

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE

As a young man, when Senator Douglas made his speech in St. Louis, he expressed himself as willing to answer any question which might be propounded.

When I move into Kansas to live, I will there be found addressing from institutions as suitably as possible the Illinois plank.

He replied: "Go to the Supreme Court—let it be the first to decide constitutional questions!"

Verily this soliciting questioner appears to be a new dog in the old mill, and it is a new dog in the old mill, and it is a new dog in the old mill.

"Glad to see the next to godliness" appears to be the motto in Wisconsin. The Miles Register records the good luck of a citizen of that village, who, while bathing in the river, discovered, when he was in the water, a pair of drawers which he had lost two years before.
