SUDDEN DEATH.—Jacob Cort, of Monongahela city, left that place last spring for Illinois, where he purchased a home, and built a house. Last week he returned to remove his family but was taken sick with typhoid fever and died. He left his little son, a lad of sixteen, far out on the prairie; to look after the farm, and supervise the finishing of the house.

As a citizen, Mr. Cort had the confidence and respect of all who knew him, by his uprightness of character. Mr. C. was twice elected to the Legislature, from Washington county, and declined a re-election, preferring the quiet enjoyments of private life. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

IGNORED.—The Grand Jury have ignored bills for assault and battery against Henry W. Horbaugh—prosecutor, Jacob Tut: William Kerr—prosecutor, Elizabeth Kerr; Thomas Backus—prosecutor, Rosanna Kelley, and James Reed—prosecutor, John Fergus, and ordered prosecutors to pay the costs. They have also ignored bills for the same offence against Ellen McCabe and Mary A. Arnold—county to pay the costs.

TEMPERANCE MASS MEETIN G.—The Temperance League intend holding a mass meeting at Neville Hall on Tuesday evening next. The attendance of those who are in favor of suppressing the retail traffic in Intoxicating Liquors by the rigid enforcement of existing laws, is desired.

A MOTION was made in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday for a new trial in the case of Johnson, the colored man who was convicted this week of burglary at a tavern on the Braddock's Fields Plank Road, but the Court refused to grant the motion.

THOMAS ROSS, the colored man who was stabbed in Connellsburgh, on Sunday last, by his own brother, Andrew Ross, has since died.

On Tuesday night, Ross and another prisoner, named James Mounts escaped from the Washington Jail, by digging out under their cells and through the walls.

THE STEUBENVILLE RAILROAD.—This road is being graded from Sawmill-run to Cork's run, and will soon be ready for the rails upon a large portion of the distance between the cities. The piers of the bridge across Sawmill-run, are also built and nearly ready for the structure.

PARDONED.—We understand that a pardon for Thadeus Potter, the printer, who is in prison under sentence for larceny, was received the early part of this week. Potter, yet remains in jail, he being unable to foot up the bill of costs.

ACCIDENT.—Philip Crabb, of Jonesboro, near Bentleysville, Washington County, was badly hurt in a threshing machine, last week, cutting out the calf of his leg, and mashing the ankle joint. He has taken the lock jaw, and his life is despaired of.

THE ORATION of Dr. James King, of this city, at the dedication of the New Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, has been published in pamphlet form by A. Pritchard, Fifth Street, who has it for sale.

GORED BY A COW.—A little girl named M'Coy was attacked and severely gored by a cow on Webster street yesterday.

THE Gas Company deprived our office of light last night, in consequence of some repairs which are being made to the mains on Smithfield street.

THE liquor prosecutions against Bennett, Savage, and Shannon will probably be taken up on Monday next.

A BURLESQUE on the Baby Show was presented last night at the Theatre.

MAYOR ADAMS, of Allegheny, has returned from a Western tour.

New Novel by the Author of "Fashion and Famine."

JUST PUBLISHED,

THE OLD HOMESTEAD,

BY MRS. ANN S. STEPHENS,

Author of "Fashion and Fame."

In one large 12mo. volume. Price $1.25.

A New Book by the author of "Fashion and Fame," which obtained, in three months, a sale of FORTY THOUSAND COPIES, and which was republished in Leipsic, St. Petersburgh, Vienna, and in three editions in London, is a work not well calculated to excite more than ordinary interest.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD, while not so tragic and intense in its character as "Fashion and Famine," is, if anything, of profounder interest, and appeals with greater force to the sympathies of the reader. The story opens in the City of New York, where there are many scenes of pathos, suffering, and tragic power; but as the book progresses, the clouds disperse—we are introduced to the Old Homestead among the Catskills—to the Hudson, where we are presented with some of the most delightful and graphic rural pictures ever given in an American book. Mrs. Stephens displays, in many places in this book, a humor that rivals that of Dickens, and a dramatic force, grasp of thought, power of expression, and vividness of description, of which she is peculiarly the master-spirit, we think, to any of her cotemporaries.

From the New York Day Book.

We have no hesitation in pronouncing this book superior in every interest. descriptive power, and earnest whole souled vigor, to any work we have published.

From the Boston Post.

As a literary work it is far superior to Fashion and Famine. Many persons are likely to read it.

From the Boston Olive Branch.

Many of the scenes are laid in the humble walks of life, and all the author's fine descriptive powers are brought to bear upon them. The cozifortless room, the scanty meal, the weary waits for her dying father—where they meet at last in his death bed, and the short, but sweet, recital of their former fortune: the long night agony at Beatrice the sisters betrayal, with only those dear little children to comfort—and the exquisite pictures of life at the Old Homestead—all show the development of the woman, combined with the skill of the artist.

From the N. Y. Express.

The moral of this work is invigorating, and no person can rise from its perusal without feeling more of a better man or woman.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

THE CLOVER SEED CROP.—An impression got a broad early in the season that, owing to the splendid yield of grass, clover seed would be abundant. The idea was erroneous, the crop being almost an entire failure. The Cincinnati Price Current says:

We have, on previous occasions, stated that great anxiety existed in reference to the fate of the spring crop of clover seed in this State and Indiana. We have made every exertion to ascertain what has been the fate of the crop, and are sorry to announce that it has proved an almost entire failure. We have letters from various points in this State and Indiana; some of them say there will be a little, but fully the two-thirds of our correspondents say the crop in each of their localities is a total failure. The short growth was very luxuriant, too much so to yield well, but the wet weather beat it down, and it partially rotted on the ground before it was cut, as a general thing; and after it was cut, the rain so injured the remaining seed that it could not be saved, except in comparatively small quantities. We feel perfectly safe in saying that the entire amount secured in this State cannot be over one-fourth as large as the average crop, and the same may be said of Indiana.

The first crop of old seed in this market is exceedingly light and in a few hands.

The last steamer from England, we are advised that the crop of clover in that kingdom is a failure, and in London, having on hand an active demand and prices for old. We have no authentic intelligence as regards the crop in the Eastern States, but we are inclined to believe, from what little information we have that it is better than it is in the Western States.

The stock of old seed in New York is said to be a moderate one.

CONTRACTS FOR NEW CORN.—Within the last two weeks there has been a contract for new corn amounting in the aggregate to 150,000 bushels, varying from 40 to 50 cents delivered in this city before the first of January. Yesterday, under the influence of Dunlap's Creek market for breadstuffs, and the exciting large freight demand for corn, and anticipations that corn rates could not be made lower, a very large contract was entered into at 50 cts. Price satisfactory to all concerned. Now for Cincinnati.

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—FLOUR—The sales to-day are 950 bbls in various lots, at $7,25, 300 bbls at $7,12½@$7,50, 500 bbls are at $7,37½, and 500 bbls at $7,12½@$7,25, the outside price being for private terms.

WHEAT—The receipts from noon to-day are 7100 bus., and the receipts of the week 30,000 bus. The stock of Fall is light, being sold early for around $1,80@$1,82½, the outside price being for white.

CORN—There has been some movement to-day in coffee, but the transactions still continue limited. The sales to-day embrace 400 damaged Rio at 10½c, 300 bags for delivery in March next at 11 cts, and 160 bags good do at 11¾ @11¾c. Offers have been made to-day for 500 bags Rio, but buyers and sellers could not agree upon terms. Holders of 1500 bags of Coffee are generally firm in their views, but buyers do not seem disposed to operate in any extent at present. Sugars are quiet and steady. The stock here is about 20,000 bags.—Bait. American.
