge Pollock from speaking at much length in Butler. We cannot imitate the example set us by the Union; but we may be permitted to hope that since it has found how idle and empty its boasts were, it may learn to exercise more charity toward opponents who are exposed to the common ills of mortality.

MAINE, ALL HAIL!—The returns from Maine leave no doubt of a most complete and overwhelming anti-Nebraska victory. Morrill, the anti-Nebraska candidate for Governor, is elected over all his competitors, the legislature is anti-Nebraska throughout, and all of the six Congressmen elected are Whig and Free Soil.

The Post of yesterday seemed to anticipate this result, and explained it by saying that there were eleven distinct organizations in the State and four candidates for Governor. It happens, however, that the Governor elect has a majority over all who ran against him.

The Post seems, moreover, disposed to give the whole thing up, as far as regards the north. It says, very lugubriously:

The people of the northern States seem determined to have a political frolic this year. It comes in the right time. They will have leisure to get sober and attend to duty in the right way in 1856.

We understand this as an acknowledgment of defeat in this State, and are rejoiced to find our neighbor giving in so early to inevitable defeat.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Robert Carter & Brother edition of "ANDREW'S MORNING AND EVENING EXERCISES, is now complete. It is divided into four volumes, corresponding to the four quarters of the year, commencing with January. The first volume published was for April, May and June; the next July, August and September. We have now, fresh from press, the first volume, for January, February and March, and the concluding volume, for October, November and December.—This edition, for the size of its type, the excellence of its paper, and the convenient size of the volume, is the best we have seen, and we would decidedly recommend Carter's edition to all who desire to purchase this valuable every day companion in the walk of christian life.

"FAITZ HAMDUN; or the Temptation. Altered and enlarged from the German. By Sarah A. Myers. New York; Robt. Carter and Brothers."

This is one of those delightful little moral tales, combining instruction with amusement; conveying religious views to the young mind, and inspiring it with a love of the beautiful and the good.

The above works are for sale by John L. Davison, 65 Market street. We should have mentioned yesterday, that Mr. Davison also has the "Old Redstone" for sale.

The election in Vermont is claimed as a Whig victory; yet the man elected is and was a Free-Soiler, and was elected as such by a combination of the Whig and Free-Soil vote. So go the lies.—Post.

The election in Vermont is not claimed as a Whig victory, except by a few foolish partizans; and "the man elected" is not and was not a Free-Soiler. So go the lies.

THE HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION.—We spent a few moments at this interesting exhibition, on yesterday afternoon. We were much gratified to find, notwithstanding the distressing drouth, a very respectable display of vegetables and fruits. The amount and perfection, of course, is not equal to the productions of more favorable seasons, but it is pleasing to see how much can be done under the most unpromising circumstances. The splendid Hall is tastefully fitted up, and our citizens cannot find a more pleasing and instructive place in which to while away a few hours.

This is the first time the new City Hall has been thrown open to the public. It is really a magnificent hall; fine in its proportions and tasteful in its decorations, and convenient in its arrangements

MR. VERNON, Stark Co., O.,
Sept. 9th, 1854.

MR. D. K. WHITE—Sir: Mr. John Shreve, an old Revolutionary soldier, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Dr. Jones, in this place, yesterday morning aged ninety-three years and five months.

Mr. Shreve served as a soldier under General Green, through the revolutionary war. He witnessed the execution of Major Andre, and saw Arnold go on the ship he made his escape in.

The deceased was a large, portly-looking man, talked with good sense concerning the different affairs of the nation, country, &c., until his last. He could read and write without the aid of spectacles.

Mr. Shreve was borne to the grave by eight pall-bearers, and followed by a number of his relatives and neighbors, without any pomp or military display.

Maine Election.

PORTLAND, Sep. 12.

In one hundred and seven towns the vote for Governor is—Morrill, fusionist, 21,605; Reed Whig, 4,694; Parris, democrat, 10,246; Carey, liberal, 1,376.

In the first Congressional District the vote in all but six towns is—Wood, fusionist, 4,762; Wells, democrat, 3,163; Scattering 102.

In 1852 the District gave M'Donald, democrat, 3,802 plurality.

In the second District Perry, fusionist, in 22 towns has 3,808; Kimball, democrat, 2,210; Scattering 68.

In the third district, fifteen towns give Farley, Whig, 1,459; Knowlton, fusion, 2,947.

In the fourth district, but few returns have been received but there is no doubt of the election of Benson, Whig.

In the fifth district, Bangor gives Washburn, whig, about 500 majority; Brewer over 200 and Brunson 426. There is no doubt of his election.

In the sixth district in twenty-one towns Smith, whig, has 4773; Fuller, democrat, 1124; Milliken, fusionist, 2631.

All the Senators elected are either fusionists or whigs.

For representatives, the election of thirty-six Fusionists, six Democrats, and seven Know Nothings have been heard from.

The Argus of this morning a Democratic paper says:

"The latest news leads us to fear that about everything from Congress down has gone by the board, and we shall be glad to learn that Morrill is not elected by the people for Governor.

It ascribes the result in part to the Know Nothings."

The State of Maine speaks of the rout of the Administration as overwhelming, and says the result is mainly attributable to the new order of things in political warfare, the "Know Nothings."

For Congress in the Third District, Knowlton, fusionist, has 2,947 votes.

Judge Bronson, in accepting the "Hard" nomination for Governor of New York, expresses himself in favor of the fugitive slave law and the principles of the Nebraska bill, and adds:

"Whether such sentiments are now popular or not, I entertain no doubt that they will ultimately be approved by a great majority of the people of this State. Error and fanaticism may triumph for a time, but reason will prevail in the end."

CALIFORNIA TRADE.—There have been only 285 arrivals at San Francisco, this year, which is a falling off of 228 compared with the same period last. This is a wonderful reaction in the trade of that port; and is attributed to the stagnation in business, and an over-crowded market.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge.—Another medical witness.—It is no small evidence of the intrinsic value of this great Vermifuge, when even physicians, who are generally prejudiced against patent medicines, voluntarily come forward and testify to its triumphant success in expelling worms. Read the following:

HARRODSVILLE, Shelby Co., Ky., April 2, 1852.

J. Kidd & Co.—I am a practising physician, residing and practising in this place. In the year 1849, I was President of the State of Missouri. I became acquainted with the superior virtues of Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge. At some more leisure moment I will send you the result of an experiment I made with one vial, in expelling upwards of 1000 worms.

☞ Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, and take none else. All other Vermifuges, in comparison, are worthless. Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in the United States and from the sole proprietors,

FLEMING BROTHERS,
Successors to J. Kidd & Co., Wood street.

The Germans have produced some very excellent remedies for various diseases. Among which may be specified "Dr. Hoofland's Celebrated Bitters," for sale by C.M. Jackson—and used with remarkable success in Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, and all diseases arising from a disordered stomach. The Sunday Dispatch says of this medicine:

"We feel convinced, that in the use of the German Bitters the patient does not become debilitated, but constant gain in strength is the result, and at the same time pay due consideration. The Bitters are pleasant in taste and in smell, and can be administered, under any circumstances, to the most delicate stomach. Indeed they can be used by all persons with the most perfect safety. It would be well for those who are much affected in the nervous system, to commence with one tea-spoonful or less, and gradually increase. We speak from experience, and are, of course, a proper judge. The press, far and wide, have united in recommending the German Bitters, and to the afflicted we most cordially advise their use."

The great success these extraordinary Medicines have attained, met with in curing the above complaints, has compelled even the Proprietors themselves, saying nothing of the thousands of individuals who have been permanently cured by their use. We would assure the public that they are not mere patent humbugs, compounded solely to sell, but are prepared by a regular Chemist, with the most choice and rare ingredients which can be obtained, and are intended to do good. More Proof and Proof Myers' Proof Wins Out!

To Rock Oil Consumers.

MESSRS. A. MEDICINE under the name of Myers' Extract of Rock Rose, has recently found its way into this country, and from the newspaper account (or recommendation) I was induced to make a trial of its healing properties in the case of rheumatism, and in which I have been laboring under a disease known by the name of Scrofula. Its prominent symptoms were open ulcers in the throat, enlarged parotid glands, diseased condition of the mucus membranes of the head, and to that extent many times do result not be detected, when the health was open, there being no passage through the nostrils, with many other painful symptoms that often attend this scourge of human happiness and life. I believe it is the opinion of the medical faculty generally, that this disease is the foundation of almost every case of Consumption a that fall destroyer, that carries to the grave annually its tens of thousands. My wife has taken three bottles, and it has restored her to perfect health, healing all the ulcers resulting every gland to its original size, and removing from the lungs a difficult respiration, or breathing, which, at times, was painful. In my opinion, it is due to the medicine and its inventors, to say, at least in Scrofula there is no specific that can equal it. Yours, with esteem.

WILLIAM LLOYD, Surg. & Physician.

DYSPEPSIA.

A. H. L. Myers:—Dear Sir.—I have suffered for a long time from Dyspepsia, and it gives me great pleasure to inform you that, after using one bottle of your Compound Extract of Rock Rose, I received so much benefit that I can cheerfully recommend it to any one thus afflicted, as being a valuable medicine, and (the best I ever used.

SICK HEADACHE.

This certifies that one of my daughters has been subjected to periods of Sick Headache and Vomiting for some years—that some of the attacks were very severe, and were almost sure to follow extra exertion. Hearing of the beneficial effects of this "Rock Rose" upon others similarly afflicted, I was induced to purchase a bottle. From the commencement of her using it, (several weeks since,) she has been free from this distressing complaint. Her general health has improved and is now good, and we attribute this desirable result to the properties imparted by a merciful Providence to this valuable preparation.

This will certify that I have for years suffered with the most obstinate Erysipelas, which, it seemed to me, nothing would cure. I was finally induced, by my friends to attend the Lectures of Professor Silliman, of New Haven. Dr. Knight prescribed the Syrup of Rock Rose, which gave me immediate relief, and cured me of a disease from which I never expected to recover. J. JONES.

A Secret for the Ladies.—How to preserve beauty.—Don't use Chalk, Lilly White, or any of the so-called cosmetics, to conceal a faded or sallow complexion.

If you would have the rose brought back to your cheek, the sparkling and transparent skin, and life and vigor infused through the system, get a bottle of Carter's Spanish Mixture, and take it according to directions. It does not taste quite as well as your sweetmeats, but if after a few doses you do not find your health and beauty reviving, your step elastic and vigorous, and the whole system refreshed and invigorated like a Spring morning, then your case is hopeless, and all the valuable certificates we possess, to the contrary, is a tissue of falsehood.

It is the greatest purifier of the blood known; is perfectly harmless, and is the most powerful blood purifying and invigorating medicine ever discovered.

Sold by Druggists throughout the United States, Canadas and West Indies.
