The Result in this County.—The Return Judges did not complete their labors on Saturday, but adjourned until to-day. We are therefore compelled to withhold the official vote till to-morrow.

The vote for Canal Commissioner is as follows:

Jones' majority,	399
Pinney, Dem.	16779
Bole, R. Abso.,	Bellsbacker K. N.
Nicholson, Am.	5786
Cleaver, Native,	239

The vote for Director of the Poor (in the city limits outside of the two cities) is as follows:

Sample, R.	11534
Bellsbacker K. N.	8687
Martin, R. N.	725
Williamson, R.	2657

The total vote in the county last year was 16,035, of which Pollock had 16,077, Bigler 5,710, and Bradford 148. The total vote this year is 26,326, only 749 less than last year.

The opposition vote last year, (Pollock and Bradford,) was 10,922; this year, counting that cast for Nicholson, Williamson, Martin and Cleaver, is 12,560. This would show a falling off in opposition vote of 1115, while the vote for Democracy is a gain of 4063, over the vote for Bigler. Allowing for this difference in the aggregate vote, and taking for granted that, of the 749 votes that originally went to Bradford, democrats and 510 opposition, the world show a net loss to the opposition and gain to the democrats of 1003. It is therefore apparent that 1860 voters who last year voted with the opposition have this year voted with the democrats.

But this is not all. A large number of voters who would either vote hard to vote the Know Nothing ticket, were induced to vote the Know Nothing ticket for the purpose of defeating the Democratic ticket, because they were opposed to the Democratic opinions, especially upon the Temperance issue. How large this class was it is not easy to determine; but we feel that we are within bounds when we put it at 1360.

Now it is not much to say that the 1900 old voters who voted the Democratic ticket would have voted for the Republican ticket if they had had faith in its success. Their aim was to defeat the Know Nothings, and they chose what seemed to them the most potent instrumentality. Their sympathies were all with the Republican cause.

Now if the 1900 who voted the Democratic ticket to defeat the Know Nothings, and the 1360 who voted the Know Nothing ticket, to defeat the Democrats, had concentrated their vote upon the Republican ticket, it would have been sufficiently elected, and they would all have been better satisfied.

New Series of Pieces.—Happening by at Mr. Meller's music store on Saturday, we were invited into his Piano warerooms to see one of the new Patent Grand Pianos lately brought out by Mr. Meller from the great Piano manufactory of the Chickerings, Boston. The style of this instrument is quite new, being somewhat similar in shape to the ordinary Grand Piano, but about one-half of the size, and occupying no more room than a common seven octave square Piano. It has a full strong body of tone, clear and uniform, and the action remarkably accurate and easy. A quiet half hour enabled us to hear the instrument thoroughly tested, and we are confident that its compact size and form, together with its powerful and brilliant tone, will make it at once a favorite instrument in our drawing rooms.

We give to nearly all our available space to-day to a description of the two leading events of the day—the storming of Sevastopol and the Arctic voyage of Dr. Kane. The first is described very graphically by the correspondent of the London Times, and the latter by the N. Y. Tribune.

The intelligence of the safe return, home of Dr. Kane and his party, after so long an absence, was received with a thrill of delight throughout the whole country. The account of his expedition will also be read with interest, and although he failed to find the object of his search, his voyage added to the store of knowledge in the possession of man, and will be gathered in the annals of the world.

We have also added in the article copied from the Tribune, which invites perusal.

Notwithstanding we have just escaped from an exciting and troublesome political contest, the restless ones are already agitating the subject of the next Mayoralty, and trotting out candidates for the course. A good gentleman let us have some rest. The people assuredly are tired of this endless turmoil and struggle after office, and would fain have a few weeks, at the least, during which they can throw politics behind their backs, and devote themselves to some pleasanter task, or get up an excitement about the Mayoralty.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Published by R. H. Johnson, at the Office of the New York Pharmaceutical Journal, 82 Nassau street, New York; Dr. Pereira's Elements of Materia Medica and Therapeutics. With Illustrations. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Pittsburgh: Robert Clarke.

This is a work, somewhat after the style of Dr. Warren's Recollections, and is made up of sketches, originally published in the "Scalpel." The sketches are well written and form attractive reading. They detail actual and not imaginary experiences, and although they present some of the darkest shades of human life, they are such realities as the world very much needs to hear. For sale by S. B. Lauffer, No. 80 Fifth street.

Colloquies on the Gospels. By R. D. Hitchcock, D. D. New York: Mason Brothers, 108 Nassau street. Pittsburgh: Robert Carter.

This is a deep reprint of one of the most powerful of Baxter's tales. It was originally published in an expensive form, and did not obtain the general circulation of his other works, but it is none the less characterized by his peculiar skill and boldness as a writer. For sale by Gilden, Henry & Co., and Miller & Co.

From the N. Y. Tribune of Friday.

RETURN OF DR. KANE AND PARTY.

At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the bark Advance, in company with the propeller Arctic, hove in sight off the quarantine, where they were boarded by the health officer, and permitted to pass up to the city. The appearance of those vessels coming up the harbor and the cause of it considerably complimented the whole city. The decks of those ships which they passed in their course—the town having by this time been circulated that Dr. Kane and his party were on board. Many of the steamers plying across the harbor steamed close to them in order to give their passengers an opportunity of welcoming the returning wanderers with cheers; and from the decks and rigging of ships, from the forts, and, in fact, from every available position, three cheers were hailed and prolonged until the vessels passed the Battery, a circuit of which they moored and now remain.

Delivery of Other Kane Survivors.—The expedition left New York May 27, 1853.

About the 4th of July they arrived at Fiskenaes, a settlement in the south-west part of Greenland. Gov. Lauritzen, a Danish resident, received them with great hospitality, and afforded them every facility in the purchase of furs and elder-down, &c. They took on board at this point an Esquimaux family, who were to hunt for them. They succeeded in [illegible] eighty miles along the ice, and traded with the Esquimaux. This glacier is the largest ever discovered by any navigator.

II. This new land thus cemented to Greenland by protruding ice was named Washington. The large bay which intervenes between it and Greenland bears the name of Mr. Peabody of Baltimore, one of the projectors of the expedition. This icy connection of the old and new world seems to us a feature of romantic interest.

III. The range of the sledge journeys may be understood from the fact that the entire circuit of Smith Sound has been effected and its shores completely charted. But the real discovery of the expedition is the open Polar sea. The channel leading to these waters was entirely free from ice; and this mysterious feature was rendered the more remarkable by the existence of a belt of solid ice extending one hundred and twenty-five miles to the southward. This sea rectifies the views of Dr. Kane as expressed to the Geographical Society before his departure. The lashings of the surf against the frozen beach of ice was impressive beyond description. Several gentlemen with whom we have conversed speak of the matter as one of peculiar interest. An area of three thousand square miles has been sequestered free from ice. This channel has been named after the Hon. J. P. Kennedy, late Secretary of the United States Navy, under whose auspices the expedition was undertaken.

IV. The land to the north and west of this channel has been charted as high as 82° 30'. This is the nearest land to the Pole yet known. It bears the name of Mr. Henry Grinnell, the founder of the enterprise.

APPEARANCE OF THE NAVIGATORS.

A northern latitude is eminently conducive to the development of hair and fat. At least the samples of its effects in the persons of the returned Arctic navigators yesterday would undoubtedly lead us to this conclusion. Every one was stout and rosy, and to say that they had reserved the best of their appearance since their departure from these shores, every face was covered with a sturdy growth of hair that was perfectly refreshing to behold. Dr. Kane himself wore a beard of patriarchal proportions, in the corners of which still lingered the silver traces of his residence within the fringed zone. His little body was wrapped in multitudinous layers of flannels and skins, and over all was drawn a fisherman's red shirt, so that his person was of Falstaffian proportions. The doctor looked quite fleshy in the face, and altogether his Arctic sojourn seemed to agree with him wonderfully well. Between the doctor and his men an almost fatherly feeling seemed to exist, they looking up to him with profound veneration, and feelings which he returned by an affection for his men that was truly paternal. At an early moment after anchoring, Dr. Kane, Lieut. Hartstein, Dr. Kane's officers and several of his men went on shore, accompanied by their numerous friends, who had already put off to the ship to welcome them home.

The vessels are in good trim, staunch and ready for another trial with the elements, but ready for another trial with the elements, but ready for another trial with the elements, but they will be laid up in ordinary. We observed numerous articles of Esquimaux manufacture on board, among them ladies' seal-skin breeches, elegant leggins and moccasins that looked externally as big among feet as giant, so small on the inside that only a very delicate foot could don them. But we must draw our article to a close, and take another occasion for a minute examination of these curiosities.

MARRIED—On Thursday evening, Oct. 11th, in Christ Church, by the Rev. Alfred Cookman, A.T. CABOT, late of San Francisco, Cal., and Miss JULIA E., eldest daughter of G. Russell, Esq., all of Allegheny.

[We acknowledge gratefully the receipt of a fine cake from the happy couple, who have our best wishes.]

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Have you a Diseased Liver?—The question, though startling, is sufficiently expressive, when the fact is taken into consideration that diseases of the Liver have become most alarmingly prevalent in the United States. Indeed, there are few formidable diseases that are not in some way connected with a derangement of the Liver, for which we have paid him a large sum, and we are the sole proprietors of this patent. We will reward any person giving information of infringement on the same. This is the only Machine ever invented that will grind a few perfectly even in thickness.

They will require less attention, will not heat while running—will run smooth—save lumber—and keep an edge longer than any other saws made—and are not liable to become untrue.

All our saws are made from an Extra Quality of Cast Steel, imported expressly for our own use, at much higher cost than generally used for Saws.

We respectfully inform all manufacturers of Lumber, that no Saw will be sent from this Establishment but what is of superior Steel and workmanship; the Temper will be found more even and uniform than any Saw in use.

Reputation in New England.

BENTON, N. H., June 9th, 1856.

To R. A. Fahnestock & Co.:

I have used Dr. Fahnestock's Vermifuge for six years past, I have used R. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge for all anthelmintic in my practice; my attention was first called to it in a case where a child of mine had worms with convulsions, and had failed to dislodge worms with other medicines, and used with desirable effect. Since then I have prescribed it for hundreds of patients, and in a large majority of cases with complete success. In one case a single bottle of the medicine brought away from one patient Ninety-Eight Worms. I have never known it to do harm, and I am induced to make this statement from my honest conviction that it is the most valuable Vermifuge yet known. Such is my confidence in its worthwhile power, that I recommend it to others, as physicians in this section, and furnish them with the article.
