which the deacons were elected; not of the fact. Here Mr. K. adduced proof to show that the two, whose names were contested, were thought to be members of the congregation, and had enjoyed privileges in it, and that their names were rightfully procured. We hold, said he, to be Presbyterians too, but some of us, who differ with the session, are rode over, rough shod.

While Mr. Scott was replying Synod adjourned.

While Mr. Scott was replying Synod adjourned.

The order of the day—viz. the memorial of the congregation of St. Louis was taken up. This memorial complains that the congregation has sustained loss by ministers of other Presbyteries, travelling in the bounds of Illinois Presbytery, talking about the character of their pastor, who has been accused of certain misdemeanors. The memorial refers especially to the conduct of Rev. R; Hucheson, who is alleged to have given circulation to the "fama" and endeavored to convince others of its truth. The memorial says, also, that Mr. Hucheson's conduct, since Rev. Todd's acquittal by Illinois Presbytery, has been still more guilty, as he has been still more present the second of the conduct of the conduct of the church knew it there is to be no Union, let the church knew it. He thought it was folly to talk of other churches; joining ours. That was a kind of Union that would never occur.

Mr. Robert Guy spoke fevorably of union. Mr. Andrew Hanshaw said during all the discussion he had heard no argument that would never occur.

Rev. J. C. Todd, pastor of St. Louis congregation, said that all knew the relation sustained by that Presbytery and the case—to send it there would nolly kill it.

Either Matthews said that Rev. H. had said he was willing to be tried on this memorial as on a libel, and hoped he would now do so. They were prepared to substantiate all the charges.

Rev. J. B. Johnston esaid the paper is not what it purports to be. It is really, though formally, a libel. Let it be used as such. To send it to Likes? Presbytery would only involve parties, and they thought to be partial. Here is the proper tribunal. Here it can be tried impartially. This is due to the defendants, as well as to the complainants.

Rev. Hatcheson argued that we have one course to pursue; hear the memorialists and content to the complainants.

Sabbath. After some remarks Synod decided not to adjourn.

Synod then proceeded with the consideration of the appeal from the Röchester Session.

Boy. Dr. Scott defended the action of session in suspending the applicants. They had intended to follow fully the mandate of Synod. As to those names that he had said had no right to be upon the paper at lastSynod, it is admitted that they were not members of Rochester congregation. He would be glad if it could be shown that there was authority for placing their names upon it, but he had the written certificate of Mirs. Logan, (one of the members) that the had wished to have nothing to do with it. The spellant had said that the moderator of session had grayged those who wished to oppose the election of deacons at the congregational meeting but the specified business. Is this gagging? No one who knew the use of terms would say so and he had a right to be offended at such language. The appellant had said the session had grayed at the property.—The session had never even asked the trustees for anything for itself but merely, in order to transfer the papers, &o, to deacons who had been elected. Are we for this to be compared to the Pope and the Biahop of Binfalo? The appellant does not like the term let them not do anything to deserve it, they are "moderate deacons" and so moderate that they have forgotten sheir principles.—He says they would have deacons for the poor. I am called an ultra deacon and by some a milk and waster deacon but since deacons and the some and the direction of Synod in relation to this matter, he was called an ultra deacon and by some a milk and waster deacon, but since deacons for the poor. I am called an ultra deacon and by some a milk and waster deacon, but since deacons and the some and the direction of Synod in relation to this matter, he was called an ultra deacon and by some a milk and waster deacon, but since deacons and the some and the direction of Synod in relation to this matter, he was called an ultra deacon and by some and the sound o of the descons, and this he had endeavored to carry out.

Elder Robinson made a further defence.

Rev. J. Nightingale moved that the appeal be sustained and the decision of session reversed. Mr. Nightingale said that the point is whether these men were righteously suspended. He thought that session when they had secured the election of descons had gone to the utmost verge of their authority, derived from Synod's mandate. These men had not premptorily refused to give the papers, but-simply stated they were not prepared. Men on this floor who hold trusts, if required to deliver them, would give the same required to session can rightfully hold property.

It was the session who had made the demand, and no session can rightfully hold property.

Rev. J.M. Willson said the member was entirely mistaken. He thinks that it is the real estimated the following, which was adopted to the following. This is not the point. It mand, and no session can rightfully hold property.

Itev, J.M. Willson said the member was entirely mistaken. He thinks that it is the realizate that is in question. This is not the point. It is in question. This is not the point. It is in relation to the books and documents. Besides the session did not ask it for the emperator. It is trust for the congregation. The member is great stress on the phrase "not prepared."
