JOSEPH WHITE'S
CARRIAGE EMPORIUM!
JOSEPH WHITE now carrying on business in his spacious premises, (new, lately enlarged,) between Pittsburgh and Lawrenceville, near the two Ferries, most respectfully invites the public to inspect his stock of CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, &c. And he particularly informs gentlemen purchasing, that one prize on the Centennial Exhibition, and long experience in the trade, enable him to place before his patrons the same choice collection of Carriages, which so many of them have in this line in particular, department to select from the various and most celebrated Eastern Manufactories. The success of his new system is complete, the economy of his arrangements will enable him to sell cheaper than any other house, and his work is equal to the best manufactured.
Unencumbered by those heavy expenses, which the necessity for establishing Houses of exhibition in town imposes upon the price of Goods; (owing to large rents,) Joseph White will sell on ready money only, at terms that will astonish the natives.
N. B.—Carriages repaired in the best manner, with despatch. mh6

Rose Clark,
(BY FANNY FERN.)
In 2 volumes, 12mo. Price $1.25.
"A more beautiful character than Rose herself does not exist in English literature.—Newburyport Herald.
"It is Fanny Fern all over, but has more power, more feeling, more sympathy, more life, more spirit, more touching beauty, than any of her previous productions. The book of life, so true to life, so natural, so pathetic and beautiful, so eloquent and truthful in her style, that we cannot call it genius, we do not know what to call it."—Sat. Eve. Union, Newburyport.
"For richness all the previous efforts of this popular authoress."—N Y Mercantile Jour.
"Take up the book, be it a triumph—honorable alike to the head and to the heart that conceived it—homage and intelligence to which it is written—honorable to the age that has produced it—honorable to the writer, whose fame it is destined to stand beside
"Fanny Fern writes for those whose hearts are with suffering—and woman who carry a contraction in their bosoms, had better leave her writings alone. She does not write to entertain them."—Buffalo Express.
"Entertaining, brilliant, witty, satirical, pathetic and occasionally silly Rose."—Boston Courier.
"The story tenor with the rest, the spicy, the pungent, and the nervously Fanny Fern."—Phila. Inquirer.
"The best work of the gifted Fanny."—Windsor Jour.
"She is by turns witty, pathetic, sensible and reverent, and in all she writes she is warm, earnest and captivating in eulogy—as pid in movement, always full to overflowing with life and energy, and always going directly to the heart or her subject—and finally, every quality is intensified by the simplicity which is in its every sentence and combination, compressing often, in a paragraph or line, what common writers would spread over a dozen. Every line is full."—Phila. Inquirer.
"The story is one of unflagging interest from the opening to the close."—N. Y. Atlas.
"It is superior to anything we have yet had from the same source of Fanny Fern."—N Y Mirror.
"It is testimes the reporters of Bath Hall in every respect and grade as was the hero of the last."—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.
