POLITICAL SIGNS .- The signs of the times in the political world, as regards this country, are a tudy of much interest and importance at the which is yet in its incipient stages, and can punishment. The laws of the South now pre-tend to secure the rights of freemen kidnapped hardly beleaid to enjoy a national existence; but the position which this party may assume on questions of great public import will seriously effect all other parties, and the future destinies

The Journal says that this is a "little spot," a There is only one party in the country now "small speck on the map of the nation," "an with a distinct organization and a national exinsignificant patch of ground, large enough to make a few farms," and it beseeches "our Northern friends, if they are willing to be our istence—that is the old Democratic party, which at its head. It is a tottering, decrepid, and besetted party, and preserves its sickly existence from the influence of its name, the prejudices afforded by a possession of the administration o the general government. The people, under one society, and all the social institutions of the capital of the American Republic. It is glorious same or another, have decided against it in nearly every state of the Union, and however much to see the American flag which floats from the intion, or system of prosoription, yet the capitol, throwing the egis of its protection over association, or system of proscription, yet the masses generally agree in despising the corrupt, the lovely system of chattel slavery!

Third—The Kansas question. The Journal admits that it is a pity that the Missouri Comprotes leadership of such men as Atchison. Done. the leadership of such men as Atchison, Douglass and Pierce.

The Whig party has no national existence.—
Its death-blow was given when the resolutions of the Bältimore Convention of 1852 were passed. In the Southern States it has allied itself with Know-Nothingism. In the North, Know-Nothing, while another and large portion of the Whigs, while another and large portion stand ready to give their influence and support where it will best tend to check the advancing car of the Juggernaut of Slavery.

The action of the Know-Nothing order will greatly affect the future of the Democratic party and that of a large class, probably a sufficient number of voters in the Northern States to hold the balance of power. Its direct and important influence upon the future deatinies of the country are not therefore over-rated; and this is why the political signs affecting that order are so peculiarly interesting.

A national Convention or Council of the Know Nothings is to assemble in Philadelphia in June, and hence there is a powerful struggle going on in the interior of the order or among its leaders, to whaperize destiny according to their peculiar to their party in the North can and should reconcile themselves to letting the people of Kansas choose their own institutions, because the privilege of complex to the privilege of the Missouri Compromise, effected chiefly by Southern Totes, was a violation of faith, but it is certain thete. It will best trefuse, was a violation of faith, but it is certain to the Union, with or without slavery as they lead to be still more direct and applable and specific breach of faith. The Congressional act of 1820, called the Missouri Compromise, effected chiefly by Southern Totes, was a violation of faith, but it is certain the union, with or without slavery as they into a still more direct and applable and specific breach of faith. and hence there is a powerful struggle going on in the interior of the order or among its leaders, to shape its destiny according to their peculiar views. We have predicted that the pro-slavery party will prevail, and every day tends to confirm our anticipation. There are other questions, however, to be settled which, if not as troublesome as that of slavery, will be attended with great difficulty. The New York Courier and Enquirer, a paper which strongly sympathises with the Anti-Foreign Spirit, and which may be considered a leader in the Ullman-Hindoo, party of New York, mentions two of these questions, in an article on the June Convention, in which it says, "that the first business of the Know Nothinga, if they want support, is to understand themselves and make themselves understood by the country. Let them put their principles and and hence there is a powerful struggle going on in the interior of the order or among its leaders, the country. Let them put their principles and their measures into an explicit and intelligible their measures into an expirit ann intelligible.

Shape. There is an obscurity now resting thereupon which keeps the judgment of consistent ance of the Know-Nothing papers, has to offer to the acceptupon which keeps the judgment of consistent ance of the Know-Nothing National Convention which keeps the judgment of consistent certanty relates not only to the general political like every other we have ever bad from the questions of the day, but even to the inherent and distinctive characteristics of the Order it nothing but nataron she had and prudent men in painful suspense. This un-certanty relates not only to the general political

The Courier then mentions the question of tolerance in religious matters. The Protestant orders of this country, it asserts, have too just an idea of the free spirit and national dignity of Protestantism, to permit it to stoop to the inef-fable meanness and folly of proscription for fable meanness acconsisted sake.

"We tell the Know Nothings plainly that the people of this country will naturalize snything seles sooner than they will naturalize the old, castless sooner than they will naturalize the old, castless sooner than they will naturalize the old. people of this country will naturalize the old, castales on country and abominated, corporation and test acts of England. They will take and bear with any pest that the Europe of the nineteenth century can send in a living shape, soomer than adopt a European principle of the eighteenth century dead and turned to carrion. If Boman Catholic candidates for secular office are suspected of secular allegiance to the Pope, question them, catechies them as closely as you like. Give them a chance to be heard. Treat them as other American citizens are treated when before their fellow citizens for judgment. In the name of all that is enlightened and consistent, all that is just and manly, don't put them under blind ban and sweeping interdict. These are contrivances which are abborent to the genius of Protestantism, and doubly abborrent to the American spirit of equality and freedom. If the Know Nothing organization proposes to apply them, if it is bent upon making proscription of Catholics from office an established rule of action, it is time the country should know it. Let the Natonal convention speak."

speak."
The next question the Courier discusses is that of secrety. It asks if the country is to under-stand that it is the nature of Know Nothingiam to live in the dark-its born, unchangeable nature which cannot be put off without self-destruction? Again, is the rule of implicit obedience to be lasting? "Is it to be understood that the first demand "Is it to be understoot that the inst emand always to be made by the association is the abdication of private judgment, and that this is an essential law of its existence? Must same men ever go on swearing passive submission to the central authority? If this is the calculation let it be so understood. It has to do directly with the astimate to be put on the moral quality of the estimate to be put on the moral quality of the Order. It will decide the question whether we the Order. It will decide the question whether we have, at last, a society of Protestant Jamila among the have, at last, a society of Protestant Jamila among the have seen bave, at the process, servey, and implicit coal-bound submission. There is a spirit in man which groans beneath the weight of its own freedom, and exults in in bondage if only permitted to think that the shain has been voluntarily assumed. Jonatius took advantage of this, and made the most of it. Have the K. N. s dopted it as their own lesson. If they really have, we advise them for their own ordides aske, to add the fourth of the Ignation articles which forbids any member of the Bociety of Jesus to accept any acclesiastical or civil dignity. It is absurd for them to endeavor to run parallel with the Jusuits, and yet fall itself them, in the noblest of all human qualities—disinterestedness. It is precisely here that they have made their poorest figure and they have read—some of them must have read in their jest. The content is still unded the same poor them which there will be no delivarence.

The Courier gives the order sound and friendity counsel. Will it adopt it? We shall see.

This attempt to top on one erroneous primopie after another, only shows the weakness of what remain, and the utter absurdity of the attempt to form a great political party on such a sandy foundation.

A compromise, indeed! yes, a compromise just all like every other we have ever had from the South, in which slavery gets all, and freedom nothing-but pasts on the back. The North is gladly, lovingly to turn slave-catcher and hand over the panning fugitive to the South, who on her part promises he shall be tried by a jury of this oppressors and bitterest enemies. Then the District of Columbia is a "little patch," and the great magnanimous North can afford to let slavery alone there!
