Correspondence between Gen. Scott and Becretary Davis.
The correspondence, as communicated to Congress, opens with a letter from General Scott, dated July 20, 1855, in which he says:
"Certainly as Secretary of War you have cough to warrant more than a surjetion that from the first you had considered it your epecial mission, by repeated aggression on my rights and feelings, to good me into some perilous attitude of official opposition."
Then follows a lengthy enditement against the Secretary, containing eight distinct counts, setting forth official acts of that officer, such as issuing orders, &a., to frontier posts, done without his (General Scott his document was referred to the President, and referred without comment.
