The Legislature of Maine have passed a general banking bill, providing for the re-incorporation of sixty five of the Banks now in operation. The new law does away with the special charter feature of the banking system, reducing the whole to one code; whereby Banks must make monthly statements for publication instead of semi-anually. Their circulation is limited to fifty per cent. beyond their capital. They are required to keep an hand only five per cent of their capital in species (20 per cent. would be better.) Missouri, Louisians, and other States are making a similar reform in their banking laws, in lieu of the old system of special charters.

We are glad that the Legislature have passed a law debarring slave catchers from the use of NO. 60 WOOD STREET.
