DUFF's MERCARTILE COLLEGE, PITTEBURGH.—
This institution has been for many years condected by the author of Duff's book-keeping, a work which every business man who aspires to the highest aim of an hourable merchant's ambition should read; and every accountant who desires, speedily, to reach the first class in his profession, should study. A few lessons from the author of such a work, will do more to develop the capacity of the commercial study. The Revolutionists have taken possession of the Chincha Islands.

Along list whole extend it is settled by some of our most respectable and generous citizens who daily travel back and forward to the Court House, Custom House, Market Houses, Post Office, and other places as their business may call them. I think very little opposition would be offered to this enterprise, except by a few marrow hearted men, who are opposed to every improvement-for four of a few dollars cost. I think the damages by opaning Avenue would be amall in comparison with the advantages derived from it. I for one am heartily in favor of have found from it. This is St. Valentine's Day, named in honor of a celebrated priest of Rome, who became a martyr to his religion on the fourteenth of this month. The day was originally celebrated by the Pagens as the feast of Lupercella, among the ceremonies of which was a game, in which the young people of opposite soxes chose mates by lot, in sport, and was changed to the feast of St. Valentine by the Christians. It would be a hard task, however, to trace the history of the present manner of celebrating it.
