question, and partakes not at all of a judicial character, you may properly express your opinions and exercise your rightful influence in regard to it. The exigency demands that we overlook mere forms. When fraud and violence stalk look mere forms of the fairest of the heritages.

To this I had but one word in reply, and that gard to it. The exigency demands that we overlook mere forms. When fraud and violence stalk abroad over one of the fairest of the heritages of Freemen, and when it is sought to plant Sisvery in the vitgin soil of that beautiful Territory at the pent of the bayonst, it is no time to talk of technicalides. The peace and honor of the country are not to be deferred to such considerations as these. The population of Kansas, before the beginning of another Congress, and possibly before the close of the present, will run up to 100,000, if the war of exclusion and extermination now going on there shall be suspended by so wholesome and patriotic amessure. But I must stop. If I should give way to my feelings, I should weary your patience. I hope my days may be prolonged to rise this consummation, so devoutly to bar lahed, and then I may say with a peculiar tinction my "name dimittar."

Yours most respectfully and truly, say with a peculiar tinction my "name dimittar."

Immediately there was a cry for "The reput."

These were speedily brought to take "You do not intend to kill me in this manner, do you?"

The this I had but one word in reply, "Now a cay for "The reput."

"What's your name?"
"C. H. Barlow."
"Where do you live?" "In Lawrence 'Where are you from?"

"Where are you from?"
"Waterbury, Connecticut."
"What are your politics?"
"I am a Free State man."
"How much money did that d—ned Emigrant Aid Society give you, to come out here?"
"Neither; I brought no gun of any kind to the Territory."
"What the hell did you come out here for?"
"Why to get a home and make money."
"And to make Kanssa a Free State?"
"That's my intention now I am here."
"Why did'nt you go to Nebraska; that's a good country, and you d—d Yankees may have times of storm and peril, that the fearful and the faithful raturally turn to such as you for safety. The present Congress ought not to adjourn without admitting Kansas as a Free State. You are on the spot, and as this is purely a political question, and partakes not at all of a judicial character, you may properly express your contact of the spot, and partakes not at all of a judicial character, you may properly express your contact of the spot, interlarded with impious oaths and a specific contact of the spot, interlarded with impious oaths and a specific contact of the spot, and you do do not not specify and you do do country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do not have a good country, and you do do Nebraska; that's a good country, and you do not have a good countr or no Union!"

"That's a game that won't win I'm thinking."
After much more of this sort, interlarded with impious oaths and ruffianly threats, I was asked:

"If we'll let you go, will you take a gun and march with the Pro-Slavery party!"
