PITTSBURGH GAZETTE

AN EXPERIMENT WITH OSAGE ORANGE.—J. H. Alexander, of Washington, Ohio, gives a distinct and accurate statement of an experiment with a hedge, that will afford a valuable hint to most hedge raisers. His hedge was cut down during the first three years, respectively, within six, eighteen, and thirty-six inches of the ground. "At four years, it was 7 feet high, beautiful and impassable, except for small pigs." But it was not thick enough at bottom—it wanted more side shoots—the cutting produced shoots too few and too upright—the horizontal branches were deprived of vigor by the rapid growth of the leaders.

Armed with stout gloves and a fine tooth saw, he therefore cut the hedge down to stumps four inches high. When the first crop of shoots from these stumps had grown three inches, the tops were pinched off with thumb and finger.

"This stayed their progress until they could branch again, and it had a twofold effect.—First, it formed a second tier of branches just where they were needed, and where the old method could have formed them only after another season, by cutting away almost a whole year's growth. Second, it threw back the sap, which would have pushed up the rampant leaders; into the dormant buds on the stumps still nearer the ground than those which first started and were nipped. These new shoots, in coming up, had to spread somewhat horizontally. When they had grown about the length at which the first ones were stopped, they too were nipped. By this time (about two weeks after the first pinching,) those shoots which were first stopped, were breaking thickly and beautifully into side branches, the leaders of which were also pinched on when they had grown about four inches, stopping them until, in two weeks, they would branch and form the third tier, which the old method would have got by cutting down after another year.

Thus, before the end of the season, notwithstanding these checks, the hedge was again four feet high, presenting a wall of glossy foliage, and so thickly woven throughout with twigs and thorns as to be impassable by the smallest domestic animals. It is now two years old from the stumps, is seven feet high, and entirely satisfactory.

It should be remarked that the pinching need not be continued longer than until you have thickened your hedge to the height of about three feet. After securing this prime object, it will require less attention, and you can trim and shape it with knife and shears as you please.

Any one can, in this way, compel the Osage orange hedge to grow as thick at the bottom as he pleases.

The advantages are—that you can begin as low as you please, make as many shoots as you please, and secure the results of three years in one season.—I mean in getting the hedge thickly clothed at the bottom."

The tender tips of the young shoots are nipped with great ease and rapidity, yet in treating farm hedges by the mile, it may perhaps be sufficient to pass along with a sharp scythe and shave off the tips, repeating the process once or twice within a few days, when other shoots have sprung up high enough. A single operator for with thus go over miles in length in a single day.

It is recommended that the plants be allowed to grow untouched the first year, (having been cut down on setting out,) and that, the second season the pinching and thickening process be commenced. A hedge of large and strong roots, which had been four years in growing, like that just described, would of course spring up again more rapidly than with two year plants, and more than one year would be required to produce the same results with the younger plants.

We give these experiments the more prominence, because the great leading cause of failure in hedging, in the want of a very free and judicious cutting back. Neglected cultivation is nearly as formidable a cause of failure, but is a very simple process, and requires no specific directions.—Country Gentleman.

TO CURE A COLD, WITH HEADACHE AND SORENESS OF THE BODY—take the Cherry Pectoral on going to bed, and wrap up warm, to sweat during the night.

FOR A COLD AND COUGH, take the Pectoral night and morning, according to directions on the bottle and the difficulty will soon be removed. None will long suffer from this trouble when they find it can be easily cured. Where Pectoral sufficient with a seated cough, which breaks them off their rest at night, will find by taking the Pectoral at retiring to bed, they may be sure of sound, undisturbed sleep, and consequent healing power. Great as are the virtues of this remedy, it is offered to the sufferer at a price within the reach of all. No family should be without it, who are liable to colds, and who are thus afflicted, by this invaluable remedy.

From its agreeable effects in these cases, many find themselves unwilling to forego its use when the necessity for it has ceased.

TO SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS this remedy is invaluable, as by its action on the throat and lungs, when taken in small quantities, it removes all hoarseness in a few hours, and wonderfully increases the power and flexibility of the voice.

ASTHMA is generally much relieved, and often wholly cured by Cherry Pectoral. But there are cases of the most obstinate a to yield entirely to no medicine. Cherry Pectoral will even there if they are to be cured.

BRONCHITIS, or irritation of the throat and upper portion of the lungs, may be cured by taking Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses. This is a favorable complaint upon which to operate.

FOR CROUP—Give an emetic of ar timony, to be followed by large and frequent doses of the Cherry Pectoral, until it subdues the disease. If taken in season, it will not fail to cure.

WHOOPING COUGH may be broken up and soon cured by the use of Cherry Pectoral.

THE INFLUENZA is speedily removed by this remedy. Numerous instances have been known in which single families were protected from any serious consequences, while the disease was raging without the Cherry Pectoral, were entirely free from the disease.

Many of our readers are reported here of patients who have been cured.

LIVER COMPLAINTS by this remedy, so many that there can be no question of its power over this class of diseases. It should be perseveringly taken until the pain in the side and other unpleasant symptoms disappear.

FOR CONSUMPTION in its earliest stages, it should be taken as directed with the manifest knowledge that there is every case, with a careful regard to the printed directions on the bottle. It judiciously used in time, and perseveringly continued sometimes, it will seldom fail to subdue the disease.

FOR settled CONSUMPTION is its worst form, the Cherry Pectoral should be given in doses adapted to what the patient can bear, and often enough to afford the most relief, and can safely be given. Many are living to-day, and are over the country, who feel and say that they owe their lives and present health to the Cherry Pectoral.

After many years of trial, it is confidently offered to the public as a remedy for all kinds of pulmonary complaints, in the confidence that it will do for the sufferers, what originals and maintain the reputation it enjoys. While many of the worthless nostrums of the day have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can hardly estimate, and has called forth commendation and testimonials which cannot be forgotten.

While it is a fresh proof of the fact that any one medicine will infallibly cure—still there is abundant proof that the Cherry Pectoral does cure many complaints, that has before invariably cure the maladies for which it is employed.

As these facts become more facts wider and better known, the medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the log cabin of the American Peasant, to the palaces of European Kings.

Warren's Improved Fire and Water Proof Composition Roofing.
HAVING been for the last eleven years extensively engaged in the manufacture of the above roofing, for which time it has been tested under every variety of circumstances, and in every climate and portion of the United States, and it is now considered by all who have used it as the best roof ever offered to the public, and having been called upon by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to do a job in this city, I was induced to commence business in this city, and now propose to fill orders to any extent, and confidently offer our roofing to the patronage of the citizens of Pittsburgh and vicinity. In point of durability and perfect protection against both fire and water (under the most desirable roofing in use.

The weight for this roofing is from one half to one inch to the foot—but we can under favorable circumstances make it much lighter. Any person can put on the roof, and it will require no repairs. Any roof of any kind can be covered with it, and it will make a perfect fire proof roof. We are there re-covered—by the request of the insurance companies—a large number of slight roofs. We expend the location of some of our roofs, which may be examined. For further information and references, please call at our office, No. 56 Second st. All work warranted.

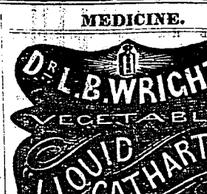
MEDICINE.



OR, PLEASANT FAMILY PHYSIC—As entirely vegetable preparation, pleasant to the taste, unequalled in its action upon the liver, Stomach, and general system. As an anti-bilious and Alterative Physic, this Medicine

HAS NO EQUAL IN THE WORLD.

I have used it constantly in my practice for upwards of 10 years in all cases where a good Physic and Alterative was required, and would not now do without it. It is the PHYSICIAN'S ASSISTANT,

As well as the safest family medicine to use. Children drink it with pleasure. It will not nauseate the weakest stomach. It produces no griping, but operates easily, thoroughly, and is sure to eradicate all impurities from the system of the most powerful constitution.

THOUSANDS OF LIVING WITNESSES

are ready to testify to its surprising virtues, independent of its portability and anti-bilious qualities. It has cured the worst cases of Scrofulous in a few days. It is for Headache, Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Kidney Complaint, Bilious Fever, Pains in the Side, Back, Breast and Limbs, Dizziness, Drowsiness, Chills and Fever, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Female Irregularities, Bowel Complaints, Ulcers of all kinds, &c. It cleanses by its superior medicinal virtues, the slimy matter and poisonous humors from the blood and corrupt bile from the stomach, carrying it off through the natural channels; it rejuvenates the blood and leaves the system healthy. I ask my friends to test the above Medicine, and pronounce a verdict as they shall be governed by the evidence. Those who know me professionally will not doubt its worth.

From its first introduction, no medicine has attained such wonderful popularity, and its sales have increased beyond the most sanguine hopes of its friends. Those who have used it recommend it as a safe and UNEQUALLED PHYSIC. CHILDREN will after one trial, and parents should use no other in their families. Physicians in large towns and country practice, will find it valuable in their practice, they have invariably given the most decided satisfaction, and proclaimed the most salutary and beneficial effects. Numerous letters have been received from the most distinguished physicians in the country, and from the professors of several medical colleges, recommending in the highest terms the valuable properties of this medicine and their superiority over all other preparations, and they complain as the proprietor recommends, that preparations of Sarsaparilla and other kindred medicines of no value, have been palmed upon the public, all of which of course will differ according to the mode of preparation, which each individual may adopt.

These medicines retains within itself all the virtues in the preparation and the employment of different menstrua in suspension or solution to take up the extractive matters, and operate upon the system, are most frequently improperly made, and in consequence, are most frequently improperly used, and not unfrequently rendered impaired, if not rendered totally inert, by the injudicious and unskillful management of those unacquainted with pharmaceutical preparations, and those unacquainted with pharmaceutical preparations, and therefore of the highest consideration and importance to the public and to the faculty that there should be established a standard of medicines of definite power, by standard preparations of a uniform strength and purity, and in the most safe manner. To effect this and obviate the evil alluded to, I have made a laborious set of experiments to ascertain, the most efficacious mode of extracting the virtues of the Sarsaparilla and Yellow Dock, and to discover the best eligible form for their exhibition. The experiments have been carefully and successfully made, and I am now able to offer to the American public, the most valuable and unrivalled compound of the kind ever before offered to the world, which I would respectfully invite the attention of the medical faculty and the public in general.
