The objection has been made to Mr. Williamson that he is the secretary of as Abolition Socisty. He is the secretary of a Society, incorporated by the legislature of this State in the days of the Revolution, for the amelioration of the condition of colored men. Of this Society Barplant Paranella and Da. Russi were active menbers and officers; and Passmore Williamson is but Nobody disputes that the Constitution guaranees equal rights to all the people of the United states. But does that give alsveholders the right to extend their local institution, existing solely by State laws, into the free territory of the Union, where it does not and cannot legally exist, unless the Constitution was established to promote slavery as well as freedom? It slavery a national or a State institution? If national, has not Congress, then, the supreme legislature of the nation, the right to repeal it? It sounds singular, from a Pennsylvania paper, this complaining of aggressions upon the rights of the South, because the people of Pennsylvania, in convention assembled, utter a calm protest against alavery aggressions in Kanras, which even a Pennsylvania Democrat, appointed as governor, has denounced as lawless, while no word is uttered by this same paper against the constant and lawless.
