"Rector of the Parish of the Epiphany, Washington, D. C."
It will be noticed that these baptisms of Col. Fremont's children were not performed privately, a bit publicly in the church, before all the world who chose to look on, to listen to the vows of the parents and sponsors that they abould be brougt up in the faith of the Church, Among the sponsors of these children were Col. Benton, Kit Carson, Capt. Lee, U. H. M., Francis P. Biair, and Col. Fremont himself (a strong point, as a Catholic could not promise such things;) and Mr. Biair, who has known Col. Fremont for many years intimately, is astonished at the persistent attempts to force him to be a Catholic spaint his will, when he has known him always to be a Protestant and to repeatedly declare himself.

soigh, a few years after the Colonel. Indeed, his willingness to marry, in meritorious cases, without license or catechism, was well known in those days in Washington.

Frement holds a pew in a Catholic church in Washington City, that he has partially incharged in the Washington City, that he has partially incharged have the alightest foundation in these charges have the alightest foundation in these charges have the alightest foundation in the washington of these charges have the alightest foundation in the washington of these charges have the alightest foundation in the washington of these charges have the alightest foundation in the washington of these clanders, has attended as a witness of Catholic church, that I can safely assert that Mr. Fillmore, whose injudicious friends are most assiduted as a streng force of first rate methals on in the circulation of these elanders, has attended as a witness of Catholic service TER TIMES as often as Col. Fremont.

I will not further trespass on your columns except to allude to the ramor, circulated but a short month since, that he had given in his adhesion to all the doctrines of the American party, and would run if nominated by the North Americans alone. This was denied and knocked in the head by the very Committee, to whom it was said he had made the pledge; and now his ensemies fly to the other extreme and hold him up as a Catholic. The stories give the lie to each other, and both are abundantly proven to be false. He has denounced no party and no church; but he stands, an American by birth and a Protestant by conviction, the representative of the great principle of Free Territories and Protestant by conviction, the representative of the great principle of Free Territories and Protestant by conviction, the representative of the great principle of Free Territories and Protestant by conviction, the representative of the great principle of Free Territories and Protestant by conviction, the representative of the
