

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE

Care of Fall Planted Trees—As great numbers of fruit trees have been planted during the last month, a few hints on the care of such trees for the winter may be of service to many of our readers...

Lossing of the roots by winds and frost is another danger to which all planted trees are especially liable on clay lands, and in wet seasons...

Grouping Vines and Raspberry Bushes are liable to be injured by the winds when transplanted in the fall; hence they should be protected by bending the stems down to the surface of the ground...
