Terms osch. mr21y neyite Yearly Meeting in Ohlo, with Benjamin Hoyle as its clork, which has been cast out of the brotherhood by all orthodox Quakerdom, except the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting, which it, appears, has recognised it as sound in the faith by corresponding with it. This matter of Yearly Meeting correspondence among Friends is regarded as highly important; and to correspond with an heretical society is to become heretical. The Review is of oplaion that "the yearly meeting of Philadelphia may be considered as having, by this recognition of the meeting of which Benjamin Hoyle is clerk, isolated itself from the great body of the Society of Friends" It adds that "these views have been distinctly arowed and soted upon by several of the yearly meetings in this country. In 1855, and again, on deliberate reconsideration, in 1856, North Carolina Yearly Meeting anited in the belief that while Philadelphia Yearly Meeting continues to correspond with that body in Ohio of which Benjamin Hoyle is alerk we cannot consistently hold further splatolary correspondence with them.'
