removed that fact becomes apparent; and in that fact we find the problem which only the future can solve.

The task of our wily political opponents, under such circumstances, is to search for and find the weak spots in our ranks, and penetrate there to the separation of such elements as have preserved their distinctness—to play off those who have been whigs against these who, a brendemorata, and to take advantage, who, a brendemorata, and to take advantage, who, a brendemorata, and to take advantage, and array one portion of the party against another. It is this imidious policy of the enemy which we have most of all to dread; and unless the Republicans of this city, in their ward duction.

In the elections that take place to-morrow and on the Tuesday following, the Republican party of the city will endure the first test of featy to its principles. If its members falter and fall back, then, for the mere gratification of, individual feeling, they will find it exceedingly tilling cult, afterwards, to rally effectively for other trials. They must, if they would render success certain, both present and falture, rise superior to all such feelings, throw aside personal preformers for the party good, and marganimovsly tions to discussion; it is they who have sought derived from its discoveries. to crowd the recognition of a hateful and bar-

We are not taking sides in this matter, for or sgainst any one. Our mission is to counsel union and harmony whorever practicable, and to discountenance all factious movements by refusing to take part in them. There is no parity whatever between this and the Allegheny case. The latter is a quarrel over two nominations, both elaiming to be regular, while this is merely to a ticket conceded to be rogular.

We have done our duty in advising against any such resistance and incolesting a spirit of concession and harmony; and declining to be drawn into any contriversy about persons or collateral incidents, we leave the matter to be decided by the Ropublicans of the ward, in the light of that high duty which they owe their principles and the cause of human freedom.
