RAILROAD-STARTLING AFFAIRS.—As our forms are not kept open on Sunday, we are indebted to the Dispatch for the following items occurring on that day:—

"On Sunday afternoon, about four o'clock, Allen Drake, a young Englishman, who has been engaged for some time in the West Point Forge, on Water street, went into the house of Robert Alexander, on the corner of First and Liberty streets, where he met John Stanton, alias "Gandy Jack," who is engaged in the same establishment, and with whom Drake is reported to have quarrelled on Saturday night. Drake entered the room and picked up a small brush, when Stanton went to him, and catching hold of the brush endeavored to take it from him. Drake held on to the brush, when Tom. Morgan, who was present, seeing they would get into a fight, with a fight, caught hold of Stanton and separated them. Drake then went to the door, where he stood for some time talking to those in the room, when Morgan (supposing the dispute was settled) let Stanton loose, but Stanton was no sooner released than he drew a knife (the blade of which is about four inches long) and attacked Drake; a scuffle ensued, during which Stanton stabbed Drake in the left side, nearly severing the lower rib; they then separated, when Morgan caught hold of Stanton and took the knife from him, but receiving no assistance from those who were present, was unable to arrest him.—Stanton immediately left the house, and has not been heard of since. Doctors Murdock and Wood were called in and dressed Drake's injuries, which (as the entrails protruded from the wound) may consider of a dangerous character. Drake was subsequently taken to Dr. Walter's Hospital, on Boyd's Hill.

"On Sunday afternoon a fight came off in a board-yard, on Washington street, near Pennsylvania Avenue, in which Peter Metz, a glass-blower employed at Phillips' glass works, on Second street, received three stabs at the hands of Thomas Sheridan, another glass-blower, of the Fort Pitt Works, one in the back of his head, and one in each thigh. An old woman residing near, seeing the affray interfered, and parted the combatants, and Sheridan made his escape. Metz was attended by Dr. Walter, who pronounces his injuries severe, but not likely to prove fatal.

"On Sunday morning about day break, as John Giles, a boiler, residing below the mouth of Girty's Run, in Duquesne borough, was turning over in his bed, and debating with his wife the propriety of getting up, some scoundrel sprung upon him, and before he recovered from the surprise incident to such an assault, inflicted a stab on him with a dirk or knife, the blade of which passed through the body of his arm. The fellow then made his escape, and Mr. Giles, after binding his wound and examining his premises he found that his trunk had been broken open and robbed of forty or fifty dollars and that the pockets of a sailor named Wm. G. Taylor, boarding and sleeping in the same establishment, and with whom Drake is reported to have quarrelled on Saturday night. SUSPECTED MURDER.—The Dispatch says:—Early on Sunday morning a man named John Taylor was arrested by the watch, on suspicion of having murdered Daniel Brennan. John Gallagher, a friend of Brennan, made information at the Mayor's office that Brennan, who was a pedlar, and a stranger in the city, had been missing since Saturday morning—and, as he had a considerable amount of money in his possession, and was last seen in company with Taylor, he believed the latter had robbed and murdered him. This was rather a violent presumption on so slim an array of facts, but Taylor was held for a hearing on Monday afternoon.

Yesterday morning Brennan appeared in propria persona to relieve his friend, his supposed murderer. Taylor was thereupon discharged.

POCKET PICKING.—A man named John D'Brien was arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing four $10 and two $5 notes from Patrick Caton, a passenger on a train from the east on the 23d. Caton fell asleep at Conemaugh, and the robbery was committed there. One of the $5 bills was recovered at a drinking house in this city, where it had been paid out by the prisoner. He was committed.

COMMITTED TO JAIL.—Yesterday High Constable King made oath yesterday before Mayor Bingham, against Sarah Ellen Curling, alias Toner, the woman who is now under bail for the abduction of Mary Crosby, and Ann Smith, for keeping and aiding to keep a house of ill fame. They were arrested and committed.

FAIRMONT POLE RAISING.—A beautiful pole, to which we have before alluded, will be raised this afternoon on South Common, at the foot of Bowers-st., 1st Ward, Allegheny. The flag will be run up at half-past seven o'clock. Distinguished speakers will be in attendance.

RATIFICATION MEETING.—A large audience assembled on Oregon-st. last evening to ratify the county nominations. Speeches were made by Messrs. Howard, Smith, Wilson of Beaver, and others.

MEETING IN THE SIXTH WARD.—There will be a FREMONT meeting in the Sixth Ward, on to-morrow (Wednesday) evening, on the lot adjoining the Good Intent Engine House. A number of speakers and a Glee Club will be present.

THE TURNERS.—This day will commence the national gathering of Turners for this year. Some five hundred members of the order will be present. To-night there will be a grand torch-light procession.
