Moreover, the improper conduct of Mr. to recruit soldiers for the Crimes, on our The whole Central American case has heretofore been stated in our columns, and is doubtceived new interest from the notice taken of it in Parliament by Lord Clarenden. Mr. Buchanan states in his correspondence on the subject that on two several occasions, in contion. On one occasion Mr. Buchanan replied arbitrate, as he did not consider that the tru ion of the treaty was a subject of arbitration. These conversations were faithfully reported to Mr. Marcy. Lord Clarenden, in his speech of the 5th Feb., says:

"In such a case correspondence is useless, and I lost no time in offering to refer the whole question to the arbitration of any third power, both sides agreeing to be bound by the decision. That offer has not been accepted, and I hope upon further consideration the government of the United States will agree to it."

The next day, the 6th, Mr. Buchanau called upon Lord Clarenden to know by what authority he had made the above statement. His lordship above referred to and a despatch he had sent to Mr. Crampton, in November last, with instruc-tions to read it to Mr. Marcy. This despatch was never communicated to Mr. Marcy, until last week, Wednesday night, when Mr. Crampton sent it in with an apology, that the request to communicate to Mr. Marcy had escaped his attention. Lord Clarenden's dispatch to Mr. Orampton, thus brought to light, is dated Nov. 10th, and is as follows:

"Mr. Buchanan having, in the course of con "Mr. Buchana having, in the course of con-versation a few days ago, adverted to the im-pression that a diffully would be created in the United States by the non-settlement of the Cen-tral American question, I again assured him that England had no wish to extend her influence or obtain any territory in that part of the world, and reminded him that as the difference beand reminded him that as the difference be-tween this country and the United States turned-solely upon the interpretation of the treaty of 1850, I had offered on the part of her Majesty's government to submit the case to the arbitra-tion of a third Power; but that he had declined the offer. Her Majesty's government, I said, would still abide by that offer, and thought it would be the fairest and most aminable manner for arriving at a settlement of the question for arriving at a cettlement of the question — Mr. Buchauan said he would make it known to his Government, and you are instructed to communicate this despatch to Mr. Marcy." The impression exists in Washington tha some double dealing exists about this despatch There is a suspicion that Mr. Crampton has been made a scape goat for the blunderings of the

Mr. Buchanan promised to Household Words. comply with the request, but repeated his own aninion that the proposal would not be accepted Such appears to be the present opinion of the American Cabinet and Senate.

The subject of British Recruitment in the United States, is not a less perplexing question than that of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. The whole correspondence between the two governments has lately been published, and a synon sis of it has been given in our telegraphic despatches. This long correspondence fills sixty-six printed pages, and it requires no little fortitude to wade through it. It first occupied the attention of our Government on the 10th of June, when Mr. Marcy advises Mr. Buchanar that a plan was on foot to enlist soldiers for the British service in this country. From tha day up to the present the correspondence has The British government protests that they did not wish to infringe our laws, and that they had sent out ins tructions to their agents accordingly When pressed with the fact that our laws have been violated, Lord Clarendon says that "both her Majesty's Government and her Majesty's Minister at Washington gave reiterated orders to violation; and if the British government did not purpossly cause the United States law to be violated, n the territorial rights of the United States, what ever they may be, were not, as has been said, in tentionally violated by Great Britain "as a nation," even if it should be shown that the me nicipal law of the Union was infringed." This Mr. Marcy views as a mere subterfuge and not such an apology as one magnanimou nation should make to another. In a long des patch winding up the controversy, of date Dec. 28, 1855, Mr. Marcy reviews the whole subject in dispute, and after controverting the positions above stated, taken by Lord Clarenden, closes by stating the demands of the President. As the ion of these demands is now pending, we Loss by sinking: quote the following closing portions of Mr. Marcy's important despatch :

Marcy's important despatch:

"This Government maintains that in every instance where a person, whether a citizen or a foreigner, has been brought to the determination to leave this country for the purpose of entering into a foreign service as a soldier or salker by any indemental offered by resembling the property indemental offered by resembling. any inducements offered by recruiting agents here, the law of the United States has been vio-

"It is the solemn duty of the Government of the United States are most anxious to maintain this construction of their neutrality law, and the attempt to set up and caustins different one has created much surprise. PHILLIP, SAMPSON AND COMPANY, Boston, have laid upon our table two new books of fiction, both riustrative of New England village and country life, and illustrating some of the modern opinics which have made so much noise in the phis by Rallroad.

"Wolfsben: an authentic account of Things There and thereunto pertaining as they are and have been, by J B" is the quaint and nigmatical title of one of them. The scene is laid in a quiet wood in the mountains of the state of Maine called Wolksden, and the princi-pal personages are Descon Arbor and his family-As an artistic work the story is lacking, but as exhibiting the manners and customs, the modes of thought and feeling, of the "down easters at the present day, the work possesses much
