Another Witness.—Mr. Simon Wolf, a respectable citizen of Washington county, and who was entrapped into the Know Nothing Order by its fair promises and abounding pretences, thus gives his experience of the affair:

"I have said I had never been much of a politician; but I had long since become disgusted with what I considered the corruption of the old political parties, and when, during the last season, "Know Nothingism" was introduced among us, with its promises of reformation, and the high hopes its leaders held out, that a new party was forming to stem the tide of corruption and correct the abuses and reform the evils which so long held rule in high places, I was delighted with the idea, and made inquiry of some who pretended to understand the principles and objects of the new association. I was assured that ancient abuses should be corrected; that the new party was based on pure and honorable principles; and that our government would be carried back to the measures which ruled the administration of Gen. Washington. Under such representations, I became a member, and I gave the organization a full and thorough investigation; and NOW DECLARE, THAT IN THE LIFE OF SIXTY YEARS, I HAVE NEVER FOUND, IN PRIVATE OR PUBLIC, IN POLITICS OR OUT OF IT, IN CHURCH OR STATE, AS MUCH DECEIT, FALSEHOOD AND CORRUPTION, AS I FOUND IN THE SELF-STYLED "AMERICAN PARTY." As an honest man I could not remain in political association with such a combination, and I withdrew, and now feel like a freeman, who had been enslaved, but had regained his liberty."

How many are there, in this county, who can bear similar testimony! It was these seductive hopes held out by the leaders, that the new Order was to inaugurate the day of honest politics and bring back the golden days of the early republic, which lured thousands into its embrace; and daily are the watchful and observant among them drawing to the conclusion of Mr. Wolf, that it is the most corrupt political organization that ever existed in this country. They see it, and feel it; and if they do not utter their convictions publicly, it is not because they lack the prompting of their consciences to do so, but because they shrink from making an open parade of themselves. Their voice will be heard, however, at the ballot box.

That such a result as Mr. Wolf describes would be realized, was apparent from the first. How could it be otherwise? It was an organization inviting corruption. Its secrecy, the slavery imposed upon its members by their oaths, the concentration of its power in the hands of a few, and the unlimited authority conferred upon its county conclaves, were all instruments of corruption, irresistibly tempting to the demagogue, and sure to be used for the worst purposes. In the short career which the Order has run, these characteristics have worked out their legitimate consequences; and while it is a matter of rejoicing that the honest men who were inveigled into the trap now stand aghast at such results, the wonder will never grow less that they were not shrewd enough to foresee them as inevitable.

Mr. Wolf discloses another matter in connection with the obligations assumed by the members. After enumerating other objections to the Order, he says:

"I am opposed to it because, by the oaths administered to its members. They are bound, in all things, political OR SOCIAL, to comply with the will of the majority, though it may conflict with the personal preferences of the members."

This is a development worth studying. Such an oath places the whole social life of those taking it at the mercy of the majority. To confine it to things political, binding a man to vote for those, whom he disapproves, is bad enough; to extend it beyond that point is simply infamous.

The Republican party, in presenting itself before the world, made no pretence to peculiar sanctity, and held out no promises to the community that it would nominate none but new men for office. Its motto was to select, if possible, the best men available as candidates; and if such men should prove heretofore to have held or sought office, that fact was not necessarily to be taken as a bar to their nomination. But the Know Nothing party did start out with such promises. It was a party fresh from the people, and was to be a party for the accomplishment of great reformations—with new men. It was to discard all those who had ever set ambitious eyes upon office, and thrusting aside the whole swarm of those who were known as politicians or office-holders, it was to achieve its great mission through the virgin energies of the Cincinnatus tribe of men, whom the offices were to seek and find. That it has not done so; that it has been the victim and the tool of old and corrupt demagogues; that it has chosen its nominees from the cast-off dribblings of other parties—political refugees of all clans, is therefore a proper subject of exposure and comment. It is no answer to that exposure to say that other parties—that the Republican party has taken men for candidates who have been candidates before. Those parties in general, and the Republican party in particular, have made no pretenses of the kind put forward by the Know Nothings, and hence are not amenable to the same standard of judgment.

Party Slaves.—The devotion to party which characterized members of the old organization, has often been made a matter of reproach; and the ease with which a large class of men were brought to vote for, party nominees, even when those nominees were proper objects of dislike, was certainly an evil. But in all this there was no compulsion upon the voters. If party ties, or party prejudices led them to such a course, there was no restraint upon them; they could vote for whom they pleased and violate no obligation. But this new party, which was to reform all political abuses, carries this evil to its very extreme. It imposes upon its members an oath to support its nominees, and they are told that there is no escape from this but by perjury. No matter how wicked, how unworthy, how unqualified a candidate may be, and no matter what friends were committed in his nomination, he must vote for him, or be posted as a perjurer. The most abject party slave that ever slipped his neck into a collar is the man who submits to thraldom such as this.

Kansas Election.—The border ruffians have fixed upon the first Monday of October as the day for electing a delegate to Congress from Kansas, that being the day designated in the void laws passed by a sham Legislature. The citizens of the territory, having been deprived of a legislature qualified to fix a time by law, have fixed upon the Second Monday of October as the day of election, at which time they will cast their votes for ex-Governor Reeder. As he has no opponent as yet, for that day, he will be successful beyond a doubt; and it seems reasonable to suppose that the next House, constituted as it is likely to be, will admit him. In that way the seal of disapprobation will effectually be put upon the Missouri marauders.

The Westmoreland Intelligencer can see no good reason why the whole anti-Nebraska vote of that county should not be rallied to the support of the K. N. ticket for State Commissioner. There is one reason which, in our view, is decisive: he is not worthy the support of anti-Nebraska men.

The Harrisburgh Telegraph, which stands in the front of the Know Nothing crusade in this State, is edited by a man who, in 1851, at the election for Judges of the Supreme Court, voted for James Campbell, the present Postmaster General, knowing him to be a Catholic. And he is a man who talks Rev. to his name, betimes.

In answer to many inquiries daily made of us, we take pleasure in stating that the health of Mr. White is improving, although but slowly, and that there is now a fair prospect of his recovery.

The Beaver Argus notes an "American" meeting in Beaver county, which was addressed by two individuals from this county, of the first of whom it says:

"The first speaker dropped a remark which impressed us favorably with his candor; but which we fear started the cold chills on those ardent Americans who strangely entertain the idea that their party in its present shape is destined to be perpetual. In speaking of the Republican party he made the declaration that 'that party was crippling the energies and crushing the life out of the American party.' This confession is as frank as we think it will prove truthful in the end. Everything tends to show that its existence will be brief. Had that organization started out in a fair, open, untrammeled manner, with a determination to build up a true and a genuine American nationality with a determination to foster American industry; liberalise American institutions, effect needed reforms in the Naturalization and Emigration laws, without seeking to degrade our adopted citizens, or wrest from them their acquired privileges—instead of pursuing that narrow, illiberal and exclusive policy which fetters the arms of its members, makes birth-place a stigma, excites distrust, arouses the passions of the People, and arrays one portion of our citizens against another, then indeed it would have been vain for any opposing party to have attempted to 'cripple its energies, or crush out its life.'"

Household Words, for October, has been received from the publishers, Messrs. Dix & Edwards, 10 Park Place, New York. This is a most useful, instructive and entertaining serial publication, and well worthy of general patronage. Published monthly at $3,00 per annum.

For the Pittsburgh Gazette.

Mrs. Swisshelm retracts her former statement about the Free Soil State Committee having refused, in eighteen hundred and fifty-four to purchase the Visiter and give it to me, and substitutes another and totally different story about a proposition made by her, in person, in eighteen hundred and fifty-three, to a Free Soil State Convention. I know nothing whatever of the truth of this latter statement, not having been present at the Convention alluded to; but as her two statements are essentially at variance with each other, it is for the public to decide what credence should be awarded to averments so contradictory. R. Ernett.

Important Revelations.—Several letters from Horatio C. Perry Esq., late Secretary of Legation at Madrid, throw a good deal of light upon our relations with Spain. It will be remembered that he was removed from office, for the violation of official etiquette involved in his having addressed a letter to the President through the public press. This is the reason given for his removal, by Secretary Marcy, in the first of the letters referred to. The second, which is Mr. Perry's reply, shows that this was only a pretext,—and that the real cause of his ejection from office was his having incurred the resentment of Mr. Soule, while Minister at Madrid.

The third letter, which is Mr. Perry's reply to the Union, is more elaborate explanation of his removal, is much more minute and full than are its revelations. It shows clearly enough that the special object of Mr. Soule's mission to Spain was to repeal all the overtures of that power for a friendly settlement of the matters in dispute; to excite—by insult—her Government and people to resentment against this country, and eventually to involve the two nations in war, as the only mode of accomplishing the acquisition of Cuba. In all this he was resisted by Mr. Perry, who labored zealously and intelligently to maintain friendly relations with Spain, and who succeeded, after Mr. Soule's departure, in procuring the suspension of every claim, which he had been instructed to press upon the attention of the Spanish Government.

It was thus that he incurred Mr. Soule's hostility;—and to that he unquestionably owes his dismissal from office.

It seems characteristic of President Pierce not to know when he is well served. Those who do the most to promote the honor and the glory of his Administration, are the first to feel his vengeance. Reeder, whom he appointed Governor of Kansas, adopted a policy which if the President had sustained him in it, would have carried him safely through that most perilous crisis: —but he sacrificed him to the hatred of Atchison and Stringfellow. So Perry thwarted the man who would have involved the country in war, and laid the basis for a durable, honorable and creditable peace with Spain: and for this he, too, is removed from office.

The correspondence constitutes an important chapter in the secret history of the country under the present Administration.—N. Y. Times

A Will Case Decided.—The Albany Argus publishes the decision of Judge Mitchell, of the Supreme Court of New York, in the case of Bleecker vs. Bleecker, administrator with the will annexed of William Barthrop, deceased, against the people of the State of New York and others, and which involved the validity of certain trusts for charitable purposes created by the will of the deceased. The validity of the will is sustained, and the trusts directed to be carried into execution. The amount involved in this result is said to be near $800,000. The administrator, Dr. Beekman, has been in possession of this estate since 1839, during all which time the charitable purposes of the testator have remained unexecuted. By the judgement of the Court the administrator is now to account for his doings, and for the manner in which he has been employed by him during the long interval within which the claims of charity have been postponed. The administrator claimed that the will was void, in which event one-half of the estate would fall to him and his brother, Thomas Beekman, and the residue to a sister of Dr. Barthrop in England, and the suit now decided was prosecuted upon that theory, with, as appears, a disastrous result.

Excessive Drouth.—The drouth, so long continued, and which in this region is more severe than that of last year, is bearing with great severity upon labor. It is estimated that the amount of wages paid to the operatives in the mills in this State, is now $25,000 less per week than when they are all running. Such an abstraction from the wages of labor must be very seriously felt by those depending upon their daily earnings for support. It must have, too, an effect upon the price of goods. We have not been informed of the amount of diminished production of goods, but it must be very large. Upon both branches of the Pawtuxet river there are about 162,000 cotton spindles, more than 100,000 of which are entirely stopped. Upon the Blackstone it is not so dry, but at least one half of the machinery in all the mills is lying idle. Many of the factories in Washington county are entirely without water. Some have reservoirs in Kent county, which have heretofore furnished an abundant supply of water in the dryest seasons, are now completely exhausted.—Providence Jour., 17th.

In this State hundreds upon hundreds of acres are apportioned to the cultivation of broom corn. Broom corn never was shorter, nor a better crop than during the present year. It will soon be cut, and busy hands will soon be employed in making up that article so indispensible to every housekeeper.—N. Y. Com.

To R. A. Fahnestock & Co.—

Gentlemen—For five years past, I have used R. A Fahnestock's Vermifuge for an anthelmintic in my practice, my attention was first called to it in a case where I had failed to dislodge worms with calomel, pink and cowhage. A bottle was obtained and used with desirable effect. Since that time I have prescribed it for hundreds of patients, and in a large majority of cases, with entire success. In one case a single bottle of the medicine brought away from one patient Ninety-Eight Worms. I have never known it to do harm, and I am induced to make this statement from an honest conviction that it is one of the most valuable Vermifuges yet known. Such is my confidence in its "worm-killing" powers, that I recommend it to other physicians in this section, and furnish them with the article.

Prepared and sold by R. A. FAHNESTOCK & Co., corner of Wood and First sts.

Derangement of the Liver is one of the most common, as well as the most formidable of diseases known to American physicians. It had been years attracted the closest attention of the medical faculty in all parts of the United States, and yet up to the time of the discovery of Dr. Mc'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge, it was almost beyond the reach of medical skill. Thousands had been afflicted without even a hope of relief, and although thousands may yet be destined to feel the direful effects of this most complicated disease, it is now, through the research of Dr M'Lane, most completely brought within the range of medical control. The proprietors of the Liver Pills feel confident that they offer a remedy which has been fully tested by time and which has never failed of success when fairly tested.

P. S. Dr. M'Lane's celebrated Vermifuge and Liver Pills can be had at all times, and of all druggists.

Caution.—Purchasers will please be careful to ask for and take none but Dr. M'Lanes Vermifuge and Liver Pills. There are other Vermifuges and Liver Pills now before the public, but all comparatively worthless.

Joy for the Invalid.—We cull the following from the "Philadelphia Saturday Gazette," and we commend our readers to peruse it carefully, and those suffering should not delay purchasing:

Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters.—This celebrated medicine continues to be prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, at the German Medicine Store, No. 120 Arch street, is exciting the wonder of the learned, and the astonishment of all. As a scientific physician, in selling immense quantities of it, he has the satisfaction of knowing that it is doing all the extended notice of it, to be seen in our advertising columns, is that there is hardly any room left for us to spend time in writing. That such was not the case at the time of its first introduction to the public, it was almost beyond belief. Many of the factories in Washington county are entirely without water. Some have reservoirs in Kent county, which have heretofore furnished an abundant supply of water in the dryest seasons, are now completely exhausted.—Providence Jour., 17th.

Lyon's Kathairon.—There is no surer test of the unrivalled merits of an article, than the springing up of countless imitations and counterfeits. This test conclusively proves Lyon's Kathairon, for preserving, restoring and beautifying the Hair, to be the finest toilet article ever prepared. Combining as it does the fragrance of the most delicate extracts with the most valuable restorative qualities, it stands entirely without a rival.
