Although business generally was never duller in than it now is, the dullness does not arise from any real deficiency of money in the country or falling off in the production of the mines. The trapid decline of prices in real estate and nearly all kinds of projectly, the losses by the bank i suppensions, have so alarmed people that they are afraid to loan their money at any roles. count of the infinite operations of order of the infinite operations are incomed in a single year. He had po-tatoes which gave him a profit of $1,000 per acre. He became rich as by magic. The next year he cultivated largely, and so did hundreds of others. And what did he get for his regeta-bles ? Nothing. The price was so low that it would not pay for carrying them to market. Bo Mr. Horner had to pay his laborers the same high wages he paid the previous year, while his crops rotted in the ground. Our population be-ing so limited and no cultet for our surplus, to-gether with the fact that more produce can be in any other State in the Union, renders it im-possible to tell this year what prices will be the next. And this rule extends to everything that can be produced here. You read of apples hav ing been solid for a dollar each. but the first bearing season that is reached they will not pay for gathering. It will be just so with the rais-ter of stile or anything olse.
