Indiana and Illinois State Stock Banks.

We take this mode of notifying those who remit to us by mail that we can no longer receive the notes of the Indiana and Illinois State Stock Banks. They are not current in this city, and we cannot sell them except at a ruinous share.

The Police System Again.—The conviction of several of the night police, for the crime of larceny, committed under the most aggravating circumstances, leads us to hope that some earnest and permanent reform will be attempted in this department of our city government. The fact that such men are employed as the professed guardians of the people is truly alarming, and this truth, coupled with the undeniable fact that others are guilty of drunkenness, and others again are so inefficient, negligent and careless as to permit a murderer to walk off unmolested from their presence in broad day, should arouse the people to demand that sober, upright and efficient men should be placed in such responsible places.

A friend just from Europe remarked to us a few days since that London was the most secure and the most orderly city he ever visited. There every policeman has the bearing and conduct of a gentleman so far as behavior is concerned. No vulgarity, no rudeness, no ruffianism is ever witnessed in one who bears a policeman's badge. If any one should presume upon his positon to insult or maltreat the most lowly and unprotected, or should in any manner neglect his duties, he is immediately punished and discharged. All complaints against the police receive prompt attention by the authorities, and are examined with patient attention. The contrast afforded by the police system of our own city is disgraceful to our civilization, and to our boasted free institutions. What is freedom worth, if it will not protect our houses and homes, and secure us from injustice and oppression?

Carville, Link and Mcconnal, have been convicted of larceny. This was not, in our opinion, their chief offence, serious as it is. The gravest offence they committed against society was the use they made of the authority committed to them as public officers. They were sworn conservators of the public peace, and yet they invade the sanctity of the home they were appointed to protect, grossly insult and maltreat the inmates, and threaten and endeavor to use the power placed in their hands, to force a compliance with their demands. We care not whether it was true or not that Irwin had passed a counterfeit note on one of the men; that was neither the time, place nor mode of obtaining redress. There is no proof that any such note was passed, and the whole story looks very much as if made up for the occasion; but admitting there had been, they had the ordinary mode of redress by the law.—The moment they used the authority conferred upon them as policemen to exact compliance, and threatened incarceration in the watch-house, they committed an offence against society, against individual rights and against the laws of the very gravest character. If no larceny had been committed their puaishment should have been of the severest description which could possibly have been inflicted. We cannot therefore unite with the jury in reccommending McDonald and Carville to the mercy of the Court. They engaged in the original offence which led to the larceny; they wantonly assailed and abused a citizen in his own house, in the presence of his wife, in the grossest manner, while they were under oath as peace officers to protect and defend him.—They also violently assisted in the effort to compel Irwin to redeem the alleged counterfeit note, against his own convictions and wishes, using the power acquired by their offices for that purpose. They saw the pocket-book, they knew it had disappeared in the melee and they made no attempt to discover and restore it. We cannot see, then, where the room for mercy lies.

We hope the court, in passing sentence, will consider the aggravated circumstances of the case. A larceny committed under such circumstances as the using of the power conferred on a police officer to accomplish the nefarious purpose becomes of a tenfold more henious character than the offence of the swindler or the pickpocket.

Wm. Bell, Esq., one of our oldest and most respectable merchants, died on Thursday, and was buried yesterday. He had retired from active life, and was passing the evening of his days in the midst of his family. Thus the old among us are passing, one by one, from our midst. A new generation has taken their place. The man of sixty finds around him but few cotemporaries. The great majority are gone.

Woman's Rights.—A lady in Ohio sends us a subscription to the weekly Gazette, saying that she is tired of the hunker democratic papers in which her husband delights. Among the rights claimed for women, this is one which we are glad to see them exercise.

Jesuitism at Work.—When James Campbell was appointed Postmaster General it was feared by many, who were then thought over-apprehensive, that the Jesuits would get control of the Post-Office, and that all the secrets of the confidential correspondence which the department carried would be subject to the prying gaze of those who think it a religious duty to make such inquisition.

Facts are now transpiring which show this apprehension to have been well-founded. A letter in the Newark (N. J.) Advertiser, dated at Paterson, N. J., October 28, contains the following statements:

On October 5th, Wm. Lewis, of Branchville, Sussex county, put in the post office there a letter directed to Willis L. Childs, of Patterson.

On October 8th, Robert T. Shiner, of Newton, placed in the post office there, a letter directed to Dr. E. S. McClellan, of Patterson.

On October 15th, Peter P. Brown, of Patterson, placed in the post office there, a letter directed to Peter C. Ornborne, of Branchville.

On the same day Virgil Broderick, Lafayette, put in the post office there, a letter directed to Willis L. Childs, of Patterson.

All these letters were broken open while in charge of the Post Office Department, copies thereof taken, and the letters resealed and sent to their destination. Two of the copies were furnished to the Banner at Morristown, and copies of the others were publicly circulated in Newton. The letters published in the Banner were also published in the New Jersey Herald at Newton, which in the same number had the following astonishing remarks respecting them:

"The discovery and possession of these letters will show the plotters that their movements are all watched and known; their secret disguises will be stripped from them, and in future they will have to act openly with the Whigs."

The editor seems to take pleasure in announcing that it is the practice of those, or some of those having the charge of the mails in this district to break open letters, and thus watch the movements" of that part of the Democracy who will not throw up their caps for George Vail. It should be stated, in justice to the Postmasters in this district, that for the last few weeks there have been two Clerks in the Post Office Department at Washington in this county, one of whom claims to be a secret agent of the Postmaster General.

This is a development that is likely to throw us back upon first principles. If we are not to be secure in our persons and papers, as guaranteed by the Constitution, and that because the Jesuits have got control of the most important branch of the government, we must take such measures as the necessity of the case demands. The instinct of political self-preservation will suggest the remedy. Hitherto the Post Office has been a sacred depositary, whither no secret police could intrude, and where letters were as religiously guarded as if in the possession of those writing or receiving them. If this is not to continue—if the secret agents of the government are to be permitted the privilege of ripping up the seals of our letters and betraying their contents, then is our form of government a farce and we are living under the veriest despotism. The monarchies of Europe claim no higher privilege of tyranny than this.

That these cases in New Jersey are not isolated ones is apparent. The same letter from which we have quoted above, says:

From the fact that copies of secret circulars issued in other States, have been, within the last few weeks, after being mailed, copied and published without the knowledge or consent of the writers or those to whom they were addressed, grave suspicions are suggested that the practice of breaking open and reading, or copying letters, is a common practice under the administration of the present Postmaster General, who was appointed for peculiar reasons, and maintains a peculiar relation to the Know Nothings, whose correspondence, it is said, is chiefly filled by the Post Office spies.

We are forced to conclude that there is really no safety in entrusting letters to the present management of the Post office. Political letters, especially, are now without protection. They ought as well be left unsealed, and a perusal of their contents invited. The Jesuits want to know what their enemies are doing, and the seal has no secrecy for them. It is a grave question for the American people to consider.

Idolatry and Blasphemy.—Joseph Marie, Roman Catholic Bishop of Erie, has addressed to his flock a pastoral letter, in which occurs the following:

"Let us, then, renew our confidence in the efficacy of prayer, in the watchful conduct of Divine Providence, and more especially now in the powerful intercession of the ever Blessed Mother of God, for whom we confidently anticipate new honors are designed by her Son in the expected definition by His Vicar, of her Immaculate Conception. It is particularly that the Holy Ghost may guide him herein, that the Sovereign Pontiff seeks the aid of our prayers. The motive of affectionate veneration and love for our Mother, the Virgin Queen of Heaven, should stimulate each and every one to avail himself of these days of mercy and salvation to be reconciled to God, and so promote her honor, while to the greater honor and glory of her Divine Son His sacred Passion becomes more fruitful in souls."

No man whose mind is enlightened and whose heart is warmed by the pure and heavenly teachings of the Gospel of the Son of God, can read such effusions as the above without a thrill of horror. No wonder that there is and must be in the very nature of things, an earnest and perpetual and vigorous war between the spirit of Protestantism and the spirit of Popery. Protestantism is the spiritual worship of the One God, manifested in the persons of the Triune Deity.—Popery is the worship of created beings, of the Virgin Mary, who is given a prominence over the Divine Being, and is made to take the place of the Blessed Redeemer, the only Intercessor. Most terribly has God punished the world for Idolatry. "My glory will I not give to another." Popery at this day is a system of the most fearful Idolatry. Is it any wonder, then, that the nations which embrace it are cursed?—witness Spain, Portugal, Italy, Ireland, Mexico, and South America.

A "Constitutional Party."—A movement is on foot in Philadelphia to organize what is called the "Constitutional Party." The papers add, significantly enough, that the new party is composed mainly of democrats. Geo M. Dallas, if we may judge from a wordy and unmeaning letter of his on the subject, lends the movement his sanction, but how much that may be, worth does not yet appear.

The formation of this party leads, we are to infer, to the abandonment of the democratic organization. That has lasted its day; and those who have so lately rallied around it are tired of serving under a banner which has lost its prestige. They seek, therefore, to another; and, so far as their action may be considered as surrendering a corrupt and wicked organization, we have no objection to it.

But why call the new party by the name of Constitutional? Was the old democratic party devoted to unconstitutional measures? It would seem so; else why strive for a new organization with such a name?

All the parties that have ever existed in this government have claimed to be the especial friends of the Constitution, as all that follow them will doubtless do; the new party, therefore, will possess no special merit. It will be merely a receptacle for broken-down demagogues and cast-off patriots, to whom it will afford a new theatre for their twaddle. Joy be with them.

President of the Senate.—The Washington Star say that it is understood that Mr. Atchison will not be present at the opening of the approaching session of Congress, and a new President pro tem. will have to be chosen. Mr. Atchison has to look out for a re-election to the Senate; and as the Missouri legislature is not very reliable, he finds his presence at home necessary to dragoon the members into his support. He is one of those who can well be spared from the Senate, and we hope to see him defeated.

The Star says that Senator Rusk, of Texas, will be chosen President of the Senate. Of course. The South has had a monopoly of that office since the government was organized.

Important Arrest at the Ohio Penitentiary.—One of the Guards of the Ohio Penitentiary by the name of J. S. King, formerly of Guernsey county, was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing a large quantity of goods belonging to the State; a part of which was found at his residence in this city. He was also charged with attempting to assist a convict by the name of Metts to escape from the Prison.

Mr. Buttles, one of the Directors, and Mr. Wilson, the Warden, were put in possession of facts, some time ago, that caused them to suspect the prisoner, and a close watch has been kept over his actions since. By a system of well arranged plans they succeeded in obtaining such evidence as warranted his arrest. The examination will come off to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, before Esq. Field.—Ohio State Journal.

The Gazette is really in earnest against the women. They should not ride on horseback according to that paper. We wonder what he thinks of the manufacture of their cotton, as there is our neighbor over to Miss Lucy Stone.

He believes, however, that they can set types at half price. That is one concession.—Post.

As the Gazette does not employ women to set type at any price, and never ventured to make the experiment of employing them, this fling is as unwarranted as it seems to be ill-natured.

Sunk and Raised.—The St. Nicholas struck a rock or other obstruction, on her way up from New Orleans, on Friday last, just below the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi, and sunk.—Capt. Barger, her commander, telegraphed to his agent here that she would probably be a total loss. His apprehension, however, are likely to prove not well grounded, as when passed by the Trabue, she was afloat and on her way up. The Henry Chouteau, the first boat which came along after the St. Nicholas sunk, relieved the sunken boat of all the freight which could be removed; with that assistance, together with the aid of a Submarine and her own pumps, she was got afloat, and will probably arrive to-day. Her freight it is likely is almost all damaged, as the water was above her lower deck. We have no information as to the amount of freight she had, but presume she was rather light, as freights when she left New Orleans were rather scarce.

The St. Nicholas is owned by Messrs. W. L. Ewing & Co., of this city, and Capt. Barger.—She was valued at $40,000 to $45,000, and insured for $36,500.

The Oyster Panic.—The oysters have proved their character under the most discouraging circumstances. They suffered at first, but it was only a prudential retreat during which they marshaled their forces for a triumphant return. And truly they seem likely to achieve it. The doctors, the most stringent of dietarians, have come to their relief, and chemists have certified to their healthfulness. Henceforth we may eat and rejoice: the luscious bivalve is restored to public confidence: it is no longer pronounced as "unwholesome as a cockle on a copper bank," but may be enjoyed in due moderation without fear. The oyster is popular and has many friends who will congratulate it on its convalescence by swallowing it without compunction.—Balt. American.

A Valuable Family Medicine—So celebrated has Dr. McLane's Vermifuge become, that it is regarded as the only specific cure for worms. Families should never be without a supply of it. At this season particularly, when worms are so troublesome and frequently fatal among children, parents should be watchful and on the first appearance of those distressing symptoms which warn us of their presence, at once apply this powerful and efficacious remedy. We are confident a trial, to convince all that it richly merits the praises that have been lavished upon it. It is safe and infallible. Volumes of certificates can be produced, showing its great medicinal virtues.

☞Purchasers will be careful to ask for DR. M'LANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE, and take none else. All other Vermifuges, in comparison, are worthless. M'Lane's Vermifuge, also his celebrated Liver Pills, can now be had at all respectable Drug Stores in the United States and from the sole proprietors,

They purify from the system the morbific humors which retard the natural functions and thereby cause pain, disease and suffering to the body. It has never failed to give the most perfect satisfaction, following a sedentary occupation, with almost equal relief by the use of the "Washington Suspender Brace," made and sold by DR. KEYSER, corner of Wood st. and Virgin alley, Pittsburgh. It serves admirably the purposes for which it is intended, is light and neat, and altogether a most desirable article, far superior to the many other Braces in general use. For sale and fitted them by mail, free of postage, to any part of the Union.

Dr. Morse's Invigorating Elixir or Cordial.—If it is inquired how this great restorative is accomplishing such extraordinary cures, we can only reply that in the Arabian herb that forms its cardinal ingredient has been Blended by the Omnipotent Physician, a larger amount and greater varieties of curative properties than his heretofore been supposed to exist in a hundred different species of the pharmacopœia. A whole medicine chest is bundled, as to speak, and put into one concentrated pill herbs; and in the ELIXIR or CORDIAL we have their concentrated essence. It is the effect, however, not the cause with which we have to deal in the practical application of the medicine. The victims of Mercury are cured, the nervous are relieved, the half paralyzed resume their activity, the sufferers from head-ache are tormented no more the weak become mighty, the vail of jaundice leaves the complexion of the bilious, the depressed in spirits become buoyant, the sick in almost in every condition of disease derive immediate benefit from the use of Dr. Morse's Invigorating Elixir or Cordial. We are supported in irrefragable proof, are presented to the attention of invalids, who can verify them by a single bottle of the medicine. The Cordial is put up in highly concentrated, in pint bottles. Price three dollars per bottle, or half pints, six for twelve dollars.

To Physicians of Pittsburgh.—Physicians who use alcoholic liquors in cholera, should prescribe Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps in preference to any other stimulants. Read what the Evening Express and Boston Post says of the article.

[From the Evening Express, New York, August 7.]

☞Under the head of "Remarkable," and in its leading columns, the Boston Post of August 4th, has the following commendatory notice of the temperate use of the Schiedam Schnapps as a remedy for cholera. We should be sorry to say so much as a mere puff of an article of alcoholic drink, and especially of an article we have never used, but this becomes being a matter of importance. If so many hundreds of physicians as a pure and wholesome article, and recommend its use as a choleric medicine. An immense quantity of bad liquor is drunk in these times, as a remedy for the cholera. It clears diarrhœa and dysentery inclinations for the moment, but leaves the system weak and debilitated. Whatever as a substitute is a true remedy for the disease, should be used, and we give to the Boston Post credit for the following statement:

"Remarkable—Not a person who has used Wolfe's Schiedam Schnapps during the warm season, has died with the cholera, and this is all it has been twice as much during the last two months as during any previous sixty days."
