PITTSBURGH:

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 2, 1857.

READING MATTER ON EACH PAGE OF THIS PAPER.

The County Convention of June 10th.

We had intended to address the readers of our weekly edition at considerable length upon the subject of the County Convention called to assemble on the 10th inst.; but as one of the editors is sick, and another has gone to the St. Louis railroad opening, the other finds his hands so full that he cannot devote to this subject the attention it deserves and which we would otherwise pay to it.

The primary meetings to elect delegates to this Convention will be held on Saturday next, according to the terms of the call, and the delegates will assemble on the succeeding Wednesday. The object of the Convention is stated, in very general terms, to take into consideration the late action of the County Commissioners in making a levy of eight mills on the dollar for county purposes—just double the levy of last year.

The power of the Commissioners to make this levy for county purposes is undoubted, the law giving them authority to levy any amount not exceeding ten mills on the dollar. The Convention, of course, will have no power to coerce a reduction of it; but the Commissioners will feel bound, doubtless, to give heed to any respectful and proper suggestions emanating from such a gathering of the people.

The object of the ingressed levy is understood by every body, we presume, to be for the purpose of providing the means of paying the interest on the county bonds issued to the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad and the Allegheny Valley Railroad. The bonds amount to $1,200,000, and the annual interest to $72,000; but as the interest on these bonds for a part of last year had to be provided for after the county levy for that year had been made, the Commissioners borrowed the needed amount, and thus the burden of two years is thrown into one. The amount of money thus temporarily borrowed we understand to be about $40,000; and this would make a sum of $112,000 to be provided for, this year, in addition to the ordinary expenses of the county.

The purposes of this convention have not been fully defined, and we cannot therefore anticipate what questions will come before it, or what its probable course will be. Being measurably in the dark, therefore, we can only allude to it in general terms, or refer to the common rumors which are afloat concerning it.

That the tax is a heavy one and hard and grievous to be borne, is a fact which no one we presume will question. The Convention may very properly enquire, as we trust it will, whether the Commissioners cannot possibly get along with less than an eight mill levy: and if this be at all within the bounds of possibility, regard for the interests of a very heavily-taxed people ought to prompt a reduction to the lowest limit that the safety of the credit of the county will allow.

The question is to be raised, we are told, whether the power to levy up to ten mills "for county purposes," properly includes the right to class the payment of interest on bonds issued to railroads as one of the "purposes" for which the power was given. On this point we have not room, now, to enter. The Commissioners have decided that it does; and the Convention will be asked, we understand, to take ground to the contrary.

If is the , irpose of the Convention to learn fully, and in the utmost minuteness of detail, why the Commissioners have made this extraordinary levy, and to inquire whether it is not compatible with the interests of the County to make the burden lighter, there can be no objection properly interposed. That is not only a legitimate, but, at the present time, a necessary inquiry. The people have a right to know all the facts in the case before submitting to a doubling of their taxes, and to devise, if they can, an honorable method of escape.

If it is further the purpose to investigate honestly and without fear or favor, the whole history of our unfortunate railroad subscriptions, we trust no one will say the Convention may. The interests involved are so vast and the results to the people so serious, that such an investigation, if it is desired and can be made, ought to be carried forward promptly and without hindrance from any quarter.

But if it is the purpose to inaugurate Repudiation, by preventing the payment of the railroad interest simply because it is a burden hard to bear, then we desire to wash our hands of it and to put in our protest in advance. We know and feel how terrible it is to carry this load of taxation, but infinitely more terrible will it be to carry a dishonored name. Whatever the people, goaded to desperation by the thought of heavy taxation, may be tempted to do, as the conductor of a press having the reputation and good name of the county at heart we take a firm stand, once for all, against Repudi ation or anything that has the semblance of it. Let the most thorough and searching investigation be instituted: that is the people's due; but Repudiation is a word which, at the present time, we should hide from our sight.

Our readers will see, therefore, that, in any view, this Convention is an important one. It is so important that, in fact, busy as the season is in the country, the people everywhere should drop spade, hoe and plow, and attend the primary meetings on Saturday next. Let them send up to the Convention their most prudent, safe and reliable men—men in whose judgment they can trust and who will dare to institute and to carry forward any investigation that may be needed, but who yet will not act rashly; for a false step taken now we may not be able to retrace for generations to come.

INTEREST ON PITTSBURGH RAILROAD BONDS.—In announcing the defeat of the Tax Bill in the legislature, some time since, we stated that the present income of the city, which is all it can raise, would not suffice to pay any part of the railroad interest; and unless new sources of revenue were provided by the legislature, the interest could not be paid. The N. Y. Courier & Enquirer copies our statement, and adds:

"This is certainly a most extraordinary avowal, and indicates (at least) a lack of the common principles of honesty. The public journals of Pittsburgh or any other city, should not acknowledge such a necessity, without appealing strongly to the citizens to avoid such a calamity as REPUDIATION. Certainly, taxation even at this late hour, would cure the evil."

Certainly it would, if the city had any power to levy it. That she has not this power is no fault of hers. She has twice stated to the legislature her embarrassed and powerless position, and craved the authority necessary to provide for paying the interest on her bonds, and twice has the legislature refused her the power asked for. What, then, is the city to do? She cannot levy taxes without legislative authority. Her revenue from present taxation has been specifically set apart, by State legislative action, to the payment of the interest on the municipal debt contracted prior to the railroad subscriptions, and by the same action the city is restrained from borrowing any more money for municipal purposes. She is thus tied hand and foot, and no appeal to the citizens can work a remedy.—The municipal authorities have done all they can do, and the public journals have nothing left them but the melancholy duty of stating the unpleasant facts of the case. If the eastern journals either cannot or will not understand these facts, their obtuseness or stubbornness may increase the misfortunes, but cannot multiply the faults, of the city.

JUDGE CUNNINGHAM.—We published yesterday an extract from a Kansas letter expressing a fear that Judge CUNNINGHAM had been murdered in that territory, as he had not been heard of for some time. We are pleased to learn that Judge CUNNINGHAM is safely at home in Beaver county, and that he has been there for some time.

Sugar.

If the developments made by the Boston Society of Natural History be trustworthy, there is little to be hoped for from the cultivation of the Chinese Sugar Cane in this country. It was stated, there, by Dr. Hays, who had put the matter to scientific tests, that the Sorghum cultivated in this country does not secrete sugar cane, or true sugar, its saccharine matter being purely glucose in a semi-fluid form. For sweetening properties nearly four pounds of this glucose would be required to equal one of true sugar; but as a raw material for the production of spirit and as an addition to the forage crop, the plant may be found to have a high economical importance

Prof. John Bacon confirmed the results at which Dr. Hayes had arrived. He was unable to obtain any crystals of cane sugar in the Sorghum.

Taking this for granted, the cultivation of the Sorghum affords no prospect of cheap sugar We must look to other sources for it.

Sugar has become almost a necessary of life in this country. The American people use more of it than any similar number of people elsewhere in the world, and so long as they are prosperous and well-to-do in worldly matters they are not likely to give up the use of it, voluntarily. But what, if the production does not keep pace with the demand? The partial failure of the Louisiana Sugar crop, last year, has brought in immense supplies from the West India islands; but still the prices keep up to a point extremely hard upon the poor man's pocket. Stimulated by scarcity and high prices the production of maple Sugar has gone up from 34,000,000 lbs. in 1850 to 100,000,000 lbs. in 1857; and still prices are unaffected. The supply, increased as it thus has been from other sources, is still inadequate.

The production of Cane Sugar in the United States in 1850 was 237,150,000 lbs. The product of last year did not exceed 100,000,000 lbs. What the probable yield of this year may be it is too soon yet to say; but the experience of two years past ought to be sufficient to teach us not to rely absolutely upon Louisiana for Sugar, and to look for domestic source of supply, if it is possible to find them. If Sorgum will not do, let us fall back upon a more enlarged attention to the Maple, a tree which the North yields so abundantly.

The product from this source for the present year, it will be seen, is fully up to that from the Sugar Cane last year. This has all been obtained by simply going into the forests and drawing the sap, without any care or trouble in regard to cultivation. If so much can be done in this loose, easy manner, how much more might be done if the culture of the sugar maple tree, and the planting of nurseries or groves of it, were made a matter of special care. It would be years before the young trees would be productive; but the next generation would be immensely the gainers from a more extensive propagation of this valuable tree, which may, in the process of clearing the forests, become one of the scarcest in the country. At present there are undoubtedly enough sugar maple trees to supply the whole people of the United States with sugar, if there were but better means employed to obtain it. The sugar-making is generally treated more as a spring amusement among country folks, than as a means of profit, and there is no well organized system adopted in regard to it.

The Northern counties of this State produce the Maple in abundance, and the making of sugar might there be extended to a high point of production. The same is true of Michigan and Wisconsin; and through all parts of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, wherever the maple has been left standing, the manufacture might be largely increased. It requires but little care to preserve such trees; and the experience of the present year has shown that an acre of Maple trees will yield more profit, if tightfully attended to, than any other acre on a man's farm. It is to be hoped that the people of the Northern States will hereafter learn to place a higher value upon a tree that has such riches coursing through its veins.

A SILLY STORY.—The Baltimore American preaches a homily from which the following is an extract, founded upon a text drawn from a recent oration of John Tyler:

"We have reason to know that some of the most pious of our Abolition friends now enjoy the comforts of palatial mansions, handsome incomes, and superb seaside estates which owe their origin to the same 'profits of blood,' and in some instances, where the slave-trade with the Southern States of the 'middle passage' is the source, the figure might be heightened as our friends referred to sometimes heighten it, and these mansions and estates might be said to be cemented and watered with blood. But in instance of this kind is recalled by Ex-President Tyler, in his recent address at the Jamestown celebration. He said he had knowledge of the fact, that the splendid palace of Girard, in New York City, was built upon the sale of three thousand slaves who had been sent to New-York to be emancipated."

The New-York Times thus disposes of this fabrication:

"If 3,000 slaves were ever sent to New-York to be emancipated we cannot conceive by what possible process the profits of the transaction could have been transmuted into Stewart's marble store. No such story happens to be an enterprising Irishman, who has made a large fortune by legitimately buying and selling calicos, ginghams and mohr a antiques. Out of the profits of his business he has built his splendid palace,' and the orator at Jamestown must have been imposed upon most shamefully by somebody who told him the story about the 3,000 slaves."

THE FRENCH CENSUS.—The census recently taken in France has developed facts in regard to the condition of that empire, which has alarmed its editors and statesmen, and set them all to thinking and talking at a wonderful rate. The population between the years 1851 and 1856 has only shown a slight increase, whilst the births and deaths are nearly equal. What is still more alarming, the cities, or consuming districts, are growing in population at the expense of the rural or producing region—a circumstance which is by no means encouraging to France, where scarcity of food is a sure precursor of a revolution. A Frenchman is never so fierce as when he is hungry, and the French General knew what he was talking about when he said that the best way to disperse a Parisian mob was to keep them in arms until meal time, and then offer them a plenteous supply of food and drink.

The increase in population of the cities at the expense of the country is attributed to the railroads, which make them the depots of the trade and commerce, and from their cheapness and facility in transportation, attract a large number of agricultural laborers, who exchange their agricultural employments for professional and mechanical pursuits. This is evidently the case. New York, it appears from the last census, has gained its enormous populations, at the expense of the interior towns and settlements of the State, and the same, no doubt, may be said of other metropolitan cities.

☞ We printed, yesterday, a large extra edition of our paper, to send to our friends, as a specimen of our new and beautiful dress; but as it was all taken up at an early hour we send them to-day's paper, and shall be happy to receive their aid in extending our circulation and patronage. We feel justly proud of the neat and trim appearance of the GAZETTE, and having every confidence in the principles it advocates, we trust we shall not be considered officious in commending it to the good graces of those who may receive it.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A WHITE DOCTOR AND A BLACK "NIGGER."—The two following cases certainly do exhibit justice in two different lights white and black, I suppose:

"SENTENCE OF DR. BIEGLER.—Judge Clinton, of the Court of Oyer and Terminer at Buffalo, sentenced Dr. Biegler to be imprisoned at hard labor in the State prison at Auburn, for the term of seven years. The prisoner had been convicted of causing the death of Amelia Murr and child by criminal practices."

The subjoined item is from the Cambridge (Md.) Democrat of the 18th:

"SAM GREEN.—In this case of the State vs. Sam Green, (free negro,) who was tried at the April term of the Circuit Court of this county for having in his possession Abolition pamphlets, among which was 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,' has been found guilty by the court, and sentenced to the Penitentiary for the term of ten years—until the 14th day of May, 1867."

Without attempting to decide upon the merits of these two sentences upon the Doctor and Sam, I will only say that it is very clear that a "nigger" in a Slave State, who undertakes to keep such a book as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is much surer of getting justice "heaped measure," than the white Doctor who by criminal practices destroys a mother and her child." The peculiar institution" does certainly beget a very peculiar vigilance and sternness in enforcing the law against "niggers." White men may sometimes steal a horse, where a "nigger" dare not look over the fence. C.

WM. E. STEVENSON, Esq.—Master, Editor of Gazette—I have learned that this gentleman will decline a nomination for the Legislature—I should much regret to lose the services of one who has so fully realized the hopes of his friends—proved himself faithful, incorruptible and efficient—and if not entirely incompatible with his private interests I trust he may reconsider his determination. REPUBLICAN.

DIED—On Monday, the 1st inst., ANDREW BURKE, infant son of Owen and Ann Nash, aged 1 month and 29 days.

The funeral will take place this afternoon, at 4 o'clock P. M., from the residence of his parents, on Fifth street, Allegheny.

Special Notices.

Age and Debility.—Accidents occurring to bring with it many attendant infirmities. Loss of appetite and weakness impair the health and unfit a person makes the mind dissatisfied and unhappy. In cases where old age adds its influence, it is almost impossible to add vigor and health, and although many remedies have been tried, all have failed, until BERRIAN'S HOLLAND BITTERS were known and used. In every case where they have been employed, the most invariably proven, and restored the appetite. They have become a great favorite for this alone, and are daily being used by those who are suffering from loss of appetite and general debility, or from long standing chronic diseases. They are an invigorating tonic, exciting the system, thus causing nature herself, gradually to repair physical injury.

To Consumptives and other Invalids!

APPOINTMENT EXTENDED TO JULY 15th.

Dr. C. M. FITCH and J. W. SYKES,

Have concluded to extend their visit to Pittsburgh till SATURDAY EVENING, July 15th, and will remain at the ST. CLAIR HOTEL, where they may be consulted by those wishing to avail themselves of Dr. Fitch's system of treatment.

The combination of powerful remedies adopted by Dr. Fitch and Dr. Sykes has been eminently successful, and so directly present to the disease that it cannot fail to check the progress, and in a majority of cases, that do not hesitate to assert that no disease is beyond the reach of remedies.

By the use of the celebrated Cylinder Apparatus, Medicated Steam, &c., Inhalations is added to that of suppuration in most diseases. Localities and organs the seat of the disease are reached by each and the whole such medicine is made to penetrate the most delicate tissues of the system, and thus cure where failure is certain by any partial and temporary remedy could be applied. Hence the success of the above mentioned physicians.

But although many otherwise fatal cases of consumption may be cured, there are still many which could be relieved and their lives prolonged, and these include a large majority of the above mentioned diseases, and to such medicine is made to act directly upon the seat of disease, and thus cure where it is impossible to do so in any other way.

Those wishing to consult the above physicians, can address their cases fully, and in a few days, our published list of questions sent to them in reply, by requesting it and the necessary remedy can be had. Diseases of the lungs and stomach, or Female Diseases, may be sent by Express to almost any part of the United States. Consultation Free—office hours, 10 to 4 o'clock, daily.

St. Clair Hotel, Pittsburgh, May 13th, 1857.
