herself of them, at a figure below their, actual cost, and not above their value if properly managed, but in both instances she has been foiled, lines between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and leaving the Canal without any facilities for the transit of freight between the East and the West. In this she has been almost completely successful, although at what cost does not ye appear. A company, formed of portions of two of the principal transportation lines on the Ca mal, advertise themselves now as forwarding agents for the Pennsylvania Railroad, expecti to be able (for a consideration sufficiently valua-ble to themselves,) to turn all the freight hitherasylvania Railroad.

The State is thus left, through the agency that Company, with an expensive line of works upon her hands without facilities for transpor-tation, and consequently unproductive. Upon but the formation of a new organization, whose taking and consequently unproductive. Upon the tax payers of the State is thrown the burden of maintaining a long line of improvements, which for the present can yield nothing. For this, as we have said, they are indebted to the kindness of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which expects to be permitted to take advantage of its own wrong, and resp the benefits of the ruin it has wrought. It remains to be seen whether the people, through their representammodating as to permit this trick to be played out successfully to the end.

But, it is said, the Railroad Company had an undoubted right to buy off the transportation lines, if she could. We do not so regard it; but let us suppose that she had; is that any reason why she should exercise that right, to the mani-fest injury of the state at large and of various one of it? She has a right, legally special portions of it? She has a right, legally speaking, to do many things that would annoy speaking, to do many things that would annoy the marcantile interest of this city and injure its trade irremediably; and she may have a right to do many other things of questionable property; but it does not therefore follow that she is bound to exercise such rights or privileges. The means for constructing the road were contributed by the people and municipalities in Philadelphia, and Allegheny counties, as well as those along the line in the interior; and as their interests have been hitherto much promoted by the canal, a due regard to those interests would have prevented the injuricus course that has been adopted. But all such considerations have been thrust saide. The interests of the State, of Philadelphia, of Pitts-burgh, of the interior, have all been made to the such as a fact of the state, and the such as a fact of the interior, have all been made to the such as a fact of the single of the State, of Philadelphia, of Pitts-burgh, of the interior, have all been made to the such as a fact of the single of the State, of Philadelphia, of Pitts-burgh, of the interior, have all been made to the such as a fact of the single of the such as a fact of the single of the single of the such as a fact of the single of the single of the such as a fact of the single of the single of the such as a fact of the single of considerations have been thrust saide. The interests of the State, of Philadelphia, of Pittsburgh, of the interior, have all been made to yield to the interests of a giant corporation, whose life is to be fed at their expense. Is tradic that would come hither over roads in which we all have a interest to be turned saide to other and cheaper channels because the canal is no langur able to keep freights down? Is Pittsburgh to be made to suffer in her very vitally follow the loss of the canal? Are our merchants to be thrown helplessly upon the whose and caprices of a corporation, without a check upon it, and their business stolen away from them because competing cities enjoy the benefits of low freights flowing from competition of the carrying trade? Lo and behold I we are catching the carrying trade? Lo and behold I we are catching the carrying trade? Lo and behold I we are catching the carrying trade? Lo and behold I we are catching the infection from them.

is the carrying trade? Lo and behold! we are told that the Pennsylvania Bailroad Company has the right to work us all this wrong, and we should not complain! If she has such a right, it is a pity that the franchises granted her were not more strictly guarded; and since she chooses to exercise it, regardless of consequences, let us see if we, too, have not some rights, and whether the law of self-preservation will not impel us to be as jealous of our privileges as those who would exercise theirs against us.

BUTLER COURTY.—The editor of the New Brighton Record says that on a recent visit to Battler he was cheered by the intelligence that movement was en foot for the organization of a republican party in that county, which will ere long develope itself in a general moving of the masses. He was informed that a call would be issued in a week or so, similar to those of our own and adjoining counties. The doubtful position, and the avowed hostility of the demoracy to its agitation, have left no alternative to the people but the formation of a new organization, whose position will be beyond cavilor doubt on the side

To Mothers, Wives and Daughters.—
The noblest discovery in the science of medicine, and the one which has, and will continue to prove, the greatest blessing to the human family, is the medical preparation known as Marshall's Uterine Oatholicon.

It is designed to cure the various diseases incident to famales, such as prolapsus, pain in the back, weakness, extreme prostration from nursing sind a hundred other crisis in their train, have since timed life a burden turned estistence into a daily and hourly curse. The most enlightened professors of the medical colleges in the old world, as well as in this (country, have held the subject in anxious consideration, and they have finally determined that the old method of treating these as local and separate disease was all wrong, and that a constitutional treatment was what was required. It is an old adage, that
