To avoid this very disagreeable contingen-cy, they shut up instanter, and withdrew grace-fully, without even condescending to put up a single word of explanation. Since then, so far as our knowledge extends, they have not been seen or heard of.
A. S. Wright, propriser of the aliners' Ex-change Bank, made an aboritive stiempt to con-tinue under way; the storm, however, was too severe, and by eleven o'clock he struck. Be-fore closing he protested to the crowd pressing around the counters, his ability to meet avery obligation, dollar by dollar, if time was only al-lowed him to convert bars into coin. His words, however, were unheeded, and amid tho yells and ourses of over two hundred exas-perated men, his doors were shut. Night force last, the Miners' Exchange building was bril-liantly illuminated, and the proprietor is therr-fore entitled to the distinguished consideration of having "gone out in a blase of glory. Mr. Wright sonds us the following ard for publica-tion. CARD TO THE PUBLIC.--I regret that in conton Post, received by the last steamer: "Turkey, has lost the strongest of statesmen during the present month, Khosre Pasha. He was 97 years old, and has been g Antroy man hus the stronges of her old statement during the present month, Khosref Paha. Hawar 97 years old, and has been a prominent man in the coïbcils of the Porte ever since the days of Calinarine of Russia. As he was the oldest, so he was the richest of the no-tables of Turky. His history is a thoroughly Turkish as were his honors and habiliments.-When George Washington was surreying land on the branches of the Ohio, and Sch Pomeroy was boring out the spiked eannon où the forts of Louisburg, Khosref was a lam and adformed orphan in the mountains of the Caucasus, obtain-ing a precarious existence by Ittle services among the cottagers. Hefore the Britch red conta had marched back to Boston from Lexing-ton Common, to the time of Yankee Doodle, the humpbacked beggar boy had stood as a slave in the bisthord lays market, had been installed as vernant Into the pialed of Abdul Hamed, and had found his way to the favor of young Mahmond, the thesi heir to the throne. In the country and the isosition where the passport to success is a find stitute of both, possessed aome faculty of gain-ling and retaining good will, which, enabled him to conquer nature. When Mahmond supessided to the throne, the fortunes of the orphan boy frose, and being shoulty af Merwards, made scarela-ry to Capidan Pasha, he laid the foundation of his enormous wealth. He has been ready to acquiese in avery change, and has penerally succeeded in obtaining something from every resolution. But he was always a slave. From the servinde of the imperial house there is no manumission. Though he leaves nearly £2,000, 000 sterling in moners of Caroling in mine is no manumission. Though he leaves nearly £2,000, 000 sterling in moners of Caroli envinty mark is de to the present Ballan." Wright sends us the following eard for publica-tion. CARD TO THE PUBLIC.—I regret that in con-sequence of the existing monetary pressure, I have been unexpectedly obliged, in common with soveral other Bankers of this city, to end-mit to a suspension of payment, which, I trust, will only prove temporary. I hope, when the present excitement has shated, and public confi-dence is restored, to resume bankers operations. The inability to obtain coin or any kind of se-cucity, rendered the measure which I have adopted an impersive necessity. The supply of coin in the country is inadequate to the demands created for it by the force of recent occurrences. On opening my Bank, this morademands often to it of the folds of recent occurrencies. On opening my Back, this morn-ing, I firmly believed I should be able to meet all the claims that might be made on me, and, with ordinary facilities, this belief would not have been disappointed.

have been disappointed. I continued to pay until my specie was ex-hausted, and although I cannot but hope that I shall soon be able to fulfil all my peonnary en-gagements, my ability to do so most depend very much on the restoration of public confi-dence; and the subsidence of the excitement that how prevails among the community.
