There is also published a letter from Count Nesselrode, setting forth the terms on which the Czar will assent to peace, namely: First—a joint guarantee, by the Five Powers, of the protection of the whole Christuau population in Turkey. Secondly—A joint protectorate of the five Powers over the Principalities, subject to existing fluxsian treatics. Thirdly—The recision of the treaty of 1841, to which Russia will assent if the Sultan will likewise do so. Fourthly—The free navigation of the Danube.

The speech of the King of Prussia to the Chambers is also published. The King says that the army shall be made ready for war, but he refrains from indicating the course which Prussia will adopt. Meantime the Berlin papers publish a despatch from the Baron Von Manteuffeul, Nov. 16, to the Ambassador at Vienno, expressing the determination of the Prussian government not to demand from Russia any concessing the determination of the Prussian concession beyond the four points. It is indeed stated, but should be received with caution, that at a Council held on the 6th, the King of Prussia determined to unite in the treaty, with a view to bring the war to a close.
