The Bradford Reporter, the old line democratio paper, says of the meetings:

"It was a gathering which by its enthusiastic and determined action, and by the outspoken and many expression of its principles, may well there and invigorate to faire exertions the friends of the good cause. It is graitlying indeed, to see active partitians, arrayed for years in sutagonism and recollections of old conflicts, come up shoulder to shoulder, in sommon cause. Such a spectacle will give new courage to the friends of Freedom everywhere. It shows that the people are honest and independent—that they have conscientiously differed on questions of principle, but that now when the store of the freedom everywhere on questions of principle, but that now had described in the first of the freedom of the first of the freedom in the first of the freedom in the first of the freedom of the first of the freedom has in the hearts of the Freedom of Freedom has in the hearts of the Freedom in the city.

mocked and derided, and the fat places of the country monopolited by the city? Is it willing to it and report of the party may have discountry monopolited by the city? Is it willing to it and an earlied to be ridden by the booted and spurred gentry from tawn! There is a great deal of submissiveness, bettimes, in human nature; but this is more than the most nubmissive can passively yield to.

No party in third country has avered ared hither of the taken of the party in third country has avered ared hither to a stampt such a policy. The old parties, denounced as corrupt and rotten by those who were their vilest offerpring, never were corrupt enough or becotted enough thus to set the country at defiance while appealing to it for its aid. The country had always some chance in their conventions, and was sure to receive a share in the man who spits upon and denounces the people, which affords no refuge to demonstrations. It has remained for this party, incorruptible and undefiled party, this party of the people, which affords no refuge to demonstration for this party, we say, to full into the hands of a few city managers who have parcelled out the complications. It has remained for this party, we say, to full into the hands of a few city managers who have parcelled out the complications. Let our country friends look at the ticket, and now before the people of the county. We have not room, to-day, to deal with it in detail, but we shall have early and abundant opportunity to pay our respects to it.

Suffice it to say, it lacks all the elements of strength. Made up, in the main, of broken down politicians and persistent office hunters, each of whom may be said to have left his party for a hunter of the township councils, some of whom may be said to have left his party for a hundred were east. The executive committee his party because the old ones have cast them off, it presents itself to the public without the least claim upon public regard. There are one or two names there that ought to be in letter company; but on the whole, they seem to be will matched. Last year, when this party was in inaugurated, the people were invited to rally do it, for the purpose of getting rid of office-ceaters, demagogues and old politicisties: it was to be a sample. Those who have been familiar with party pol-
