And the parents of her present pupils.

THIS INSTITUTION (formerly a Day and Boarding School) is situated in one of the most fashionable and healthy locations in the city, commanding a fine view of Allegheny City and surrounding scenery. A lot adjacent to the building has been secured, which will give ample room for recreation, and afford an opportunity for each young lady to cultivate a flower garden for the prosecution of Botany. The building has been newly refitted, and the rooms are large and well ventilated.

Only FORTY Boarders (including day scholars) will be admitted, who will find in this Institution the comforts of home, with all the advantages for obtaining a superior education.

The Principal's intention in taking a limited number, is to be able to give a mother's personal attention to those committed to her charge, and at the same time to combine the duties of woman's life; for it will be her care, while conducting a home of a strictly department of useful and elegant learning, practical importance, to make of her pupils those whom a fastidious world can most delight to honor.

The services of Teachers and Professors of long experience have been secured for the coming year.

Besides Latin will be thorough English education, French, Italian, Spanish and Germ n will be given in the languages.

Lectures will occasionally be given on Chemistry and other physical sciences, illustrated by and able apparatus.

Regular pupils will have access to a well selected Library.

Arrangements have been made during the summer and autumn, to visit the country once a week.

The limited number will admit of a full examination of the mode of instruction pursued in this Institution previous to it, that the advantages will not be surpassed elsewhere.

The next Session will commence on MONDAY, the 1st of September, 1856. Applications must be made a few weeks before.

ADDISTON, &c

It is desirable, when possible, that application for admission should be made before the commencement of the Term, and that information be furnished in regard to the age and previous habits of the applicant, as progress in study, in the limited time it will probably remain—those who do not contemplate finishing the course, will find their studies as they now stand, and so are indeed most profitable to them; but none will be admitted for a less period than six months, unless by previous arrangement.

Unusual sickness has proved, that absence from school, in Term time, is very injurious, not only to those who are absent, but also to those who remain; and prejudicial to the interests of all concerned. It is, therefore, especially requested of parents, not to have absence, except in cases of pressing necessity. Visiters admitted on Saturday.

Though all pupils will be required to unite in family worship, yet it is with delight to the children that they are taken to attend on Sunday. One of the teachers will accompany them, and she is requested not to visit them in the institute.

Each young lady boarding in the family is expected to furnish herself with towels and table napkins for her own use, and is required to have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her initials name.

It is desirable that carpets, on leaving home, should be supplied with a double set of fasteners; they will assist for the rest to burn in cases where this is impossible, new ones will be purchased, if requested, and the bill handed in for repayment with the rest of the furnishing. A few good quilts have by invitation, been tied to set as Term, and it will be the Principal's pleasure to do so in the general interests of the institution.
