vania ? If a slave in North Carolina is a slave in Pennsylvania for one moment after he is sylvania has abrogated, then he may remain a slave, perpetually under the same law. The Pennsylvania must guard her soil against the contamination of slavery by express statute, and to preserve herself from the far-reaching influence of North Carolina laws, is so utterly ridiculous and absurd, that we marvel that a man so weak could have arrived at the dignified position of a Judge. If Judge Kane had listened to the reverberations from the Hall of Independence, he would have heard the fundamental law of Pennsylva-nia, which declares that all men naturally are entitled to certain inalienable rights, one of which is liberty / and if he had not been seeking for a reason for offering up a brave man as a sacri-fice to appears the Moloch of slavery, he would have recollected some of his Pennsylvanis teach-ing, which told him that human liberty was not a thing of enactment; that while it requires a the coming election, but to units with their felstatute to make a slave, it requires none to make low citizens of all parties in an independent ora freeman : and that on Pennsylvania soil, in the absence of any statute law to the contrary, the colored woman and her two children, brought the solence of any statute law to the contrary, the solence of woman and her two children, brought here by Wheeler, were just as free in their per-sons as Judge Kane himself ; and he would have acknowledged that Passmore Williamson no more solenowledged that Passmore Williamson no more solenowledged that Passmore Williamson no more solenowledged that Passmore Williamson no more substitution of the solenowledged that Passmore Williamson no more substitution of the solenowledged that they were free, than if he had conveyed that information to Judge Kase himself. Brory day that this modern Jeffries keeps Williamson in prison, he calls down upon his own head the bitter exercations of thousands of freemen who detest the tyrant Judge as heartily as they admire the conduct of the bold defender of human right. We sympathise with the insocent sufferer, but be his the consolation that every day be lives in prison weakens the fetters which due lilloast in borders and herter out housant right. Let Judge Kase carn for himserable Dough facelsm, and let such time servers as Judge Lewis refuse to interpose to protect the rights of a citisen of Pennspivania; let Williamson suffer, and justice and law be outraged, and our Commonwealth disgraced, we have the comolation of knowing. that if there is any virtue, any manly spirit, any reverence left for the herces and failters of the maturn. any reverence left for the heroes and fathers of on, and any love of true liberty, the day of a blessed deliverance draws nigh. The long suffering of the people under the igno-miny and injustice inflicted by slavery will not

The friends of the Republican movement, after consultation, have, advised that the call for a county convention should be postpoued until after the meeting of the Whig County Committee, which is called for next week. As a large mount of the strength of the Republican movement in this county would naturally be expect. ed to come from the ranks of the old whig party, which was once so powerful, and which was always, opposed to the aggressions of slavery, this postponement is undoubtedly dictated by sound policy. It is grievous enough to find the Anti-Nebraska forces divided into two parties-it would be unbearable to have them divided into three.
