Republican Declaration of Principles.

ADOPTED BY THE PITTSBURGH CONVENTION.

1. We demand and shall attempt to secure the repeal of all laws which allow the introduction of slavery into territories once consecrated to freedom, and will resist by every constitutional means the existence of slavery in any of the territories of the United States.

2. We will support by every lawful means our brethren in Kansas in their constitutional and manly resistance to the usurped authority of their lawless invaders, and will give the full weight of our political power in favor of the immediate admission of Kansas to the Union as a free, sovereign, independent State.

3. Believing that the present national administration has shown itself to be weak and faithless, and that its continuance in power is identified with the progress of the slave power to national supremacy, with the extinction of freedom from the territory, and with increasing civil discord, it is a leading purpose of our organization to oppose and overthrow it.

HARRISBURG CONVENTION.—A communication will be found in to-day's paper, relative to the State Convention called to meet at Harrisburg on the 26th inst. intended to unite all the opponents of the National Administration. It comes from the pen of a true REPUBLICAN, and our friends throughout the county are invited to weigh its counsels as those of a friend entitled to confidence.

At the time this State Convention was called it was generally believed that there would be no nomination at Philadelphia on the 22d of February, and the hope was entertained that it might be able to pave the way for a cordial co-operation of all the true friends of freedom in the Presidential contest. But the nomination of Fillmore has deranged this calculation, and thrown a difficulty in the way which it will be hard to surmount. There seems to be no present prospect that the opponents of the Pierce administration will act together on the Presidential question; and if there is a separation and hostility on the Presidency, it can hardly be either possible or desirable to co-operate at the State election. So, at any rate, it strikes us at the present moment; and we would therefore have been better pleased had the Convention not been called, or if it had been fixed to meet at a day further in the future.

The only thing that can be done now, however, is to let the Convention meet, and then, we think, it will be its duty, if it can find a proper and satisfactory basis of action, (and if it cannot it had better disperse at once and forever,) to adjourn till after the Presidential nominations are made, and until we shall all know something of the attitude we shall occupy towards each other.

As to the duty of REPUBLICANS toward this movement, we can only say that, so far as organizations are concerned, their first duty is to complete and preserve their own organization. But can they not do that with all fidelity, and still take part in this Convention? Do they, by going into it, disband themselves?—The call embraces "all the opponents of the National Administration;" and as such can they not go into the Convention and test the experiment it is invited to make? If that Convention adopts a platform which they can approve, and which does no violence to their principles, they cannot object; while, on the contrary, if it either stops short of the right or ventures into what is wrong, they will be at perfect liberty to repudiate it. The Convention, it seems to us, is merely an experiment, and its only possible chance of success must depend upon its ability to find a position satisfactory to all. If it cannot do that, its mission will be at an end.

Our advice to all our REPUBLICAN friends is, to give the Convention a fair chance and throw no obstruction in its way; yet to so act as not to feel bound by its course should there be anything objectionable in it.

The friends of FILLMORE, we understand, will make an effort to get control of this Convention and procure its approval for their candidate. To have him endorsed by a State Convention of men of all parties, would be a triumph of which they would never weary of boasting. To prevent a result so much at war with the general sentiment of the opposition in this State is the prevailing aim, of duty and of policy; and although we may all have but faint hopes that the Convention will be able to accomplish the objects aimed at by its callers, it would hardly be wise in us to abandon it, at an important moment, into the hands of a faction.

TINKERING THE LAWS.—Early in the present session of the legislature a bill was introduced to render the city liable for damages resulting from a change in the grade of its streets. The matter was brought to the notice of Councils by Mr. Wilkins, and both branches immediately passed resolutions protesting against the passage of such a bill. Nothing further was heard of it, and it was supposed that it would be permitted to sleep quietly; but at the last meeting of Councils a letter was received from Mr. McClintock stating that he should deem it his duty to press its passage, unless the Councils could show him "cogent reasons" for doing otherwise. What he esteems a "cogent" reason does not appear. The Councils will probably reiterate their former protest; and if the persistent Senator and the legislature do not think that cogent enough, the property holders of the city may settle themselves down in the conviction that no more grading will ever be done by the city. Its financial condition forbids that it should run the risk of suits for damages in accomplishing improvements for the benefit of the public.

DEMOCRATIC KNOW-NOTHINGS.—Geo. W. McCleary, Border Ruffian candidate of the Iowa Black Democracy, for Secretary of State, has withdrawn from the canvass in consequence of the expose of the fact that he is a Know Nothing in good and regular standing. As long as his connection with the Order was known only to the Democratic leaders, he was well enough even with them; but as soon as the Irish learned the state of the case, off went McCleary's head.

IS IT HIS KNEE?—The Pittsburgh Post assumes to speak of Col. Fremont, as if it was authorised to present him to the public mind.—It says "John C. Fremont is talked of as the Republican candidate for the Presidency. He is a native of South Carolina, a resident and millionaire of California, a son-in-law of Col. Benton, and probably the richest man in the world." But he cannot be made available to the Republicans, and will refuse a nomination by a party for which he can have no sympathy. His father-in-law would probably accept the nomination if offered, but he is quite too old. We believe he is 76 years of age."

It is kind of the Post, which serves as a torch bearer to the Pierce Administration, to take Col. Fremont's interests and fortunes into its own keeping, but if it was a little better posted in regard to that gentleman, it might be more intelligent as to his position and relations with the Republican party. He probably knows his own sympathies much better than the man of the Pittsburgh Post, and when the proper time comes will probably manifest them.—Buffalo Express.

DEFENCES OF NEW YORK.—An editorial statement in the Journal of Commerce informs us that the national government has been, for many months past, engaged in strengthening the fortifications of the harbor of New York, by substituting guns of a very long range and large calibre for those previously in use. These new guns are manufactured at West Point, and distributed to the various military works in the neighborhood of New York as fast as they are ready. As regards the material of war, the Journal says that there is always a large amount of it accumulated in the depositories near that city, and another paper says that at present the store is unusually great. The existing works have been much strengthened, and are kept in a high state of efficiency, and additional defences are proposed to be constructed. This is one of the lessons taught by the Russian war.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION.—The steamboat steamer Henry Lewis, which left this port on Thursday last, for New Orleans, with a cargo consisting of over 800 tons produce, was sunk to the boiler deck, in the Ohio river, at Anderson's Bar, near Troy, Ind., on Saturday morning, at 4 o'clock, by coming in collision with the steamer Edward Howard, bound up. Captain Collier, of the Hungarian, telegraphs us it is supposed there were twenty lives lost!

The Henry Lewis was a first class New Orleans steamer, and in her third season. She was built here and owned by Capt. Emerson, of New Richmond; Clerk Patterson, of Ripley, and other officers on board. She was worth about $25,000, and is, we understand, partially insured.—Cin. Com.

IRON MILL FOR SALE.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that the Rolling Mill of Messrs. BROWN, FLOYD & Co., at Kittanning, is offered for sale. This mill is in excellent condition and doing a good business; and any person or company disposed to embark the necessary capital in the iron business, will find this a rare opportunity. Since the completion of the Allegheny Valley road to Kittanning, the mill is easy of access from the city.

JUDICIAL SALARIES.—We are informed that the Committee of Ways and Means have reported the General Appropriation Bill to the House of Representatives, and that it provides for an increase in the salaries of the Supreme Bench and the Judges of Allegheny county, giving $20,000 among the four Judges of the Supreme Court, being an increase of $4,800—and $7,500 to the latter, being an addition to the three Judges at Pittsburgh of $1100. We are glad to find the Committee have thus far recognized the necessity of placing the Judiciary of Pennsylvania upon a footing in this respect more suitable to their political position and more nearly commensurate to the value of their services.

The State Convention.

MR. EDITOR:—A call has been issued at Harrisburg, signed by sundry members of the legislature, for a State Delegate Convention of all the opponents of the National Administration to assemble at Harrisburg on the 26th of March for the nomination of a State Ticket.

The County Convention to elect Delegates to this State Convention will be held in this County on Wednesday, the 19th inst., and the primary meetings will be held in the several election districts of the county on Saturday next, the 15th inst., to choose delegates from each to the County Convention.

To these primary meetings every opponent of the National Administration is invited, and there is a general anxiety to see the members of all branches of the opposition unite on the occasion.

As the REPUBLICANS of the county are all opponents of the National Administration, and bitterly opposed to it because its leading and controlling policy is the extension of Slavery, it becomes a grave question for them to decide what course they will pursue in the premises.

The REPUBLICAN County Committee, at a very full meeting, determined that it was not advisable to take any official action in the matter, but concluded to leave every member of the party to decide for himself what was most prudent.—The Committee felt that it was its duty to preserve the organization of the party intact, and to look forward to a Republican State Organization as a necessary and indispensable part of the National Organization; but if the members individually felt that they could take part in the Union movement, without committing themselves or the party to any wrong action that may be taken by the Convention of the 26th, there was nothing to hinder them from participation in it.

As a sincere and earnest friend of the REPUBLICAN movement, and one looking to it as the great hope of the country in the present crisis, I have for sometime felt embarrassed and undecided how to act in the matter; but after a full survey of the whole ground I have determined to attend the primary meetings on the 15th, and hope that all my REPUBLICAN friends will do the same. If these meetings are conducted fairly, without pre-concert or arrangement, and no advantage is taken of local disparity of numbers, nor attempts made to force the adoption of peculiar platforms or principles, our presence there must do good and can do no harm; and if, unfortunately, any improper or unfair spirit should be manifested, it will be easy to withdraw. It is our duty, at the least, to throw no obstacle in the way of an effort, whether that effort shall fail or succeed, to unite the people of Pennsylvania against the pro-slavery policy of President Pierce's administration. If it should succeed, upon grounds acceptable to us, we shall then have no reason to complain; and if it fails, the fault will not be ours.

For one, I think this State Convention should not have been called, and in this I know I have the concurrence of a large portion of this community. It is not an auspicious time for such a gathering. With every thing at sixes and sevens, the political elements being in a semi-chaotic state, and one half of the people undecided what they will do or where they will go, it can hardly be possible for the Convention to chalk out such a policy as would be easy of accomplishment a few months hence. The nomination of Fillmore has unsettled and disturbed every thing; and although it is doubtless true that the great body of the opposition will repudiate that nomination, the difficulty remains to be overcome of uniting upon a State Ticket those who are determined to fight against each other in the Presidential contest—(if, indeed, which is questionable, such a union should be desirable, under the circumstances.)

Still, the Convention has been called. It cannot now be stopped. It must be held; and it is better that it should be controlled by those who look to a union of the North upon a platform of resistance to Slavery extension, than that it should, by our misfeasance, fall into the hands of the Fillmore men and become a powerful instrumentality in their hands. An attempt will be made, when the Convention meets, to procure its endorsement of Fillmore's nomination; and that must be defeated, if all else should be lost.

In this view of the facts, I think it behooves the REPUBLICANS to manifest a generous confidence, and give a trial to this effort. If it cannot be managed for good, it may be averted from doing evil; and it is not impossible that an important direction may be given by it to the public sentiment of the State.

A REPUBLICAN.

ASTOUNDING FRAUDS OF THE LATE JOHN SADLIER, M. P.—There is every reason to believe that, when all is known, it will be found that the amount of frauds of which the late Mr. John Sadlier has been guilty will not be much under £1,000,000. First, it has been ascertained beyond all question that Mr. Sadlier had forged no fewer than 50,000 Royal Swedish Railway Company's shares, and obligations of £5 each, on which large sums of money were raised—with the CURE OF THE CURSE OF forgeries alone is to the nominal sum of £250,000, only it is not known what amount he was able to raise on the shares and obligations. In addition to these forgeries, there are forgeries of several deeds and mortgages of estates in Ireland. As regards those, however, the extent is not yet known; but perhaps the boldest and most daring forgeries of all are those which relate to the deeds for the purchase of property in the Encumbered Estates Court of Ireland. The forged deeds purport to bear the signatures of the commissioners, the registrars, the chief clerk, the solicitors in the various causes and the commissioners' seal. The extent to which this class of forgeries has been committed may be inferred from the fact that the stamp duty alone on these, amounted to several hundred pounds.

A considerable number of forgeries on private individuals also, have already been discovered, and there is every reason to believe that others yet remain to be ascertained.

Those which have been detected are supposed to amount to nearly £100,000. In addition to the classes of forgeries already enumerated, Mr. Sadlier has been guilty of the assignment of deeds held in trust by him to an enormous amount. The drafts, all the forged deeds and mortgages are in Mr. Sadlier's own handwriting.

The forgeries of signatures are in every case remarkably successful. Those of the Encumbered Commissioners are said to be so perfect that the most experienced eage could not detect the forged deeds from the genuine.

The act of self-destruction was, it is believed, precipitated by the circumstances of four of the holders of deeds relative to the purchase of one of the encumbered estates who had advanced £10,000 to Mr. Sadlier, having on Saturday last gone over to Ireland with his solicitor for the purpose of having the deed registered. Mr. Sadlier endeavored to frustrate the intention of the party, but failed. On the Continent, too, where his transactions were to an enormous extent, great alarm prevails. In a letter which he wrote before leaving Gloucester Square for Hampstead Heath, where he put an end to his existence, he declares that without the knowledge of any human being, unaided and unassisted, he committed the most diabolical crimes of which it was possible to be guilty; that these crimes must now be discovered; and as they would involve the ruin of hundreds of innocent families, he had preferred to die rather than witness the sufferings which they must endure.

The crime of suicide must have been contemplated by Mr. Sadlier for some time before he committed the act, for he had purchased "Taylor on Poisoning," and had evidently read it through till he came to the chapter on the essential oil of bitter almonds, when he turned down the page, as if he had made up his mind.

The frauds of Sir John & Paul Strahan & Bates, are not only much smaller in amount, but they are tame compared with his.

They denote a combination of criminality, boldness, ingenuity, versatility and tact such as the world never before witnessed.

WHERE ABOUT.—The Delaware County Whig committee of correspondence met recently at Media and unanimously adopted a resolution calling a meeting of the Whig citizens of the county to be held at the same place on Monday, the 17th inst., to consider the propriety of recommending a Whig State Convention to deliberate upon and adopt measures best calculated to advance the future prospects of the party. There is a genuine Anti-Know Nothing Whig party in Delaware county of at least eight hundred members. At the last election the K. N. candidates received but a little over three hundred votes, while the Republicans polled over five hundred, and the Whigs over eight hundred. The present movement, therefore, speaks for a miserable party, and not a mere shadow.—Phil. N. Amer.

Ohio River Improvement.

MADISON, Ind., March 7, 1856.

A meeting composed of many of the leading merchants, manufacturers and other citizens of this city was held last evening at the Madison Hotel, the object of which was to confer upon the subject of the proposed improvement of the Ohio river, and respond to the circular letter of the Pittsburgh Board of Trade, asking an expression of the views of the several Ohio river cities upon that important enterprise.

The delegate of the Board of Trade and people of Pittsburgh, Mr. COFLEY, who has just returned from Kentucky, stated to the meeting what had been done, and read portions of the law of Pennsylvania incorporating the company. He also read an amendment proposed by the Chamber of Commerce of Louisville, which he had accepted, and which is now a part of the bill before the Legislature of Kentucky. It is as follows:

"Provided, That the improvement of the navigation of the Ohio river hereby contemplated and authorised, shall be at the falls of said river (at Louisville, Ky.) by Dams and Locks, sufficient to furnish not less than five feet of water on the falls at low water mark, and to pass the largest class of boats now playing on the lower Ohio river; and that said dams and locks shall be constructed at the earliest practicable period, provided that the stock subscribed and paid in by individuals, companies and corporations of the State of Kentucky and Indiana shall be sufficient to defray the cost of the same, and which shall be so appropriated to the extent necessary to effect said improvement."

After a full and free conversation on the subject, W. M. Dunn, Esq., offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That the improvement of the Ohio river, so as to render the same navigable at all stages of water, is a work of great national importance, and justly entitled to claim aid from the General Government.

Resolved, That we are ready to co-operate in efforts to accomplish this important enterprise, and that we approve of a call for a convention of the friends of the improvement, to be held at Cincinnati on the 1st day of May next, and that this meeting will appoint twenty delegates to attend that convention.

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be tendered to Josiah Copley, Esq., for his efforts to direct public attention to the importance and practicability of the above improvement, and for the explanations he had given us of the plan for the improvement proposed by himself; that we regard his plan with much favor, but are ready to concur in the adoption of any mode of improvement that may be deemed useful and practicable.

Resolved, That the amendment to the charter, proposed by the Chamber of Commerce of Louisville, that the stocks subscribed by citizens of Kentucky and Indiana shall be appropriated to the improvement of the Falls of the Ohio river, meets our approbation.

After the adoption of the foregoing resolutions, the following gentlemen were appointed delegates to attend the Cincinnati Convention, to be held on the 1st of May:

E. G. Whitney, M. G. Bright, Wm. M. Dunn, J. King, C. L. Shrewsbury, V. King, M. C. Garber, N. Powell, J. Fitch, D. White, R. E. Neal, A. C. Lanier, W. W. Page, A. W. Pitcher, S. M. Polleys, J. A. Hendricks, W. H. Fry, W. H. Fitch, W. Clough and F. W. Chapman.

The Marine Association.

I was glad to notice the communication in your paper of Monday morning, calling public attention to the combination styling itself the Marine Association. This is an important matter and it is remarkable that our manufacturers, who use so much vigilance and foresight in their business, should be so heedless or thoughtless as to counteract a move which affects them so injuriously. They are feeling, and have felt for some time, the influence of this semi-secret association. Then why not speak out? Until within a few days no rates of freight could be obtained confessedly awaiting some mysterious body, without doubt, which condescended to say at what rates merchandise might be shipped. It will be admitted that our strongest competition is outside of our own market. Estimates of the difference in freight between eastern and western cities and our own, always enter into the careful calculations of purchasers, and especially of purchasers of heavy articles; and doubtless many articles manufactured in our city are reduced in price to meet and counteract greater facilities of transportation. Bunglers should be careful how they attempt to disturb the nicely adjusted arrangements of trade, and when they do attempt it, it should not be committed to the mercy of reflection would have shown them that much less than they propose to add to the ordinary rates of freight would be an ample inducement to send merchandize from New York via New Orleans, to various points in the West and South rather than purchase and ship from our own city. This Association, or Combination, or Invisible Vexatious had on my children. One was taken ill, others soon after, and I called in my family physician, Dr. Perkins. After an examination, he pronounced the illness to arise from worms, and prescribed Fahnestock's Vermifuge. After the child had taken a few doses, he discharged, at the first operation, Fifty-Three of the Largest Worms I ever saw in my life, and in the course of the day and evening he discharged between a quart and half a gallon of large worms.

He immediately got well, and has enjoyed good health since. It has had a good effect with my other children. You may use this certificate, for the benefit of the public.

Make that locks like cutting flame
Spells that set of classic features.
Natural Natures! 6s for shame!
Why so mar thy noblest creatures!

AND ON THIS.

All what remains under The ore
Rests on ringlets darkly flowing.
Chemist's matchless Dye
Has embrowned what late was glowing.

Certificate from Delaware.

—Smyrna, Delaware, March 20th, 1854.—Messrs. B. A. Fahnestock & Co.—Gentlemen: I feel it to be my duty to you, as well as to the public, to inform you of the wonderful effects your Vermifuge had on my children. One was taken ill, others came on, and I called in my family physician, Dr. Perkins. After an examination, he pronounced the illness to arise from worms, and prescribed Fahnestock's Vermifuge. After the child had taken a few doses, he discharged, at the first operation, Fifty-Three of the Largest Worms I ever saw in my life, and in the course of the day and evening he discharged between a quart and half a gallon of large worms.

He immediately got well, and has enjoyed good health since. It has had a good effect with my other children. You may use this certificate, for the benefit of the public.
