After his death, Phillips came up and addressing himself to those standing by, said: "What was this man killed for?" "He was found in bad company," was the only answer.

Our informant says the city is nearly deserted; no business is doing. Many of the stores have been closed for weeks, and the citizens were all anxious to get away.

LATER PARTICULARS FROM LEAVENWORTH.

The Steamer Emma, which arrived here yesterday with later news than that by the Polar Star, brought down quite a number of the citizens of Leavenworth, who had been compelled to give up their homes and fly for their lives. We heard several of the names of these persons, but do not feel at liberty to publish them. There is no doubt however, of the fact of their having been driven from their homes, and we hope some of the gentlemen who are now in the city may be induced to give the public a full and explicit statement of the condition of things at Leavenworth city, over their own signatures, so that there may be no mistake or possibility of error. It is time that the truth and the whole truth should be known by our citizens. We learn that the mob under Emery have full possession of Leavenworth, and have put every man of the Free State party, and many who are but moderate pro-slavery men, to the test, as follows: "Will you take up arms and fight the d—d abolitionists, or will you quit the Territory?"—The alternatives are terrible, and a majority have adopted the latter, some of whom are now in this city, having brought away their families and left all their possessions behind, without the least security in the world that they will be preserved.

We here close our accounts from Kansas.—What next, must be the common inquiry? We shall wait with fearful apprehensions.

PROF. ROBERT W. WEIR of West Point having permitted himself to be cited as the responsible author of a statement that Col. Fremont once, at West Point, declined a proffered present of an Episcopal prayer book, giving as a reason that he was a Roman Catholic, Mr. Gray, a friend of Col. Fremont, has addressed the following letter.

To the Editors of The Evening Post.

Professor R. W. Weir having seen proper to publish in The Express a letter which he had addressed to me in reference to Col. Fremont's religion, I deem it due to myself to make the following statement with a view to correct, as far as possible the false impression to which its publication there is calculated to give rise.

The following article appeared in The Troy Whig a few weeks since:

FREMONT'S ROMANISM—MORE PROOF.—The following statement has been handed us by a responsible party in this city:

"Before Col. Fremont left on his last trip to the Far West, he was at West Point, where he spent a short time. A friend of his there offered him a prayer book, such as is used by Episcopalians. He courteously declined to receive it. It is time that the truth and the whole truth should be known by our citizens. We learn that the mob under Emery have full possession of Leavenworth, and have put every man of the Free State party, and many who are but moderate pro-slavery men, to the test, as follows: "Will you take up arms and fight the d—d abolitionists, or will you quit the Territory?"—The alternatives are terrible, and a majority have adopted the latter, some of whom are now in this city, having brought away their families and left all their possessions behind, without the least security in the world that they will be preserved.
