home show that Philadelphia is in no better condition. The North American 2873:

"There can be no doubt that the affairs of the city government are in a deplorable condition...
Notwithstanding any and all financial statements to the contrary, it is certain that our municipal expenses have largely outrun the revenues; and that there is a heavy debt incurred, with no present means to pay it. Provision must necessarily be made to meet the current ordinary exigencies of the administration, as well as to figuidate the indebtedness which exists. How both these ends can be accomplished with any sort of convenience, is a problem which may well puzzle the wits of the most expert financiers."

We do not quote this by way of retors or retal-cies of the administration, as well as to liquidate the indebtedness which exists. How both these ends can be accomplished with any sort of convenience, is a problem which may well puzzle the wits of the most expert financiers."

We do not quote this by way of retort or retaliation, but as developing a fact which challenges public attention. Philadelphia, last year, inaugurated a new government, chosen by a new party, and it is to the blundering; extravagance and mismanagement of this government it owes its present troubles. Bad as the old parties were deemed to be, they at least were able to keep the head of the city above water; and we suppose a majority of her citizens are now convinced that they are heavy losers by the change. The demagogues and political scoundrels who soixed hold of the machinery of a new party, have proved the machinery of a new party, and the provise and charitable uses; passed final party and the provise and charitable uses; passed final party and the prov agogues and political scoundrets who solved note of the machinery of a new party, have proved of the machinery of a new party, have proved more corrupt and reckless in their new field of operations than they could have been elsewhere, because enduring fewer restraints. We shall see, by the result of to-morrow's election, whether a year of such misrule has sufficed to cure the Philadelphians of last year's folly.

As, however, very few of the present House need reasonably anticipate a re-election, we do not think the major ity need trouble themselves about the matter.—
The unhealthiness of Harrisburgh will never affect them again.

We suppose there need be no fear of the passage of this resolution through the Senate. The State has expended a great deal of money in public buildings and improvements at Harrisburgh, and it is hardly in condition to undertake the greation of new ones in Philadelphia. But
